MAN ADMITS KILLING HIS SECRET BRIDE AND ESCORT

East St. Louis Constable Says He Shot Pair to Death in Automobile and Threw Revolver in Lake at Park.

ASSERTS HE FIRED IN SELF-DEFENSE

Mrs. Wilma W. Hamilton, 23, and Thomas Grissom, 29, Business Agent for Chauffeurs' Union Are Victims.

East St. Louis police announced at 10:35 a. m. today that John Hamilton, an East St. Louis constable and Democratic candidate for the Board of Review, had admitted killing his secret wife, Mrs. Wilma Woods Hamilton and Thomas Grissom, business agent of the East St. Louis Teamsters' and Chauffeurs' Union, in Grissom's automobile early yesterday.

His statement came when police resumed their questioning this morning after talking to him nearly all of yesterday and last night and after they had gathered a mass of circumstantial evidence pointing to him alone.

In his oral statement to police, Hamilton was quoted as saying that he fired at Grissom in self-defense after the labor leader had pointed a pistol at him, and that he had no intention of shooting his wife.

Woman Shot Four Times.

Mrs. Hamilton, who was 23 years old, had not disclosed her marriage to Hamilton two and a half years ago until she confided in her mother last Wednesday. She was shot four times in the chest. Grissom, who was 29 years old and had been separated from his wife for about two years, was shot twice in the right side of the face and left shoulder.

"I was on my way home from the Broadview Hotel," Night Chief of Police Sam Strautz quoted Hamilton as saying, "when I saw a car coming toward me on State street near Twenty-second. Before the car turned left into Twenty-second in front of me, the lights of my machine shined on it and I recognized Grissom and my wife."

"Grissom called out, 'Come on down here—I want to see you,' but I drove to my wife's home at 437 Twenty-second by another route, assuming I'd meet them there. When I got there I walked over to Grissom's car, but he started up and I turned around in my car and followed him a short distance, pulling alongside at the right. I got out and walked to the right side of his machine and asked him what he wanted with me."

Says Grissom Had Pistol. "Grissom had a .45 automatic on his lap and appeared to be very drunk. He started cursing me, saying, 'I've got your wife in here, you automatic and pointed it at me, because it didn't go off.'"

"Then I drew my revolver from the holster and started shooting. I never intended to shoot her—she was to duck behind Grissom. His car started forward and rolled a little way. I went up to it, took his pistol and pulled him out, intending to take him to a hospital. I saw then that he was dead and she was too."

"So I drove out to Lake Park just south of East St. Louis, and threw both guns as far out into the lake as I could. Back home I got nervous and excited. I realized I might be questioned, so I took an unregistered shotgun I had there and went out in my underwear and hid in a coal car."

Neighbor Told About Shotgun. Police had been puzzled over the statement of a neighbor of Hamilton, who had said he saw the Constable leave his home at 916 North Twenty-seventh street about 5 a. m. yesterday, clad only in his underwear and carrying a sawed-off shotgun, who was buried in a pile of coal.

Grissom's pistol was recovered at noon today by life guards, and was found several hours before the weapons were in silt in 10 feet of water.

A swimmer, presumably Grissom, was recovered from the weapons, but police halted the proceedings when it was suggested that he might have lost his life by drowning. The swimmer formerly rode a motor-

PERMANENT HIGHER FREIGHT RATES FOR RAILROADS DENIED

Interstate Commerce Commission Acts on Plea for Surcharge to Expire Dec. 31.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today denied a petition by Class I railroads seeking to make permanent emergency freight surcharges scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

The surcharges, which railroads estimate provide about $104,000,000 of additional revenue annually, originally were scheduled to expire July 1, but the roads procured a six-month extension.

In their petition, the major carriers of the United States asked authority to translate the emergency rates into permanent charges through filing permanent rate schedules.

This the commission denied, leaving the roads the recourse of petitioning for reconsideration or of asking for individual increases in specific rates, each of which would be subject to investigation by the commission.

ST. LOUISAN DROWNED NEAR WHEATLAND, IND.

Byron Winkle, 35, Loses Life When Wading in White River.

Byron Winkle, 35, 584 Lotus avenue, drowned yesterday while wading in the White River near Wheatland, Ind., where he was visiting a cousin. Relatives here said that Winkle could not swim, and that he had either fainted or stepped into water over his head.

Winkle left St. Louis Thursday with his mother, Mrs. Edith Winkle, a widow, to visit John C. Dunn, a cousin, at Wheatland, Ind. He was 33 years old, unemployed, and lived with his mother. He is survived by his mother and two sisters.

The body has not yet been recovered.

GOODRICH UNION VOTES AGAINST SITDOWN STRIKES

In Favor of Settling Disputes in Akron Through Regular Negotiations.

By the Associated Press. AKRON, O., Aug. 3.—A resolution barring unauthorized sitdown strikes in the plant of the B. F. Goodrich Co. has been adopted by the Goodrich local of the United Rubber Workers, said L. L. Callahan, president, today.

The American Federation of Labor union's resolution declared its policy would be to settle grievances through regular channels of negotiation. A similar resolution was adopted two weeks ago by the local in the plant of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

This spring there were a few sitdown strikes—in which employees remain at their posts but refuse to work—in the Goodrich plant, but none in recent weeks, Callahan said. Earlier in the year there were interruptions in production at Goodyear on several occasions.

LOYALISTS MASS NEAR MADRID FOR ATTACK ON REBELS

COLUMN MOVES AGAINST ZARAGOZA

Others Advance on Cordoba and Seville — Fall of Toledo Into Hands of Leftists Expected.

By the Associated Press. BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 3.—Government forces reported today the capture of La Zaida in a renewed drive on the Aragon front against the rebel stronghold of Zaragoza.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press) MADRID, Aug. 3.—The Leftist Government massed its forces today for a fresh assault on rebels in the Guadarrama Mountain passes, the gateway to Madrid.

New columns of loyalists were mobilized for action in the northeast, where rebels hold Zaragoza, and in the south at Cordoba and Seville.

The fascists were reported, in advance from the northern side of the lines, to be moving toward San Sebastian in an effort to regain control of the resort town. Small forces of rebels still held their positions in the mountain passes near Madrid, these advisers declared.

Renewed bombardment by loyal flyers turned gas and electric plants at Fabra, Mañresa Island, into a formidable barrier.

Reports reaching here said the fall of Toledo, south of Madrid, was expected hourly. The insurgents holding Toledo were said to be in a desperate plight after intensive bombardment by Government artillery. The city was surrounded by loyalists, the reports said, and its water, electricity and supplies were cut off.

"Complete Authority in Madrid." The government said complete authority had been established in Madrid with the return to work of construction employees. Officials declared no reports of military movements would be announced except where there were definite Leftist losses.

The cabinet extended until Aug. 9 decrees which suspended withdrawal of bank deposits and authorizations to take money out of Spain.

President Manuel Azana signed a decree reducing by 50 per cent all housing rents of 201 pesetas (about $25) a month. The significance of the action, the Government said, lies in the fact that most of Spain's 25,000,000 inhabitants pay rents far below the figure.

The decree also provided that families of soldiers fighting on the Loyalist side could not be evicted if their rents were in arrears. All action by landlords seeking evictions of tenants was suspended for the duration of the civil war.

In another order, the Government conscripted railroads and utility plants.

New Troops From Valencia. Reinforcements from Valencia moved into the Guadarrama battle fields in preparation for the expected Loyalist advance. The fresh troops were kept busy clearing the ground of mines and other obstacles, actively consisting of burning grass and bushes to gain a better view of the rebel positions.

Several noblemen's bodies were found in the mountains, including that of Count Demoguido, prominent Fascist leader.

While a proletarian Government has not been proclaimed in Madrid, the capital gave many signs of increased domination of government and life by the working classes.

Display of elegance has disappeared almost entirely from the streets. Very few women are seen now wearing hats and expensive dresses. Many men have discarded neckties. Private automobiles have been requisitioned for use of the Loyalist militia.

Militiamen fighting for the republic are being supplied with food and cigarettes and their families are receiving full salaries of the wage-earning soldiers.

The Madrid Government wireless station announced the Bishop of Jaen and belonging to the Bishop's 1,000,000 pesetas (nominally about $130,000) belonging to the Bishop's sister in addition to 8,000,000 pesetas (about $1,040,000) found in a

ELECTION BOARD PICKING AGENTS TO GUARD AGAINST FRAUDULENT VOTING IN PRIMARY TOMORROW

MAN APPLYING FOR ELECTION BOARD JOB IS ARRESTED

John J. Beadle, WPA Worker, Jumped Bond on Burglary, Larceny Charge 7 Years Ago.

USUAL POLICE CHECK RESULTS IN SEIZURE

He Was Recommended for Deputy Commissioner by John Triggard, Democratic Committee Candidate.

An application for appointment as a Deputy Election Commissioner which John J. Beadle made Saturday led to his arrest yesterday on a seven-year-old charge of burglary and larceny. He had jumped his $2500 bond and it had been forfeited.

Beadle, a WPA worker, who lives at 2233A Osage street, was recommended for the position by John Triggard, Deputy City Marshal and the Dickmann administration's candidate for the Democratic City Committee from the Tenth Ward.

The application, as a matter of routine, was referred to the Police Department for investigation, and there it was discovered that Beadle was wanted as a fugitive from the burglary and larceny charge.

If he had been appointed as a deputy election commissioner Beadle would have been assigned to a precinct polling place tomorrow to challenge the right of persons "not found" in last week's canvass of the registration to obtain a ballot if any of them should offer to vote.

Admits His Identity. Beadle, who is 38 years old, at first denied that he was the man sought, saying the man wanted was a cousin of the same name, but after comparison of finger prints had established that he was the man sought, he admitted his identity.

He was charged, in a warrant issued in July, 1929, with the theft of four cases of cigarettes, valued at $216, from the Schmeckelber Candy Co., by which he was employed as a truck driver. The police report made at the time of his arrest stated that Beadle had admitted the theft and told of selling the cigarettes to a man who had a cigar store on Manchester avenue.

Today at Police Headquarters he told a Post-Dispatch reporter tearfully that he had been drinking when the cigarettes were stolen and had no recollection of what had occurred.

Bond Not Collected. August Brinkmann, an attorney who has appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court from a Circuit Court order disbaring him, represented Beadle in defense of the burglary and larceny charge and signed his $2500 bond. Although the bond has been forfeited, it has not been collected.

While he was out on bond, Beadle said he had a chance to go to work in East St. Louis on a pipe line construction job. He said Brinkmann told him it would be all right for him to take the job, that he would let him know when to appear in court.

Beadle said Brinkmann never told him to appear in court and when he returned to St. Louis he got the impression that the burglary and larceny charge was "all over."

Deputy City Marshal Triggard, who recommended Beadle to the Election Board job, could not be reached.

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED IN ETHIOPIA, MANY KILLED

Dispatch to Paris Paper Says There Are Rumors Natives Couped Besage. PARIS, Aug. 3.—Heavy fighting between Ethiopian and Italian troops was reported in dispatches to the newspaper Excelsior yesterday from Djibouti, French Somaliland.

Unconfirmed rumors, the dispatch stated, were that Ethiopians had occupied Desaye after a battle.

Fighting was continuing, the report said, and several bands of native troops were said to have entered Addis Ababa.

POWER EXISTS TO PURGE BOOKS, SAY TWO MORE FORMER ELECTION HEADS

Miss Bobb and George Eigel Agree Fraudulent Names Can Be Erased; Present Procedure Called 'Outrage.'

QUEST ELECTION BOARD, PAPE URGES GOV. PARK

Republican City Committee Head Cites Admission of 46,000 Incorrect Names.

Fred W. Pape, chairman of the Republican City Committee, today telegraphed Gov. Park asking the removal of the entire St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners because of the evidence of fraud in the registration of voters.

This was in line with a similar request made of the Governor, when the registration frauds first were exposed by the Post-Dispatch, by Grover W. Dalton, chairman of the Republican State Committee. The Governor has taken no action on Dalton's request.

Pape said in the telegram that the board had admitted that more than 46,000 names of registered voters had not been found by canvassers, and said: "This is sufficient to prove dereliction of duty and warrant immediate action on your part."

Particular accusations were made against Charles L. Moore, a Republican commissioner and secretary of the board. Pape said that candidates for membership on the Republican City Committee were not being given consideration in the naming of judges and clerks of election unless they supported Henry L. Berger against Anton Schuler for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, and Albert L. Grattendick against Thomas Gabbert for the Republican nomination for Public Administrator.

He also told the Governor that Moore was active in the support of Hillel Leslie of Memphis for the nomination for State Treasurer.

Moore, he said, was conducting a campaign in nearly every ward in an effort to obtain control of the committee. "It is reprehensible and unfair for an election commissioner, as umpire, to abuse the power of his office by being active for any candidate," Pape said. "Election frauds resulting through such tactics can only be stopped and your mandate for a clean primary be enforced by the removal of not only Moore but the entire board."

Asserting that all that was asked was an honest registration and election, Pape asked for an acknowledgment of receipt of the telegram and for "immediate action."

GUY WAGGONER MARRIES SHOP GIRL, 20; HIS SIXTH

Wealthy Fort Worth Race Track Operator and Miss Virginia Green, 20, Wed in Colorado.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH. COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 3.—Virginia Green, 20-year-old Dallas (Tex.) department store clerk, became the sixth bride of Guy Waggoner, wealthy Fort Worth race track owner, today. The two were married by the Rev. Wilbert Dowson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church here, at the minister's home.

Shortly after the ceremony the wedding party of eight persons left in automobiles for Waggoner's hunting lodge in the Colorado Rockies near Breckenridge.

Waggoner and Miss Green arrived here last night. They obtained a marriage license at 9 o'clock this morning.

PAINTS ESTRANGED WIFE RED

Husband Jailed; Mate Taken to Hospital. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Geneva Shepard, 28 years old, accused her estranged husband yesterday of painting her body from head to foot with red paint.

Police arrested the husband, Charles Shepard, 36, and charged him with assault and battery with intent to kill, drunkenness and vagrancy. Mrs. Shepard was taken to a hospital, where physicians used to remove the paint.

She said she was summoned yesterday to a tavern which her husband was redecorating. She said he beat her, removed her clothing and painted her body, then dressed her and left her in an alley.

POLLS TO BE OPEN 6 A. M. TO 7 P. M.; SPECIAL DEPUTIES TO BE ON WATCH

They Will Have List of 'Not Found' Registrants and Instructions to Check Those Challenged and of Those Who Are Allowed to Cast Ballots.

ABOUT 350,000 QUALIFIED VOTERS

Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee to Have Its Representatives at Polling Places Together With Accredited Watchers of Political Parties.

The Election Board and the Police Department today took final measures intended to prevent the voting, in tomorrow's primary election, of the fraudulent registration exposed by the Post-Dispatch. The primary polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. in the city's 669 precincts.

Applicants for appointment as special deputy election commissioners, to challenge those attempting to vote any of the 46,252 registered names "not found" in the Election Board's canvass, appeared today at the Board's office. There were several hundred of the applicants, who were sent by party committee members or, in some cases, by heads of civic groups, or came in response to an advertisement for "qualified voters, intelligent and of good moral character." The deputies' jobs pay $5 for the day.

The application for the jobs were sent to the Police Department, to have their applications certified, the purpose being to avoid appointing anyone with a police record. If enough are obtained, the Board will place one deputy in each polling place, and two in some precincts where the number of "not found" names was large.

Board's Instructions. The instructions to be given to the deputy commissioners were formulated by the board yesterday. They include a requirement that the deputies shall keep a check on the number of "not found" names challenged by them, the number permitted to vote and the number refused. This, assuming that the deputies are vigilant in challenging those named on their lists, will furnish a check of the results of the recent investigation.

As has been told, the Election Board decided Saturday not to "purge" names as ordered by Gov. Park, but to place deputy commissioners, many of them politically selected, at the polling places to check voting on the fraudulent names.

It was not possible today to figure the exact net number of persons who will be qualified to vote in the primary. Not all the 46,252 "not found" are to be deducted from the record-size figure of 294,774, the "revised and corrected" result of the June 18 registration. The Election Board has accepted affidavits of 2000, or weekly still technically on the "not found" list, will be permitted to vote. There has been also a certain number of deaths, since June 18, of persons who registered then—there were 1547 deaths of persons of voting age between June 18 and July 31, but not all of them were registrants.

There are also some who have moved since June 18, and have not been transferred to their new precincts—the number of moving jobs in the city has been about 1500 in that period, but, again, not all the movers were registrants. The Circuit Court has issued orders for the enrollment of 178 voters, some of whom had moved, and will be permitted by the orders to vote in their old precincts.

Taking all these factors into consideration, it appears that the number of qualified voters will be about 250,000.

GRAND JURY TURNS TO 8TH PRECINCT OF SEVENTH WARD

174 Persons in Registration of 580 Were Reported 'Not Found' in Official Recanvass Last Week.

EIGHT INDICTMENTS RETURNED TO DATE

All Accused Are Clerks of Election; Earle J. Foley of Sixth Ward, Surrenders, Freed on Bond.

The grand jury investigating wholesale registration frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch, turned its attention today to the Eighth Precinct of the Seventh Ward, where 174 persons in a registration of 580 were reported "not found" in the official re-canvass last week.

Since the grand jury inquiry began Wednesday eight precinct clerks have been indicted, on charges of willful neglect to make the revision canvass which should have followed the registration of last June 16.

Those in charge of the precinct investigated today by the grand jury were:

Raymond Lesure, Democratic judge, 1219 Chouteau avenue.
Frank Kessler, Democratic judge, 1534 Mississippi avenue.
Jimmy Sallie, Republican judge, 912 South Tenth street.
Joseph J. Aluma, Republican judge, 1007 South Sixth street.
Anton Gilsan, Democratic clerk, 1708 Chouteau avenue.
Richard C. Sutton, Republican clerk, 923 La Salle street.

Miss Flo Ahrens, who operates the El-Way Restaurant at 914 South Seventh street, where 23 phantom voters were registered, was one of today's witnesses before the grand jury. Miss Ahrens, as the Post-Dispatch has told, says that no one lives at the restaurant. Other witnesses today were Selwyn Pepper, a Post-Dispatch reporter, and the two re-canvassers for the precinct, Miss Ethel Ebel, 3132 New Ashland place, and Edwin Foley, 5119 Enright avenue.

Clerks and Judge Indicted.
Earle J. Foley, indicted Friday night, surrendered yesterday afternoon at police headquarters and was released on bond of $1000 signed by Joseph Webb, a professional bondsman, who has supplied the bonds for all but two of those arrested so far.

Foley, who lives at 1111A Chestnut street, was an election clerk in the First Precinct of the Sixth Ward, where the re-canvassers reported 320 "not found" in a registration of 838.

The others who have been indicted are:

Nathan Schnurr, 805 South Second street, Republican clerk, First Precinct of Sixth Ward.
William Otten, 2803 Blair avenue, Democratic clerk, Tenth Precinct of Third Ward.
Russell Leslie, 2607 Blair avenue, Republican clerk, Tenth Precinct of Third Ward.

Nathan Sherman, 1482 Laurel street, Republican clerk, First Precinct of Fifth Ward.
Harold Hancock, 1812A Franklin avenue, Democratic clerk, First Precinct of Fifth Ward.
John Tocco, 1810 Cass avenue, Democratic clerk, First Precinct of Fourth Ward.

Raymond Shea, 2308A Cass avenue, Republican clerk, First Precinct of Fourth Ward.
Tocco said he served last June 18 as an election judge, but Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller said Tocco was commissioned as a clerk and should have performed a clerk's duties.

Penalty Year in Workhouse.
The indictments were voted under Section 10,091 of the Missouri Statutes, a misdemeanor section. The penalty is 30 to 60 days' imprisonment in the jail or workhouse.

The grand jury will remain in session tomorrow, primary election day. At tomorrow's session the jury may decide whether to continue the investigation or leave the task of completing it to the September term grand jury, which will convene Sept. 11.

50 in Cable Car Go Through Fire.
By the Associated Press.
BEACON, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Forty persons descending Mount Beacon in an inclined railway cable car were enveloped in flames from a mountainous brush fire yesterday but none was injured. Hysterical women were restrained from leaping out of the car. Two men who did jump were not injured. The fire destroyed one car on the line and did damage to the railway estimated at $80,000.

Election Board Picking Deputies to Watch Polls

ber qualified to vote without interference tomorrow will be some where about 350,000.

The instructions given by the Election Board to those appointed deputy commissioners are as follows:

"You have been appointed to serve as deputy election commissioner at the primary and special bond election to be held Aug. 4, 1938.

"With your commission you were handed a copy of the registered voters' list showing the names of all persons remaining on the books after the June revision in use precinct to which you are assigned, and which list was used in making a canvass of this precinct by special deputy election commissioners who erased therefrom, by drawing a line (in pencil) through the name, all persons not found, in accordance with instructions contained in the letter to the canvassers dated July 29, copy of which is attached.

"If anyone whose name has been scratched on the precinct list attempts to vote, the deputy election commissioner and the judges shall closely question him, or her, and he, or she, shall not be permitted to vote unless the judges are satisfied that he, or she, is entitled to vote from the registered address. When in doubt, the judges must require a householders' affidavit. (Form 69.)

"Some voters whose names remain scratched on your precinct list called at this office in response to notice and established their right to vote. Upon presenting such notice (copy herewith), bearing the names of two assistants in this office, together with the seal of the Board of Election Commissioners, they should be permitted to vote without further questioning.

"The deputy election commissioner will check on the precinct list with a 'V' all scratched names of persons permitted to vote, and with an 'R' all those refused the right to vote. Before your services, it will be necessary that the precinct list is returned to this office.

"We especially direct deputy election commissioners to see that the balloting is carried on in accordance with these instructions, and also the general printed instructions of which we enclose copy. Report any violations of instructions promptly by phone to this office.

Care in Observing the Count.
"Deputy Election Commissioners should be careful in observing the count. In the event the judges and clerks in any polling place do not conform strictly with the instructions from this office in connection with the counting of the ballots, deputy Commissioners should immediately stop the count and all work on the ballots until after this office has been notified and instructions given to proceed with the work.

"Telephone numbers of this office on election day will be: GARFIELD 5288, GARFIELD 5289, GARFIELD 5290, GARFIELD 5291, GARFIELD 5292, GARFIELD 5293, GARFIELD 5294 and GARFIELD 5295.

"Please bear in mind that we want the election conducted fairly and honestly and we urgently request your co-operation to this end.

"Blank affidavit forms will be provided for those challenged by the deputy Commissioners, who insist on their right to vote. The applicant himself or herself must make affidavit to being a duly qualified voter and the identical person registered. Other affidavit forms, printed on the same blanks are for two householders of the precinct, supporting the person's affidavit as to identity and length of residence.

"If this form is properly sworn to," a note says, "the vote must be received and deposited in the box." False statements of an applicant and supporting householders, under oath, will render them liable to prosecution.

Challengers and Watchers.
Besides the six election officials of each precinct and the Board's special commissioners, challengers and watchers of the Democratic and Republican parties, there will be at the polling places, or at many of them, the challengers and watchers named by the Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee, opposing the four proposed bond issue items.

and the challengers and watchers of a committee supporting the bond proposals.

The credentials of the Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee challengers and watchers are being issued by Paul O. Peters, director of the committee. For the Citizens' Bond Issue Campaign Committee, credentials are being issued by John J. Nangle, chairman. The Election Board has instructed precinct officials to recognize both sets of challengers.

In precincts where the parties and committees have their challengers and watchers on duty, there will be at least 11 persons on duty inside the polling place, and four outside, the watchers remaining outside. In some precincts, more than one deputy election commissioner will be on duty, and the number of challengers and watchers may be larger.

James A. Waechter, chairman of the Election Board, said the Board would probably allot the deputy commissioners to precincts on an odd-even plan—the Democrats in even-numbered precincts and the Republicans in odd-numbered precincts. He said appointments from residence wards, such as the Thirteenth, Twenty-fifth and Twenty-eighth, would be sent to business district and river wards.

Waechter estimated the vote to be cast in the primary at 150,000, of which he believed 85,000 would be Democratic and 65,000 Republican. He said the lack of interest in contests for nomination in both parties, would tend to hold down the number of votes. The chief local contests in both parties are for party committeemen and committeewomen, for whom the primary serves as an election.

Appointment of about 700 precinct judges and clerks, to replace the 84 such officials suspended by the board, and to fill other vacancies, was in progress today. Some anti-Dickmann members of the Democratic City Committee, including Chairman John P. English of the committee, complained that they were not getting recognition, and expressed the belief that the board was favoring Mayor Dickmann in his effort to gain control of the committee.

Chairman Waechter said the board was trying to give equal recognition to both sides, but that some of the anti-Dickmann committee members had taken the position of demanding "all or none" of the appointments. In such cases, he said, they would get none, as the time would not permit delay.

A Post-Dispatch reporter asked the Board members whether they would accept recommendations from Justice of the Peace Jimmy Miller, Fourth Ward boss, and State Senator Mike Kinney, of the Fifth, both representing their wards on the Democratic City Committee, for appointment of Fourth and Fifth Ward election officials. After some hesitation, Chairman Waechter and the other Democratic members, Joseph W. Hannauer, said recommendations from Miller and Kinney would not be accepted. Those to be appointed are mostly clerks and most of the judges who served in the June registration are still employed.

The Republican members, Charles L. Moore and Stephen M. Wagner, said they would not accept the recommendations of Nick Polito and Fred Welsman, Fourth and Fifth Ward members, respectively, of the Republican committee, in selection of Republican judges and clerks.

Chief of Police's Orders.
Lengthy police instructions, for preserving order and prevention of fraudulent voting, were sent out today by Chief of Police John J. McCarthy.

Police will be on 12-hour duty on primary day. Those stationed at polling places are instructed that they must:

Rigidly enforce the law prohibiting electioneering within 100 feet of a polling place.

Maintain vigilant lookout for concealed weapons.

Arrest all drunks and see that intoxicating liquor is barred from polling places.

Guard against intimidation of voters.

Prevent fraudulent voting and arrest all persons attempting to vote fraudulently.

Guard against watchers and challengers assisting in counting

VOTE STATEMENTS STILL NOT FILED BY THREE HOTELS

Laclede, St. Francis, Pacific Ignore Board's Request for Affidavits on Number of Residents.

The Board of Election Commissioners this morning had not yet received the sworn statements it requested from the managers of the Laclede, St. Francis and Pacific hotels, setting out the number of guests at each hotel and the period of their residence there.

Under the law the Board may demand such statements, and they must be filed not less than three nor more than five days before any registration or election. Saturday was the last day on which the statements could have been filed properly under the law, as the primary election will be held tomorrow.

Failure to file such a statement when demanded by the Board is a misdemeanor, punishable by six months in jail and a fine of $1000.

Chairman James A. Waechter of the Election Board, asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter today what the Board would do about the matter, said this was the first time any such issue had been raised and that the board would "look into it."

The Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee, through Paul O. Peters, director, filed a request with the board today that it should strike out the entire registration from the hotels and lodging houses which have not complied with the law and should notify the prosecuting authorities of the failure of the persons in charge to file the lists. The Board did not say what it would do.

The Laclede Hotel is operated by Alderman Harry Israel of the Fifth Ward and the Pacific by Alderman Joseph E. Schweppe of the Sixth Ward. The St. Francis, which is operated by David Muchnick, John J. Kelly, Election Board clerk, told a Post-Dispatch reporter the board requested the sworn statements in letters sent on June 10 to the "managers" of each of the hotels. The letters were not dressed to any individual by name.

The three hotels have exceptionally heavy registrations. The Laclede, on the southeast corner of Sixth and Chestnut streets, had 340 registered voters, of whom only two were reported "not found" by re-canvassers. The St. Francis, across the street on the southwest corner of Sixth and Chestnut, had 183 registered voters, of whom only one was reported "not found." The Pacific, at 905 Market street, has 110 registered. Alderman Schweppe submitted an affidavit to the Election Board that those registered from his hotel were properly registered.

STARK TO CLOSE CAMPAIGN WITH RADIO ADDRESS TONIGHT

Lloyd C. Stark of Louisiana, Pike County, will close his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor, with an address at 8:45 o'clock tonight over KSD. He will go to Jefferson City tomorrow. He will receive the primary returns at the Stark-for-Governor headquarters there.

He will depart Wednesday for his summer home in Massachusetts, where his family has been for several weeks, returning to Missouri in time for the convention of candidates in Jefferson City, Sept. 8.

and tabulating the vote. This is of vital importance. Judges and clerks, and judges and clerks only have the right to handle the ballots, poll books, tally sheets or statements.

Read and study carefully the Board of Election Commissioners' instructions to judges and clerks. Civilian Police Employees.

The Chief's instructions state that civilian employees of the Police Department, in uniform, must not participate in the primary further than to cast their own votes. None of them is to serve as a watcher, challenger or precinct worker, or be in any way active at a polling place.

"No watcher or challenger," the police instructed, "shall have the right to handle or touch the ballots, poll books, tally sheets or statements." The district captains are instructed that at no time from the beginning of voting until the ballot box has been taken to the Election Board, is any polling place to be without police protection.

Captains and Lieutenants, except those assigned to the secret service division, must be in full uniform throughout their tour of duty on primary day, the Chief's instructions state.

City Hall offices will be closed on primary day, as will the criminal courts and the banks. Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller will be in his office, and the grand jury, which is investigating the registration frauds, will be on duty for any emergency requirements.

Sale of liquor, including 3.2 per cent beer, on primary day, is forbidden by state law and city ordinance. The same laws are in effect to prohibit the delivery of liquor, and the Missouri Brewers' Association has announced that no deliveries will be made to its customers tomorrow.

The usual pamphlet of instructions to judges and clerks has been issued by the Election Board. Its most emphatic note, printed in red ink, is that "All judges must count all ballots; do not permit the Democratic judges to count their ballots, or the Republican judges their bal-

VOTE FRAUD TOMORROW CAN BE PROSECUTED AS FELONY OR MISDEMEANOR

PERSONS seeking to vote at the primary tomorrow under others' names, or attempting to vote more than once, or committing other election frauds, may be prosecuted under a felony charge and, on conviction, sentenced to from two to five years in the penitentiary. Prosecution may be, alternatively, on a misdemeanor charge, punishable by a fine up to $100 or a jail term up to 30 days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 3976 of the Revised Statutes makes it a felony to impersonate a voter, voting or attempting to vote under the voter's name; to use an assumed or fictitious name or any name not the voter's own, in voting; to vote more than once, whether in the same or different precincts; to attempt to vote in any precinct where the voter is not qualified, or to commit any unlawful act to obtain for one's self or another person the right or opportunity to vote.

Section 10,237 makes it a misdemeanor to offer to vote in a primary at a precinct where the voter is not qualified, or to vote more than once at the same or different precincts.

PENDERGAST GIVES HIS SON INSTRUCTIONS FOR ELECTION

Pendergast Jr. on Way to Kansas City From New York Where Father Is Ill.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Thomas J. Pendergast Jr., received instructions from his father's Missouri Democratic organization in the primary election as he prepared to depart for Kansas City last night. "Boss" Pendergast is confined to his hotel room here following a heart attack.

Mrs. T. J. Pendergast Sr. indicated her husband never returned to the active leadership of the Kansas City organization as it was carried on by him in past years, but said he might be able to return to Kansas City in late September.

A married daughter, Mrs. W. E. Burnett Jr., and her small daughter have gone to Atlantic City, N. J., for a vacation after being with the Pendergasts here. Another daughter, Miss Alleen Pendergast, is with her mother and father.

BOARD SUSPENDS 10 POLL CLERKS IN FOUR WARDS

Workers in 7th, 20th, 21st and 26th Added to 74 Judges and Others Dismissed.

Ten clerks of election in the Seventh, Twentieth, Twenty-first and Twenty-sixth Wards were temporarily suspended by the Board of Election Commissioners yesterday, in its investigation of registration frauds, and will not be permitted to serve in the primary election tomorrow.

Previously, the Board had dismissed 74 judges and clerks in the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Wards, where some of the grossest frauds were found. Both those dismissed and those suspended have the right to appeal to the Board for reinstatement.

All 538 of the 926 persons registered, and the clerks made the canvass of that registration on June 19 and 20.

The Suspended Clerks.
Those suspended yesterday were: Seventh Ward, Third precinct: Thomas Cox, 1126A Hickory street, Democratic clerk, and Benjamin Abian, 911 Chouteau avenue, Republican clerk. In this precinct, 213 of the 609 persons registered, or 35 per cent, were reported "not found" in the re-canvass last week.

Twentieth Ward, Eighth precinct: James G. Murphy, 3867 Kennerly avenue, Democratic clerk, and Elmer Nesselhauf, 4016 Garfield avenue, Republican clerk. In this precinct, 333 of the 926 persons registered, or 36 per cent, were reported "not found" in the re-canvass.

Twenty-first Ward, Twelfth Precinct: Arthur P. Walsh, 4239A St. Louis avenue, Democratic clerk, and Joseph M. Lenhardt, 4241 Athlone avenue, Republican clerk. Special deputy election commissioners, checking the registration, reported 234 of 832 persons registered, or 28 per cent, not found.

Twenty-sixth Ward, Thirteenth Precinct: M. C. Obermark, 3047 Vine Grove avenue, Democratic clerk, and Terrence Scott, 4204 West Ashland avenue, Republican clerk. In this precinct, the re-canvass showed 288 of 940 persons registered, or 30 per cent, not found.

Twenty-sixth Ward, Twenty-fifth Precinct: Eugene Moeller, 1398A Montclair avenue, Democratic clerk, and Alexander Harris, 5895A Page boulevard, Republican clerk. In this precinct, the re-canvass showed 171 out of 467 persons registered, or 36 per cent, not found.

Deny Knowledge of Padding.
Twelve of the 56 clerks dismissed in the Fourth and Fifth Wards appeared before the board yesterday and denied any knowledge of padding the registration lists. The board deferred action in their cases.

As has been told, all the clerks in the Fourth Ward, stronghold of Justice of the Peace Jimmy Miller, and in the Fifth, domain of State Senator Mike Kinney, have been dismissed and new clerks will serve in those wards in the primary election tomorrow.

Members of the board continued today their check of the reports of deputy commissioners who made the re-canvass to determine whether disciplinary action will be taken against other judges and clerks.

The contest in the Twelfth District is a warm one, with seven aspirants for the Democratic nomination in tomorrow's primary. Other candidates besides Anderson are Congressman James R. Claiborne, incumbent; William J. Becker, D. Jannopoulos, J. W. Marx, C. Arthur White and A. J. Pickett.

3 IN AUTO KILLED BY TRAIN

Another Man Seriously Hurt at Lafayette, Ind.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 3.—Three men were killed and a fourth seriously injured when a Wabash freight train struck an automobile at a crossing here early today.

The dead: Chester O. Stuck, 31, years old; Frederick R. May, 24, and Arvillo Bohannon, 25, a Negro, all of Lafayette. Herbert M. May, 27, brother of Frederick May, was injured.

C. ARTHUR ANDERSON IN HOSPITAL AGAIN

Recurrence of Leg Infection Interrupts Prosecutor's Campaign for Congress.

Prosecuting Attorney C. Arthur Anderson of St. Louis County suffering from recurrence of infection in an old leg injury, is at Missouri Baptist Hospital, unable to participate in the close of his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Representative in Congress from the Twelfth District.

His left leg became infected as a result of a fracture when a murderous assault was made on him in October, 1934, by persons driving a large automobile which forced his automobile into the ditch and wrecked it. Because of the recurrence of the infection an operation was performed on his leg Saturday, and his condition today was reported generally favorable, with his fever somewhat subsided.

Following the injury, Anderson was in the hospital most of the time for about four months and was unable to take part in the general election campaign of 1934 in which he was a candidate for re-election as Prosecuting Attorney. Accepting the attack on him as a challenge to law and order, in view of Anderson's aggressiveness in prosecuting the kidnappers of Dr. I. D. Kelle, his friends organized a non-political campaign in his behalf and he was re-elected by the largest vote given any candidate in the county.

Up to last Friday, when his present illness developed, Anderson had conducted a vigorous campaign for the congressional nomination in the Twelfth District, which includes all of St. Louis County and Wards 10, 11, 12, 13 and 24, and 19 precincts of the Twenty-eighth Ward in the City of St. Louis. He has received the support of many persons who assert that his record of law enforcement entitles him to promotion in public service.

The contest in the Twelfth District is a warm one, with seven aspirants for the Democratic nomination in tomorrow's primary. Other candidates besides Anderson are Congressman James R. Claiborne, incumbent; William J. Becker, D. Jannopoulos, J. W. Marx, C. Arthur White and A. J. Pickett.

Milk Tank Bursts; Man Killed.
By the Associated Press.
MOMENCE, Ill., Aug. 3.—Eugene Summers, 33 years old, a dairy company employee, was killed yesterday when a four-ton condensing tank, containing 1300 pounds of milk, exploded. Summers was standing on a platform above the tank when the tank burst.

Mine Officer's Story

Leming told a graphic story of how the workers were asphyxiated as they labored with rescue teams constructing a temporary barricade to confine the underground blaze. Members of the rescue teams wore oxygen helmets, said Leming, and the others were passing up materials. The men apparently struck the gas pocket suddenly and threw down immediately. The companions struggled to drag them out, but themselves were overcome.

"No doubt the other men would not have died if they had not tried to help their companions," Leming said. "We didn't have any way to tell the rescue teams that the gas had gotten them. Finally a man up through the shaft, and he told them what happened. Other rescuers climbed down and dragged the nine men out, but it was too late to revive them."

"Twelve other men were over come by gas, but we got them out quick and brought them to with artificial respiration."

Leming said the fire started last Saturday afternoon, just after the night crew went on. No coal-digging crew was at work.

The main shaft is in Jackson County, while the fire occurred in Perry County.

The mine, operated by the Union Electric Light & Power Co., has been working full time since summer to furnish coal for the company's St. Louis plant.

Leming said a permanent seal would be constructed against the fire today and that coal-digging crews would return to work in two or three days. The mine employs about 500 men.

86 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN CITY DURING WEEK; 194 ARRESTS

Persons Hurt and One Killed Says Report Analyzing Conditions.

Police reported there were 186 automobile accidents in the city during the week ending last night, the second week of an analysis of traffic conditions with a view to reducing accidents.

Persons were injured in about 50 per cent of the accidents, the number being 107, and one killed. There were 194 arrests for various traffic offenses.

The previous week no traffic deaths occurred in Mount St. Louis. Last week there were seven deaths. The previous week mounting the previous week mounting policemen conducted an anti-campaign against speeders in West Park, which is in Mount St. Louis, while last week only one speeding car was caught.

The mounting was engaged in by Mount St. Louis police. Mount St. Louis police reported he considered the mounting District situation. He said that speed is a basic factor in traffic accidents.

Blaze Caused by Explosion of Transformer — Inquests by Two Counties Today—All of Victims Married, Had Families.

By the Associated Press.

DU QUOIN, Ill., Aug. 3.—Coroner F. J. Schleper of Perry County and Ed Travelstead of Jackson County returned verdicts of accidental death at a joint inquest today for nine coal miners overcome by carbon monoxide as they fought an underground fire in the Union Colliery Kathleen Mine at Dowell yesterday night.

The inquest was held at the mine office, five miles south of here. Previously the coroners had held separate investigations of the deaths.

Six of the miners lost their lives while attempting to rescue three companions. Twelve others overcome by the gas were revived and were said to be recovering at their homes. All of the victims were married men with families.

How the Fire Started.
Mine Superintendent Ed Leming said the fire started when a new transformer installed less than 30 hours before exploded and sprayed burning oil over entry No. 7, which was the Jackson-Perry County line, three miles from the main shaft.

The dead: Forrest Devors, Dowell, district mine manager.
Steve Hrim, Dowell, district mine manager.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE
IN FIVE-STORY PLUNGE

Mrs. Edith Jane Pott's Body Found on Roof of Garage at Apartment by Husband.

Mrs. Edith Jane Pott, 42 years old, was killed last night in a plunge from the window of her sixth-floor apartment in the Maryland Manor Apartments, 4501 Maryland avenue. She was the wife of Herman T. Pott, president of the St. Louis Shipbuilding & Steel Co.

Pott said the body of his wife lying on the roof of a one-story garage at the rear of the building after discovering a screen missing from the window at 10:30 o'clock. He hurried to the garage roof and when police, called by other persons in the building, reached the scene a few minutes later he was standing beside the body weeping.

According to Pott, his wife had been melancholy and nervous. They went out to dinner last night and on returning home he packed his bag for a brief business trip to Kansas City. Mrs. Pott expressed a desire to accompany him, her husband said, but he dissuaded her, explaining that he would be gone only a day. She agreed to take him to the railroad station in their automobile.

Pott said he was reading in the living room and shortly before 10:30 o'clock called to his wife, suggesting that they start for the station. He received no reply, and, on going to the kitchen, found the screen missing and a small stepladder under the window. The screen was found underneath Mrs. Pott's body.

Mr. and Mrs. Pott had been married 19 years. Pott said he knew of no reason for his wife to take her life. There were no notes. The body was taken to the morgue and an inquest was held by the coroner. An inquest will be held.

9 MEN SENTENCED TO JAIL, FORCED PAPER TO SUSPEND

Unlawful Assembly Charge Against Group Which Objected to Strike Editorial.

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 3.—Justice of the Peace John G. Vannest sentenced nine men today to serve 30 days each in jail for unlawfully closing July 17 the plant of The Weekly Press at nearby Rittman. A jury convicted nine of 11 men Saturday of unlawful assembly. Defense gave notice of an appeal to Common Pleas Court. Bonds of $500 were provided for each defendant and Vannest deferred service of the sentences until the case is heard by the higher court.

The convicted men were Joe Razel, C. L. Bechtel, Verd Booth, Joe Felix, Charles Stillwagner, Joe Huff, Ed Sigler, Nick Vinovich and John Trent, all of Rittman.

cycle in Lake Park when he was a Park Board policeman. Examination of the weapons showed the revolver contained six discharged shells. There were eight cartridges in the automatic pistol, which was on "safety" with the hammer cocked.

Hamilton told Chief Strautz he was ready to confess after Strautz had taken him this morning to the scene of the shooting. He made his oral statement at East St. Louis Police Headquarters in the presence of Chief of Police O'Rourke.

Until then he had insisted he was home asleep at the time of the shooting, which was fixed at about 4 a. m. yesterday by a milk wagon driver, who said he had seen two automobiles in the 400 block of Twenty-second street, while he was making deliveries, and had heard what he thought was backfire from one of them.

However, part of a statement given by Hamilton to police last night, in which he outlined his movements Saturday night and early yesterday, were contradicted by another person questioned by the policeman.

Hamilton said he left the Broadway Hotel about 2:25 a. m. and arrived home 20 minutes later. His statement was that he had left the hotel immediately after a row with a bellboy. The bellboy told police Hamilton departed about 3:30 a. m.

Mrs. Mary Woods, mother of Mrs. Hamilton, had told police that when her daughter disclosed her marriage she said she had quarreled with Hamilton and he had threatened to kill her if she carried out her ex-husband's plan to seek annulment or if he found her with another man.

Hamilton said he had gone to the Broadway Hotel Saturday night with a woman he was courting before his secret marriage. He had quarreled with this woman several years ago, he said, and had married "on the rebound." He took her home and returned to the hotel after midnight, he said.

DENIAL OF MEALS ENDS
OREGON PRISON REBELLION

700 Convicts Eat After Going Two Nights and Day Without Food.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 3.—Two nights and a day without food broke the rebellion of 700 convicts who rioted in the State prison here Friday. Meekly they marched into the mess room early yesterday and ate their first regular meal since noon Friday, shortly before their demonstration against a court decision denying automatic freedom to prisoners who have served minimum terms.

One convict was killed and two others wounded in the riot. The others were returned to their cells where they screamed, broke window glass and shouted profanity at guards for nearly 36 hours. State police, who had not left the prison grounds since the outbreak, stationed themselves in corridors along with guards. In a steel cage suspended above the mess hall other guards with rifles watched as the prisoners filed in. There was not a sign of trouble. Twenty-two alleged ringleaders of the riot are in solitary confinement.

JUDGE ASSAILS
CHANGING STORIES

Jurist Interrupts Hearing to Express Doubt Broker's Evidence Is Worth Anything.

EVIDENCE ON CASH
USED AS EXAMPLE

First Couldn't Tell Because It Might 'Incriminate,' Then Said Wife and Her Sister Got Money.

Further testimony was heard today on the application of Harold J. Katteelman, bankrupt installment plan dealer in stocks, for release from jail in which he has been held since Jan. 15 for contempt of the Federal Court.

Katteelman, ordered to deliver to the receiver for his firm, H. J. Katteelman Co., $39,205 in cash, certain stocks and bonds, and the company's books and records, went to jail pleading that he could not do what the court directed him to do.

He gave up the stocks and bonds last month in an unsuccessful effort to obtain his freedom, and Saturday he surrendered the records. The money, he testified, he had given to his wife and her sister, Miss Mildred Logeman, because he owed them about $42,000.

"Entirely Different Story." Federal Judge George H. Moore interrupted the hearing at one point today to remark that he did not think there was much to be gained by examining Katteelman. He recalled that Wayne Ely, attorney for Katteelman, had given up the stocks and bonds were given up last month that Katteelman could not tell what had become of the cash "because it would tend to incriminate him and other persons."

"Saturday this man comes into court and tells an entirely different story," the court added, referring to Katteelman. "Everything he says on every occasion is totally at variance with his previous statements about the same matter. I don't know that Katteelman's testimony is worth anything in this proceeding."

He filed an affidavit on July 10 and testified on the witness stand that he knew nothing about where the books and records were. On Saturday, he attempted to repudiate the affidavit, and he produced the books and records. I don't think his attorney had him sign any affidavit without at least advising him of its contents."

Katteelman had testified when questioned about the affidavit Saturday that he had signed some papers that he showed under "nose," but did not know what was in it.

No Special Reason for Cash. Harry C. Barker, attorney for William Stone Madden, receiver for H. J. Katteelman Co., questioned Katteelman closely about the payment to his wife, $39,550 which was made in cash, not by check. Katteelman said there was no particular reason for making the payment in cash.

The stocks and bonds he surrendered last month, which have a par value of about $100,000 and may be worth about $40,000 now, were hidden, Katteelman said, in a basement storeroom at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Johanna H. Logeman, 8101 Florissant road, Normandy.

Neither Mrs. Logeman nor his wife, Katteelman said, had any knowledge of the presence of the stocks and bonds in the storeroom until he told his wife last month to get them and give them to his attorneys to be delivered to the receiver.

Neither "Knew Anything." Mrs. Logeman and Mrs. Katteelman both testified, when examined in bankruptcy court, that they knew nothing about the whereabouts of the assets of the Katteelman firm. Mrs. Logeman, it will be recalled, later produced in court bonds which she testified she was "certainly surprised" to find in a storeroom at her home.

Katteelman testified the bonds in

MUECHEN CONSPIRACY TRIAL
PUT OVER TILL WEDNESDAY

Second Hearing for Four Had Been Set for Today at Kahoka, Mo.

The trial of Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muechen of 4736 Westminster place and three other defendants on a charge of conspiracy to transfer custody of the baby without having obtained the approval of the juvenile court, which was set for today in the Circuit Court at Kahoka, Mo., was put over till Wednesday by Judge Walter A. Higbee.

The other defendants are Mrs. Muechen's husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muechen; Lawyer Wilfred Jones, who procured two babies for the Muechens, and Mrs. Helen Berroyer, as associate of Mrs. Muechen. They are charged with having conspired to procure the baby so that the Muechens might represent it as having been born to them.

This will be the second trial of the case at Kahoka, where it was taken on change of venue, a mistrial having been declared last April when near the close of the case a juror informed the Court that he had been approached with a proposal that he "hang the jury."

TWO BOYS, 10, WHO FOUND
$480 MAY GET TO KEEP IT

Family of One on Relief, Other Is an Orphan; Discovery Made in Rubbish Heap.

Two 10-year-old boys, searching an East St. Louis rubbish heap last Saturday, found $480, which will go to them if the owner is not found. The family of one boy, composed of the parents and seven children, is on relief. The second child is an orphan residing with his grandfather, a WPA worker.

Oscar Burnett Jr., 1022 North Eleventh street, East St. Louis and Leland Cluck, 804 Exchange avenue, found the money in a rubbish heap at the rear of a tavern in the 400 block of the Illinois avenue. The bills were rolled and two outer $50 notes had been burned, making their redemption doubtful. Four other $50 bills, four for $20 each and a $100 bill were in good order.

After finding the money the children, Charles Newman, 16, 1022 North Eleventh street, Burnett Jr., bought a flashlight from the older boy for the $100 bill. Newman tried to change the bill at a bank, and police were called to take charge of the money. The other boys were found and the rest of the money recovered. The bills will be held a reasonable time and, if ownership is not satisfactorily established, the money will be divided between the two finders.

The storeroom were in a paper wrapped package. Barker wanted to know if Mrs. Logeman would not have discovered the presence of all the bonds when she found the $9500 in bonds. "Oh, there were several packages," Katteelman replied.

He said, in response to another question, that his wife had spent about $6000 to employ lawyers for him since the collapse of his firm in June, 1935. Katteelman is under indictment in the State court on charges of embezzlement and operation of a bucket shop and is under indictment on a Federal charge of income tax evasion.

Mrs. Katteelman on Stand. Mrs. Katteelman followed her husband to the witness stand and testified as evidence of the ability of herself and her sister to lend money to Katteelman, that in January, 1931, she received $38,000 from her mother, to be used for the benefit of herself and her sister. This was deposited in a joint account at the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., she said. She mentioned also that she had kept as much as $15,000 in cash in a safety deposit box.

Negro Woman, 24, Shot to Death. Miss May Ola Mathis, 24-year-old Negro of 2001 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was shot and killed last night, after a quarrel at the home of a neighbor at 1544 South 5th street, while holding a woman pending the inquest.

FRATERNAL INSURANCE TAX
SUITS STAY IN U. S. COURT

Judge Reeves Denies O'Malley's Request for Remand to State Tribunals.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—United States District Judge Albert L. Reeves in a memorandum opinion today refused to transfer jurisdiction of petitions filed by R. E. O'Malley, State Superintendent of Insurance, against 15 fraternal benefit insurance organizations, in which O'Malley seeks payment of more than $5,000,000 for alleged back taxes and interest due the State.

The insurance commissioner had asked to have the petitions remanded in order that they could be heard on their merits in the State courts. Included in the 15 petitions is that of the Modern Woodmen of America, in which Judge Reeves recently dissolved a temporary restraining order enjoining O'Malley from revoking the M. W. A. license to do business in Missouri. Judge Reeves also declined to issue a temporary injunction against the State Insurance Superintendent, O'Malley since has revoked the license of the Modern Woodmen.

Judge Reeves' decision today means the 15 petitions will be heard on their merits in United States District Court, probably early in September, the petition of the M. W. A. included. By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 3.—Insurance Director Ernest Palmer today said that eight states would join in an audit of the Modern Woodmen of America, which last week was barred from conducting further business in Missouri. Definite arrangements for the audit, to begin Sept. 8, are to be announced soon.

Palmer said he disagreed with the findings of R. E. O'Malley, Missouri Insurance Commissioner, as to the solvency of the fraternal society.

MARY ASTOR ON STAND
SAYS THORPE HIT HER

Declares Ex-Husband Hypnotized Her, but Judge Excludes This Statement.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 3.—Mary Astor, movie film actress, testified today she was "mortally afraid" of her divorced husband, Dr. Franklin Thorpe. She declared "he struck me once and I didn't know but he might do it again."

She was testifying in her suit to take from Dr. Thorpe the full custody of their 4-year-old daughter, Marilyn. She said "Dr. Thorpe used a form of hypnotic control over me," but Superior Judge Goodwin J. Knight ordered that part of her testimony struck from the record. Asked why she permitted Dr. Thorpe to obtain a divorce and custody of the child without contest 15 months ago, Miss Astor replied: "He said he would scandalize me in the eyes of the public, blackening my name and the names of my prominent friends, and would plaster it all over the front pages of the newspapers and wreck my career as an actress."

Miss Astor's attorney, asked her what she said in response to Dr. Thorpe's alleged threat to "scandalize" her. She said: "I replied that would be a horrible thing. I told him if he ruined my career I couldn't support the baby and that he couldn't or wouldn't support her."

Playwright Kaufman Called. The identity of the "George Kaufman" in the case was disclosed today by a subpoena calling on the playwright of that name to testify of his acquaintance with the actress.

Also in prospect with resumption of the court hearing was the introduction of the actress' diary. Kaufman was found by process served at Catalina Island Saturday as he was about to sail with Producer Irving Thalberg and actress Norma Shearer on their yacht.

As for the diary, Dr. Thorpe in two affidavits already has filed excerpts he said were taken from it, mentioning in ending terms a man identified only as "George." "I love George and the least I can do is save him from a messy scandal," the affidavit quoted a "written statement," in the diary made in February, 1935, two months before the Thorpes' divorce. Another quoted passage read, "I wanted to be able to see George for the rest of his stay here without being upset—looking like hell—I wanted to have the last few times of completely enjoying him."

The name "George Kaufman" was introduced into the hearing last week when Nursemaid Nellie Richardson, who testified four women at various times had stayed overnight in Dr. Thorpe's home since Miss Astor left, was asked by Anderson: "Do you know George Kaufman?"

The judge announced that after today's session the hearing would be suspended for one week to permit Miss Astor to finish some work at her studio.

Don't Let Summer
Sun Kill
Your Hair

Your hair-growing structure is delicate and reacts unfavorably to over exposure of hot rays of the mid-day summer sun. Such exposure may increase your hair-fall, aggravate dandruff, and start you more definitely on the road to baldness.

Call at a Thomas office today for free advice on the care of your hair during the summer months. A Thomas expert will gladly tell you how to enjoy summer sports without injury to your hair. He will tell you when and how to expose your hair to the sun; when to wear a hat; what to do about excessive perspiration on the scalp—about salt-water bathing and shower baths. He will also explain exactly how Thomas effectively ends excessive dandruff, stops abnormal hair fall and helps promote normal hair growth. No charge is made for consultation nor for scalp examination. You are always welcome.

16 AUTO ACCIDENTS IN CITY
DURING WEEK; 194 ARRESTS

Persons Hurt and One Killed, Says Report Analyzing Conditions.

Police reported there were 136 automobile accidents in the city during the week ending last midnight, the second week of an annual traffic conditions with a view to reducing accidents. Persons were injured in about 50 percent of the accidents, the number being 107, and one killed. There were 194 arrests for various traffic offenses.

The previous week no traffic accidents were reported. Last week there were seven motor vehicle accidents. A campaign against speeders in Mount Pleasant district, which is in Mount Pleasant district, was engaged in by Commissioner Albert Bond Holt. He told reporters he considered the Mount Pleasant situation indicative that speed is a basic factor in traffic accidents.

FASCIST REBELS MARCH AGAIN ON SAN SEBASTIAN

Gen. Mola Starts New Advance in North After Receiving Reinforcements From Pamplona.

MOVE TO 'CLEAN UP BACK YARD'

Insurgents Try to Prevent Any Attack From Rear During Their Advance on Madrid.

By the Associated Press. WITH THE REBEL FORCES ADVANCING ON SAN SEBASTIAN, NEAR VERA, Spain, Aug. 3.—Insurgent Fascists, determined to overthrow loyalist victors, marched today in a second advance on the frontier city of San Sebastian.

The new campaign was ordered by Gen. Emilio Mola after rebel columns had been reinforced by an estimated 10,000 soldiers from Pamplona.

The principal objective, Fascist leaders asserted, was to "clean up the back yard" of the insurgent march on Madrid. Danger of a rear attack during the rebel advance on the capital led Gen. Mola to attempt to strengthen his position in the north, the field commanders said.

The advance guards of the rebel army concentrated in the Guadarrama Mountain passes were reported to have occupied the towns of Guadarrama and Navalcarlos, control points of two of the three gateways to the capital.

(These reports, circulated in frontier points near the rebel headquarters, were not confirmed from Government sources in the fighting region. Leftists said the situation in the mountains was quiet in preparation for a new loyalist advance.)

The march of the rebel armies toward the scene of recent defeats at the hands of Leftists was slow, as loyal snipers carried on guerrilla warfare.

Trains of pack mules loaded with ammunition followed winding mountain paths down to the blackened spot which was once the town of Oyazun. The settlement was virtually wiped out by rebel and Leftist fire during the last week.

Many of the Fascist soldiers moving northward in the latest drive were veterans of the first Guadarrama battles. With their mountain positions consolidated, the rebel leaders have withdrawn a large part of their forces to participate in the cleanup movement in the north central sector.

"The northern army is now at the gates of Madrid," Gen. Miguel Cabanellas, civil leader of the revolutionary provisional Government in Burgos, was quoted in dispatches.

"The object of the insurgents is to insure triumph of a real Spain and bring to the Spanish people a regime of fraternity, order and peace."

"Our purpose is to give Spain her rightful position in the world without foreign interference."

Youth Killed When Auto Upsets.
BROOKFIELD, Mo., Aug. 3.—Bernard Stach, 17-year-old high school youth from Milan, Mich., was killed here yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding overturned on a curve on U. S. Highway 36, coming into Brookfield. Milo Jurik, Milan, Mich., and Earl Scott, Craig, Mo., in the car with Stach, were not hurt.

LEFTISTS GAINING, DECLARES SOCIALIST

Thinks Spanish Conflict Will Be Long But Government Will Win.

By JULIO ALVAREZ DEL VAYO, Loyal Socialist Leader.
(Written for the Associated Press.)
MADRID, Aug. 3.—After a fortnight's bloody civil war, I can truthfully say the situation from the Leftist Government's point of view is definitely good.

We do not deny that when the rebellion broke out we found ourselves in an extraordinarily grave position. We had to face the situation—the whole of our army was taken by surprise and had no choice but to follow its officers and join in the revolt against us.

Since then, however, there has been a great change. Many regiments have either deserted or imprisoned their officers and come over to our side.

In several cities the rebel officers have either shut the men in barracks or are keeping the troops beside them at the point of a revolver.

Holding Own in Mountains.
Our men on the Guadarrama front are holding their own. The arrival of a column of militia 2000 strong from Valencia allowed us to withdraw some of the tired Communist defenders from the mountains, give them rest and reform them in two "battalions of steel" for an onslaught against Zaragoza.

These battalions, which will leave for Aragon almost immediately, have been named October and Largo Caballero. (Apparently the latter battalion was named for Francisco Largo Caballero, president of the Spanish Socialist party.)

In the South, despite fierce rebel activity, we are also maintaining our positions in this struggle.

The loyalty of sailors in the navy effectively prevented the rebel commander, Gen. Francisco Franco, from carrying out what would have been a grave menace to our cause—landing 40,000 Moroccan troops on the mainland.

Few Troops by Plane.
In a futile attempt to impress the local populace, Gen. Franco has been able to bring over only a few Moorish troops by airplane.

Their strength reorganized, the refreshed Government forces in the Basque provinces are truly encouraging. I have no doubt the offensive which they are about to launch on the rear guard of rebels under Gen. Emilio Mola will be successful.

The weakness of the rebels in the North is amply demonstrated by the fact that when Col. Carrasco, besieged by loyal troops in the Loyola barracks at San Sebastian, sent frantic radio calls for help to Vitoria, no help came.

The rebels did not even have the strength to make an effort to save such an internationally important frontier town as San Sebastian.

In view of this and more recent events, I am confident that, though the struggle may not be over quickly, we will win in the end.

RUSSIAN WORKERS DONATE FUNDS TO SPANISH LEFTISTS

Men at One Plant Cable "Best Wishes" to President Manuel Azana.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—Soviet Workers' committees began collection today of funds to aid Spanish Leftists.

Workers in the Proletarsky Trud plant in Moscow cabled "best wishes" to President Manuel Azana and instructed a trade union committee to ask employees to contribute one-half of one per cent of their monthly salaries.

In many meetings the workers expressed sympathy for the people of Spain. One group, by resolution, termed the Fascist insurgents "the worst enemies of the toiling people."

"German and Italian Fascists, instigators of the war, are openly interfering in the internal affairs of Spain with an armed force," the resolution charged.

ARMED PEASANTS GUARD RAIL PROPERTIES IN SPAIN

Volunteers Seeking to Prevent Any Interruption in Limited Facilities.

By the Associated Press.
MADRID, Aug. 3.—The direct railroad route from San Sebastian to Madrid is closed because of fighting in north central Spain, and a long detour is being made through Barcelona and Valencia.

From Portbou to Barcelona, and then to Valencia and Madrid, thousands of armed peasants maintain a ceaseless watch over the rails, bridges, tunnels and stations. These volunteers guard against any attempt to interrupt the limited communications being maintained with the capital.

Barricades of sandbags, sacks of grain and bales of husks are at railway stations and signal towers. Anyone approaching the right of way is challenged and unless he is able to explain his presence satisfactorily he is dealt with summarily.

SPAIN'S CIVIL WAR RAISES PRICES OF EXPORTS TO U. S.

Olive Oil Up 47 Per cent; Quicksilver and Cork Show Slight Increases.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Spain's civil war, although only two weeks old, is already affecting the prices of exports to this country.

Olive oil prices have risen sharply. Commercial Spanish, for example, jumped from 75 cents to $1.10 a gallon in the last 10 days, a 47 per cent increase. Even at this price, dealers are selling only to their regular customers in small quantities. Stocks of Spanish oil in this country are low.

MARTIAL LAW IN IDAHO LUMBER STRIKE AREA

Edict Follows Shooting of Four Pickets and Beating of Five Workers.

By the Associated Press.
BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 3.—Gov. C. Ben Ross signed a proclamation today placing Clearwater County, scene of a North Idaho lumberman's strike, under martial law after four pickets were shot, five strikers beaten and 10 other persons arrested yesterday near Orofino, county seat. The order is to become effective at 4 p. m. today.

Ninety Idaho National Guardsmen and officers, under command of Col. F. C. Hummel of Boise, were ordered to Orofino.

The strike, now a month old, centers around demands for higher wages and improved working and sanitary conditions.

Nearly two weeks ago Gov. Ross sent his personal military representative, Capt. W. H. Abendroth, to investigate the situation. Later, at the request of county officials, the Governor sent 12 State traffic police to the strike zone. Emmett Post, head of State police, followed. Then, Commissioner of Public Welfare Lewis Williams was assigned to check sanitary conditions.

Gov. Ross said he received a telegraphic affidavit from the county Sheriff which said in part: "Large bodies of men have banded themselves together, and are flaunting the authority of the law and resisting its progress; numerous acts of violence have occurred, such acts consisting of mobs beating individuals with dangerous weapons and a gun fight, resulting in the shooting of four men." The Sheriff said he "expects further acts of violence from ambush, by reason of the high feeling existing in said strike areas," and he asked for troops.

The injured were taken to a hospital at Orofino.

Al Bici, one of the injured mill workers, said he and the other mill men were taken from two trucks and beaten with log chains.

Although physicians declined to comment on the condition of the men, Mrs. R. T. Hopkins, wife of the doctor in charge of the hospital, said Mike Sels was in a serious condition from a chest wound. Others being treated for bullet wounds were Konrad Hill, shot in leg; E. L. Gentry, wounded in the hip, and Lloyd Gustafson, shot in the thigh.

The patients described by Mrs. Hopkins as "badly beaten" were Bici, Glenn Sullivan, Andrew Vogue, Clem Carey and Reuben Erickson.

HULL WARNS AMERICANS WHO HAVE NOT LEFT SPAIN

Says It May Be Impossible Later for U. S. Ships to Remove Them.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Americans still remaining in Spain were warned today by Secretary of State Hull that conditions might develop there which would make it impossible for United States Government ships to remove them to safety.

Manifestly concerned over the refusal of many American citizens to avail themselves of opportunities to leave the country, Hull said at a press conference that this Government would continue to do all possible to evacuate those who desire to leave. At the same time, however, he placed directly on the nationals themselves the responsibility for their continued stay in Spain.

Many Americans have been evacuated during the last 10 days by the battleship Oklahoma, the heavy cruiser Quincy and the Coast Guard cutter Cayuga in addition to commercial steamships and foreign war vessels.

American War Of Terror

"Streets Like Bazaars" Pushed Guns body

By the Associated Press.
MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 3.—Americans to reach here from Madrid since the outbreak of the rebellion, described last night the situation of the American colony during what she called "the night of the Madrid revolt."

Mrs. Hay was among about 100 Americans, most of them students who arrived here on the cruise ship from Valencia after a long trip from the capital by train. "We were glad to get out of Madrid," she said, "many of us at the American Embassy, which was turned into a dormitory with mattresses on the floor."

Fighting in the Guadarrama range north of Madrid, she declared, had not been nearly so active in the last few days as "revolt in Madrid."

"I went to the Guadarrama range on a bus, where I could see the rebels holding the heights while the badly armed Government forces held the valleys," she declared.

The Leftists, she reported, appeared to outnumber their opponents, but "it was incredible how some of them were armed."

"Some had only pitchforks, a sickles or antique rifles," she said, "while children brandished old rusty swords."

Only six miles from the mountain passes, where the fighting forces were lying, peasants were peacefully harvesting their crops, Mrs. Hay declared.

Trouble in Madrid.
"The most terrible day in Madrid," she asserted, "was that the outbreak of the rebellion at the Antena garrison and other garrisons, which was scheduled for noon."

"The Government learned of the impending revolt at 7 a. m. and sent out a column of troops."

LOYAL WARSHIPS BOMBARD REBELS ON MORROCCAN COAST
Fort Attacked at Ceuta; Vessels and Planes Also in Action.

By the Associated Press.
GIBRALTAR, Aug. 3.—The roar of Spanish guns was heard at Gibraltar today as loyal warships began action against rebels.

One Government vessel bombarded the fort at Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, but drew away from the coast seeking shelter behind a British cable ship when the fire was returned. Other war craft shelled rebel concentrations 30 miles east of Gibraltar.

The new bombardment followed a spirited encounter yesterday between two loyal Spanish warships and two rebel airplanes. The ships and planes attacked each other in a 50-minute encounter, but without the combatants was hit.

The loyal battleship Jaime I and the cruiser Libertad took up positions in the middle straits to shell Ceuta, a few miles west of Gibraltar.

The cannonading shook residences on the big rock.

Presently the steamer Mooltan entered the danger zone. Almost at the same moment the shelling stopped and the Government ships sped seaward, possibly thinking the Mooltan was a hostile vessel.

(The Mooltan is a British commercial vessel of 20,952 gross tons. The Spanish flying boat S12, which landed near Gibraltar Harbor after bombing rebels at Algeciras Friday, was ordered detained yesterday by British authorities after the crew disregarded notices to quit British waters within 24 hours.)

The plane was forced down due to engine trouble resulting from a direct hit by the insurgents' anti-aircraft fire. After the S12 alighted at Algeciras, rebels sent its pilot a note warning him several of his relatives were being held hostages there and would be killed if Algeciras were bombed again.

SHANNON ASSAILS AYIWARD FOR BACKING JUDGE GANTT
Says Democratic Chairman "Has Not Denied Any of Implications"

By Lawrence McDaniel.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 3.—Representative Joseph B. Shannon, Democrat, said last night James Ayiward, Democratic State chairman and national communications director, "has not denied any of the implications" of questions asked him by Lawrence McDaniel, St. Louis, candidate for the State Supreme Court.

Shannon was replying to a statement made Saturday night by Ayiward, in which the national communications director had said he had permitted his name to go on a brief like the insurance brief, referring to membership in fraternal insurance groups in Missouri. Shannon said "there are more than enough votes to defeat any candidate in any election in Missouri, and if Mr. Ayiward had been hit more experienced, he never would have raised this issue."

"I never knew of a chairman of a Democratic committee to take sides in a primary contest," Shannon added, referring to Ayiward's support of Judge Gantt. He asserted he was backing McDaniel, "I thought Judge Gantt was a bad man for the place."

American Woman Tells Of Terrorism in Madrid

"Streets Like Battleground" — "Youths Pushed Guns in Faces of Everybody They Met."

By the Associated Press.
MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Marion Hay, one of the first Americans to reach here from Madrid since the outbreak of the revolution, described last night the experience of the American colony during what she called "the terror of the Madrid revolt."

Mrs. Hay was among about 100 Americans, most of them students, who arrived here on the cruiser Guadalupe from Valencia after a long journey from the capital by train.

"We were glad to get out of Madrid," she said, "many of us slept in the American Embassy, which was turned into a dormitory with mattresses on the floor."

Fighting in the Guadarrama range north of Madrid, she declared, had not been nearly so active in the last few days as "the revolt in Madrid."

"The Leftists," she reported, appeared to outnumber their opponents, but "it was incredible how some of them were armed."

"Some had only pitchforks and knives or antique rifles," she said, "while children brandished old rusted swords."

Only six miles from the mountain passes, where the fighting forces were lying, peasants were peacefully harvesting their crops, Mrs. Hay declared.

Trouble in Madrid.
"The most terrible day in Madrid," she asserted, "was that of the outbreak of the rebellion at the Matana garrison and other garrisons, which was scheduled for noon."

"The Government learned of the impending revolt at 7 a. m. and went into action. The battle was terrible. Many of the officers in the Matana barracks committed suicide by agreement rather than surrender to the Government."

Mrs. Hay said she went to the American Embassy with other Americans, most of whom were students at the Spanish Institute of United States Organization of Spanish Studies.

"After the rebel garrisons surrendered," she said, "the Leftists took hold quickly."

"The streets of Madrid during the revolt were like a battleground. The chief danger was from auto-loads of young Communists and Socialists who pushed guns in the faces of everybody they met. We never knew when one of their fingers might tremble on the trigger."

"Once we identified ourselves by our passports, they let us go."

Militiamen Invaded Stores.
"There was little that could be called wild looting for the Leftist militiamen merely walked into stores and took the food and clothing they needed. I never saw them take valuables."

"The Embassy officials arranged to get us out Thursday, for fear that Gen. Queipo de Llano's army would soon reach Alcazar de San Juan, thereby cutting off rail communications to Valencia."

"A representative of the Consulate at Valencia showed us the ruins of the Cathedral, which was burned with all its religious objects. Only three churches were left intact in all Valencia."

"There was a bad food shortage there. The stores sold only a limited quantity of food on rations for two hours each day."

Mrs. Hay is professor of education in Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee and a former instructor in romance languages at Ohio State.

KILLED FLEEING FROM WATCHMEN

Both Negroes — One Shot
by Freight Terminal Employee, Who Also Seizes
Three Companions.

Two Negro burglars were shot and killed in trying to escape from licensed watchmen today and early yesterday.

An unidentified Negro was killed at 3 a. m. today while attempting to pry open a door at a freight terminal at Second and O'Fallon streets. He had arrived in the city from Arkansas several hours earlier, according to three companions, who were arrested.

Watchman Bernard Martin reported he was making his rounds in the terminal, which is operated by the Frisco and Rock Island Railroads, when he heard a noise. He stepped outside on a platform and covered six young Negroes with his revolver, commanding them to stand still. The group scattered, and Martin opened fire. One man fell dead, shot through the left side of the back, and three others halted.

The three young men captured said they were David Miles, 16; Ivory Mooney, 17, and Nathan Kennedy, 18 years old, who arrived here by bus last night from Forrest City, Ark. They said the man killed by the officer and the two who escaped got on the bus at Brinkley, Ark., and suggested the burglary after arriving here. The prisoners said they were curious, and went along. An iron bar, used in prying the door, was found on the platform.

The body of the dead man, who was about 25 years old, is at the morgue.

Burglar Killed by Watchman in Second Meeting During Night.

The shooting yesterday followed the second encounter of Licensed Watchman Frank H. Cleaver, attached to the Laclede Avenue Police Station, with a Negro carrying stolen cigars and cigarettes. Cleaver saw the man walk out of an alley on the west side of Twenty-third street, between Locust and Olive streets, with a carton under his arm. He called to the Negro to halt. The man, with Cleaver in pursuit, ran to Pine street and into a hallway at 2112 Pine street, where he dropped the carton and disappeared.

Cleaver recovered the carton, which contained cigars and cigarettes, and had telephoned a report of the incident to the police station from a call box at Twenty-third and Pine streets at 4 a. m., when he saw the same Negro, carrying a sack, walking toward him over Twenty-third street. The watchman dodged into a hallway, drawing his revolver. As the Negro passed, Cleaver stepped out and ordered him to halt, he said. The Negro dropped the sack and started running. Cleaver said he fired one shot in the air and two at the runner, who pitched forward to the pavement. Examination showed the man had been shot through the heart. The sack contained cigars and cigarettes.

At the morgue the dead man was identified by police through finger prints as John Jackson, 38, who had served terms for burglary in the Missouri and Illinois penitentiaries. He had been employed recently at the Coliseum, Jefferson and Washington avenues, and investigation revealed that a burglar had jimmied an inner door in the building leading to a cafe, from which a quantity of cigars and cigarettes had been stolen. The loot recovered by Cleaver was identified by the cafe owner.

BANK CASHIER AND YOUTH
KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Ship Piloted by Former Student Flyer, Falls in North Dakota.

By the Associated Press.
LAKOTA, N. D., Aug. 3.—A. E. Thompson, 28 years old, cashier of the National Bank of Lakota, and Mallory Watson, 17, farm youth living near here, were killed yesterday when their airplane fell in a field. Witnesses said the motor apparently failed while the plane was about 200 feet in the air in the middle of a turn. Thompson, licensed as a student flyer, had been flying about three years. He was not licensed to carry passengers.

By the Associated Press.
WARREN, O., Aug. 3.—Two persons were killed when an airplane crashed last night at Parkman, 15 miles northwest of Warren.

The dead: William Dreyer, 36 years old of Parkman, and Arnold Dreyer, 13, of Indianapolis, his nephew. William Dreyer owned and operated the plane. He had been flying with relatives and friends on short trips. His wife and father and mother saw the crash from their home nearby.

By the Associated Press.
ST. MARYS, Pa., Aug. 3.—Jack Dorval, 28-year-old former heavy-weight boxer, was killed yesterday when an airplane crashed on a farm near here. Frank McDowell, 38, of Bradford, Pa., pilot and only other occupant, escaped serious injury. Dorval, whose home was in Emporia, Pa., retired from the ring after fighting the late Ernie Schaff, title contender, at Boston.

WOMAN, 72, CLUBBED TO DEATH; NIECE HURT

Assailant Beats Two As They Lie in Bed in Home at Pueblo, Colo.

By the Associated Press.

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 2.—An unidentified assailant beat Mrs. C. H. (Sally) Crumpley, 72 years old, of Osawatomie, Kan., to death here early yesterday and gravely injured her niece, Mrs. Lilly McMurtree, 47.

The women were struck while they lay in bed. Mrs. McMurtree's 4-year-old grandson, Burton Beach, in the same bed with the women, slept through the attack.

District Attorney French Lee Taylor said the family had no enemies so far as known and there was no evidence of robbery as a motive.

The assailant, Taylor explained, evidently used a heavy club as a weapon. It has not been found.

Mrs. Crumpley came here Friday for a vacation with the McMurtrees. Her skull was fractured and investigators said they found several small stab wounds on her cheeks and forehead.

Mrs. McMurtree was struck on the head. Her skull was fractured. R. O. McMurtree, the injured husband, discovered the crime returning home after having been with friends.

Surviving children of Mrs. Crumpley are four daughters—Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Lance Newland, Mrs. I. M. Alexander and Mrs. M. E. Hughes, all of Kansas City, Mo.—and two sons, Horace Crumpley, Osawatomie, and Jack Crumpley, St. Louis.

YOUTH ADMINISTRATION'S NEW LABOR SCALE EFFECTIVE SOON

Maximum Hours a Week Changed to 46; Wages Will Be $19.32, $22.08 and $25.76.

A new wage and hour scale for boys working on jobs supplied by the National Youth Administration will be put into effect soon in accordance with a clause in the appropriations bill passed by Congress at the last session, Clark Buckner, Missouri director of the administration, said today.

The new scale will be as follows: Unskilled workers, 42 cents per hour; intermediate, 48 cents an hour; skilled, 56 cents per hour. Thus, for working the maximum of 46 hours per week, the boys will be paid at this rate: Unskilled, $19.32; intermediate, $22.08; skilled, $25.76.

Henceforth, the maximum a boy could work was 40 hours per week and the wage scale was slightly lower. NYA jobs are given to boys to supply supplementary relief to large families in which one member is already employed by the WPA.

St. Louis Is Entitled to a Supreme Judge VOTE FOR Lawrence McDaniel Democratic Primary point? If they take the recommendations of interested party committeemen and candidates, and if they are going to depend on a deputy election commissioner to challenge the fraudulent voters from merely a list of names, they might as well quit before they start, for this would be a farce worse in its effect than the farce of the supposedly clean registration and canvass they tried to pass off on us.

BOARD CAN PURGE LISTS, SAY FORMER ELECTION CHIEFS

"Let me illustrate what I mean. Suppose, for example, they appointed a keen-eyed, veteran newspaper man, one with a camera eye and brain, trained to meet and remember people, faces and names. Give that newspaper man a list of fraudulent voters and put him in a precinct where half of the registration was fraudulent, let that registration crowd in to vote, and that newspaper man, in spite of his honesty and rightful endeavor, would have to fold his tent and silently steal away as far as the effectiveness of his work would be concerned.

When She Was On Board.

"When I was on the board this was the procedure: A police canvass was made following the canvass of the clerks. This police canvass disclosed those who had moved, died or registered fraudulently; in short, any and all cases of persons not entitled to vote. This record was transferred to the registration books in this manner: The Election Board had star rubber stamps and green ink pads and a large green star was placed opposite each name challenged. This star stood out prominently, so that when John Smith appeared to vote the judges knew instantly that he was a challenged voter. He then had to take a written oath, giving his age, his nativity and other records of identity, and his signature was compared with the signature on the registration books.

"In addition, he had to have his oath reinforced with the written oath of a householder (which means a registered voter in the precinct, the head of a house) that he knew John Smith to be the right person. Where today could you get 46,252 householders to take this oath, thereby implicating themselves in a fraudulent act? Mr. Smith, after all of the above procedure, was allowed to vote, which act, if he was guilty of fraudulent registration, made him a felon, and he was taken by the police officers stationed at the polls to the police station and a charge placed against him.

"This procedure of the board was given wide publicity by the press. The judges and clerks, deputy election commissioners and police officers all had rigid instructions, which were followed implicitly; also, lists of all the fraudulent names were given to the deputy commissioners, the Circuit Attorney and the police officers, but this list was not given until the morning of the election, so that no one could be tipped off before the day of election. We further requested the Circuit Attorney to have the grand jury in session and any other courts for speedy issuance of warrants and information. It didn't take long for the 'boys' who issued orders to know that we meant business and the result was they didn't try to vote fraudulent voters, because they knew all traps were set and they would be caught. "The Spirit and the Letter."

"According to newspaper reports, the present Election Board permitted several hundred of the original 2500 challenged by the newspapers to transfer or restore their registration, and, according to the press, some of this has been done since July 26, the last day for transferring. What law did Chairman Waechter follow then and what law did the Election Board follow to establish the identity of these people? Where was the spirit and the letter of the law in these cases?

"The question has been asked of me, 'What do you think will be the result of this action of the board?' My answer is that this board has impaired all the good work of the press, for by selecting hand-picked deputy election commissioners and placing them in the polls with merely a list of fraudulent names, the full 46,252 can vote and it is a moral certainty that 75 per cent of them will vote."

Former Chairman Elgie's View. Former Election Board Chairman Elgie said to the Post-Dispatch: "I have read Mr. Remmer's statement carefully and think it is well reasoned. There is nothing in the statutes for removal of these names and nothing against it. I believe that under the law the board could act."

He was asked if he meant specifically the board could strike off the names. "That's the only thing they could do," he replied. "I'd take a chance on it."

As to the task of the deputy election commissioners at the polls tomorrow, he said: "I am afraid they will be handicapped. To hand a man a list of names and have him stand all day to watch for them is a real man's task. They will have to be alert and on the job every minute."

However, Elgie expressed the opinion that the exposure of the registration frauds would tend to minimize attempts at fraudulent voting.

THREE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH Crew on French Mail Ship Lose Lives in For Near Toulouse.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—A tri-motored mail plane of the Air France Line crashed yesterday in mountains 50 miles from Toulouse and its three crewmen were killed. The accident was attributed to fog.

The plane left Le Bourget airport here at 4:50 a. m. and crashed at 6 a. m. It carried mail addressed to South American cities.

FOR KANSAS LIVESTOCKMakes Radio Plea to Business Men, Civic Groups to Help
Save Herds in State.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 3.—Gov. Alf M. Landon called on Kansas business men and civic organizations today to co-operate with drought-stricken farmers in preventing unnecessary sacrifices of livestock.

"It is my hope and belief," said the Republican presidential nominee to a radio audience, "that it will not be necessary to sacrifice any large number of valuable breeding animals by sending them to market."

"Our livestock men, I know, will do everything in their power to hold on. But they should not have to meet the difficulty alone."

Appeals to Civic Groups.

"I want to call attention of the business men, of the local Chambers of Commerce and other civic organizations to the opportunity they now have to render a service, not only to their neighbors but to themselves. They should find out what they can do to help avert any unnecessary sacrifice. If these herds are broken up the business men of the community will be certain to feel the effect unfavorably."

"Livestock has always been regarded as the best farm collateral. The prospects ahead of it appear favorable. We have a national condition of unduly low meat production."

"If recovery is unimpeded, there should be a good market and good prices for livestock next year. This is one of the strongest possible reasons for livestock men to hold on and for their communities to co-operate with them in holding on. Another reason is that conditions can and do change for the better rather quickly. Fall rains may change the feed situation very materially."

Calls for Co-operation.

"We have always been a self-reliant people in Kansas. I am sure that the good sense and resourcefulness of the people in our various communities will be able to work out practical plans for the necessary co-operation."

"An acute feed shortage on a livestock farm demands prompt action. A great many stockmen, whose feed supplies are low, must make decisions within the next few days—decisions that will vitally affect not only the agriculture but the business interest of the State."

"The exact procedure that should be followed on an individual farm will, of necessity, be determined by conditions peculiar to that farm. The important consideration, however, is to make certain that valuable foundation herds are preserved. Unless these herds are preserved, Kansas agriculture will sustain a tremendous loss; for livestock, perhaps more than any other factor, determines the success of Kansas agriculture. The fine herds of livestock on Kansas farms are the result of years of hard work and intelligent planning. These herds must not be wiped out in a temporary emergency."

Talks With Grange Officers.

Farm problems created by the drought and the need of what Louis J. Taber termed "an intelligent approach to crop insurance" were discussed with Gov. Landon today by National Grange officers. Taber, master of the National Grange, Eugene Eckert of Mascouta, Ill., and C. C. Cogswell, Kansas Grange master, were in the committee which talked with the presidential candidate.

The Governor also talked with Senators John G. Townsend of Delaware, and Frederick Steiwer of Oregon, and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., candidate for the Republican nomination in Massachusetts.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, leader of an old-age pension movement, was scheduled to address a Topeka audience today. Landon told reporters Dr. Townsend had not asked for an appointment to confer with him. Dr. Townsend was quoted later as saying: "The Governor has expressed no desire to see me, so why should I ask for an appointment to see him?"

By the Associated Press.

NEWTON, Mass., Aug. 3.—Clarence Mainion, professor of constitutional law at the University of Notre Dame and director of the Indiana National Emergency Council, married Miss Virginia O'Brien of South Bend, Ind., here today.

The ceremony, performed in the chapel of Boston College by the Rev. Daniel Lord of St. Louis, Mo., was delayed 45 minutes while Father Lord obtained a permit to officiate in Massachusetts.

Present at the ceremony were Miss O'Brien's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien. O'Brien is president of a South Bend manufacturing company.

JOHN D. M. HAMILTON
RAKES WHEAT CONTROL

Says Farmers' Refusal to Accept It Has Saved Country From Disaster.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 3.—National Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton contends the refusal of many wheat farmers to participate in the administration's crop control plan has "saved the nation from a threatening disastrous shortage of a basic food."

In the first address of his campaign swing through 15 Western states today, delivered before a luncheon of party workers, he said: "The facts are that in the face of over $100,000,000 paid the wheat farmers so far for reducing the acreage of the 1935-1936 wheat crop, farmers nevertheless increased their wheat plantings by 8 per cent over the plantings of the preceding year. The sowings of wheat this year were 5,000,000 acres more than the year previous."

"There is an indicated world wheat shortage this year. In 1935 wheat imports increased from almost nothing to over 27,000,000 bushels. There are indications for the future much larger imports of wheat from foreign countries than even this alarming volume that has already developed under the farm policies of the present administration."

He said "the destruction of 6-200,000 pigs, the slaughter of 200,000 prospective mother sows and the reduction of corn by 12,600,000 acres" had left farmers without reserve supplies to meet the drought shortage.

Pork imports from 22 countries last May, he asserted, were double those of the entire year 1934.

He described the dairy farmer as a "forgotten man as far as Secretary Wallace is concerned" and said the reciprocal trade treaty with Canada had "increased eight fold" the importation of cheese from the Dominion and doubled the influx of cattle.

Winford
To Pitch
Of Series

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Winford, the league leading Cubs, the two clubs open an important series here today. The set will decide, temporarily at least, possession of the top in the National League per struggle which has developed a dog-fight between the two teams with the New York Giants leading around ready to move anything happens to the leader.

Seven and Six. Since leaving home just weeks ago the Redbirds, on their way through the four cities have won seven and lost games, winning two series and losing two. They won two out of three from Philadelphia, three of four from Brooklyn and dropped two out of three each to the Giants and the Boston Bees.

The Cardinals "staggered" through the games in the East to some extent but they made up a ground on the Cubs who staged a little more than did the Redbirds. But the pitching of the St. Louis club has shown improvement in the last two weeks and lately the team have done better than meant runs.

Young Arthur Garibaldi, too, serves considerable credit for way he has taken hold at home after his discouraging start at Boston last week. He has gained confidence rapidly, his fielding been better and his hitting good.

It was a disappointment to manager Frank Frisch to learn that Stuart Martin's indefinite suspension because he had hoped the national youngster would be ready for the series with the Cubs. However, as that is not to be, Frisch likely will stand pat on the line he has been using recently. Winford is to pitch the first game. Not that it may be advanced as the sole reason for the improvement of the team, but it is significant that the Cardinals have won six of nine games since Frisch installed the system of firing play for their failure to drive in runs from third base with none out, one out.

Frisch laughed when it was suggested that the change may have had something to do with the lift in team play and said, "I

IT'S mark time in Germany. So of plenty marks a lot of allround look at the Olympic Games. Cost prices and the time schedule of various sports make it plain that a day spent on the Olympic premises at top rates mean an expenditure of close to 30 marks or around $7.50 if you have bought "Registered" or travel marks.

If you neglected that and must use Reichsmarks it would cost more like $12.

For example: For the first real athletic day on the Olympic ground, events begin at 8 a. m. with catch-as-catch-can wrestling and wind on their way through another 12 hours, ending the day with fencing.

During the course of the day various activities between opening and closing time require the use of the Olympic Stadium, Deutsche Hall, Reich Sport Field, the Hockey Stadium and the weight hall at the Olympic Village.

Five Events, 50 Marks. The ticket costs for these various places average 10 marks on big days and 6 marks on ordinary days, or from 30 to 50 marks for five different events.

Of course, if you merely desire to sit down for the day in the Olympic Stadium and view only the track and field features, you could cut down expenses to 10 marks or less. But of what use is a five-ring circus if you're only going to view one ring of it?

If you want to buy a season ticket for all events at the Olympic Stadium, you could cut down

Cardinals in Chicago for First Place Battle With Cubs

Winford Is Slated To Pitch Opener Of Series Tomorrow

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—With only two points separating them from the league leading Cubs, the Cardinals reached Chicago today where the two clubs open an important four-game series tomorrow.

The set will decide, temporarily at least, possession of the top rung in the National League pennant struggle which has developed into a dog-fight between the two teams, with the New York Giants hanging around ready to move in if anything happens to the leaders.

Seven and Six.

Since leaving home just two weeks ago the Redbirds, on their wing through the four eastern cities have won seven and lost six games, winning two series and losing two. They won two out of three from Philadelphia, three out of four from Brooklyn and dropped two out of three each to the Giants and the Boston Bees.

The Cardinals "staggered through" the games in the East to some extent, but they made up a little ground on the Cubs who staggered a little more than did the Redbirds. But the pitching of the St. Louis club has shown improvement in the last two weeks and lately the bats have done better than his meat runs.

Young Arthur Garibaldi, too, deserves considerable credit for the way he has taken hold at third base after his discouraging start at Boston last week. He has gained confidence rapidly, his fielding has been better and his hitting good.

It was a disappointment to Manager Frank Frisch to learn of Stuart Martin's indefinite suspension because he had hoped the sensational youngster would be ready for the series with the Cubs. have had better pitching the past two weeks than at any other time of the season."

Spirit Excellent.

The club has played some bad baseball and some good baseball, they have been lucky and unlucky by turns but there has never been a letup in the spirit of the men who have, on occasion, shown the stuff which caused them to be termed the "Gas House Gang."

Certainly they had to show plenty of it in winning the doubleheader from the Phillies yesterday, 12 to 4 and 11 to 8, particularly in the latter contest when even the great Dizzy Dean was staggering around in the ninth inning with Phillies running around the bases like horses around a track and one more hit would have meant the ball game.

In the inning, which exploded like a bomb-shell just when it appeared that everything was serene with the Cardinals going into the inning with a six-run lead, Terry Moore made one of the greatest catches imaginable and turned what seemed a sure double into a double play. Without that, there is no telling what might have happened because, as it was, the Phillies bombarded Diz for four more hits and scored three runs before their last batter flied to Moore for the final out.

Diz had relieved George Earnshaw in the eighth inning with two out, men on second and third, and Norris at the plate. He got Norris all right. But in the ninth, Sperry,

Jesse Owens Is Bright Star at Opening of Olympic Competition

By John E. Wray.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, Aug. 3. (By Cable).—Our 10,000-meter race was out-classed, our lady javelin-throwers were pitiful, Jack Torrance was 8 feet short of his shotput peak, and Germany had its first Olympic thrill in history as her athletes scored two firsts out of four track and field events in the opening day's competition of the Olympic Games. Germany won the women's javelin and the men's shotput.

Finland swept the 10,000-meter run, but United States athletes finished one, two, three in the high jump.

Olympic and world records were kicked around as a near-capacity crowd voiced Deutschland Ueber Alles after each major victory and broke into thunderous cheering when the names of German athletes were mentioned.

Chancellor Hitler against president, aided by Herr Goering and the Reichsfuhrer shook hands with the winners, each of whom received, in addition to an Olympic medal, a small potted oak tree.

Jesse Owens, as always, was the bright star of the afternoon and he proved himself the most marvelous sprinter in history by equaling the world record in the first heat of the 100-meter dash and breaking it in the second. Without question his style is the smoothest ever seen.

A clocker in the press box announced that Jesse had negotiated the sprint distance in 10.2 seconds. "You're crazy," a listener protested, "Owens wasn't even trying hard." That is what many observers thought, so smoothly did Owens stride. Onlookers just couldn't believe that he was breaking a record. He won both heats by wide margins and the farther he paced the faster a smoother his pace became.

Torrance Disappointing.

The antithesis of Owens was Jack Torrance, the ponderous policeman-shotputter, who is grieving today because he considers himself responsible for the failure of the United States to take the lead in firsts. Hans Woelke, with a final put, heaved Germany to victory in the event with a new Olympic mark of 16.2 meters, considerably below Torrance's record. The big American is badly overweight, due largely to illness which prevented him from training, but which did not seem to interfere with his work at the dinner table.

Woelke's victory was the first Olympic triumph ever scored by a German male athlete and it was the second time during the afternoon that Deutschland registered. The first success was scored by Tillie Fleischer when she cast the javelin 45.8 meters. The husky Tillie, in this event, made our girl athletes appear to even greater disadvantage than our boys did in the long-distance running. Through 40 years our runners have not mastered distance running form and today we still have to win our first Olympic victory at more than a mile.

More than 200,000 persons have attended the Olympic events in two days, while probably is an all-time record.

U. S. OLYMPIC SOCCER TEAM LOSES TO ITALY IN ROUGH GAME

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—Italy's Olympic soccer team defeated the United States, 1-0, today in a rough match marred by a fist fight in which Bill Fiedler of Philadelphia was kicked by an opposing player.

The "battle" came after 12 minutes of the second half. Italy had scored a terrific struggle during which the German referee, Weingartner, frequently warned the Italians for their rough tactics.

Suddenly, during a battle for the ball, a half dozen Italians piled on to Fiedler and some one kicked him. He came up with a bad knee but remained in the game.

The Italian Crown Prince, Umberto, was among the 7,000 fans, most of whom jeered the Italians and cheered the Americans.

The referee finally motioned the Italian, Piccini, to the sidelines with a wave of his thumb, but three or four of Piccini's teammates, dashed to Weingartner and pulled down his hand and Piccini remained in the game. Thereafter the game resumed its normal course with few more kicks.

The German fans gave the Americans a lusty cheer when the teams assembled in the center of the field at the end of the game.

Frossi scored the Italian's only goal, Francis Barthus of Brooklyn played a great game for the Americans and barely missed what looked like a certain goal early in the first period.

Members of the two teams follow:

United States: Barkus, Greinert, Zbikowski, Crockett, Pietras, Altmose, Gajda, Nemohik, Lutkefiedler, Fiedler and Ryan.

Italy: Venturini, Fonti, Rava, Baldo, Piccini, Locatelli, Frossi, Marchini, Scabbello, Diagi and Cappelli.

Braves Nine Victor.

The Braves won the only game played in the All-American Baseball League yesterday, defeating the Tigers, 6-1. The Red Birds forfeited to the Pirates and the Bees forfeited to the Cubs. The Braves' victory gave them the second-half championship. The Braves will meet the Red Birds for the title in the first play-off game next Sunday.

MISSOURI GIRL WINS HEAT IN 11.4 SECONDS; OWENS GAINS TITLE

Girl Finishing Second to Fulton Flyer Nearly 10 Meters Behind—Officials Will Determine Validity of New Mark at Conference.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—Jesse Owens roared down the 100-meter stretch today in world and Olympic-record equalling time of 10.3 seconds to win an Olympic gold medal, but the Negro sprinter from Ohio State University had to snare the spotlight with another American sprinter, Helen Stephens, of Fulton, Mo., who twice lowered the world mark of 11.8 in the women's century trials.

The Missouri girl first traveled the distance in 11.4 and then in 11.5 in gaining the final of the event along with Annette Rogers of Chicago, while the third American sprinter, Harriet Bland of St. Louis, suffered elimination in the opening preliminaries.

Sandwiched in between the Missouri girl's record-smashing feats, Owens and Ralph Metcalfe, powerfully-built Chicago Negro, gave Uncle Sam a one-two finish in the 100-meters as Martin Osendarp of Holland nosed out Frank Wykoff, thus preventing an American sweep.

24-Year-Old Record Broken.

Meanwhile, two Germans and a Swede eclipsed the 24-year-old hammer throw standard of 179 feet 8-4-10 inches made by Matt McGrath, now a New York City policeman, at Stockholm in 1912.

Karl Hein won the title with a toss of 56.49 meters, 185 feet 4-1-10 inches; his countryman, Erwin Blask, was second with 55.04 meters, 180 feet 6-3-12 inches, and Sweden's Oskar Wargard, third, with 54.83 meters, 179 feet 10-4-6 inches.

Bill Rowe of Pontiac, R. I., and Donald Favor of South Gray, Me., placed fifth and sixth with 51.69 meters, 169 feet 5-7-4 inches, and 51.01 meters, 167 feet 4-11-10 inches, respectively. The favored American entry, Henry Dreyer of Providence, R. I., was eliminated in the semifinals.

Three U. S. Half-Milers Qualify.

America's three 800-meter runners—John Woodruff, University of Pittsburgh Negro freshman, the bespectacled veteran Charles F. (Chuck) Hornbostel of Evansville, Ind., and Harry Williamson of High Point, N. C., gained the final of the event to be run tomorrow.

Likewise, the United States trio of Harold Manning of Wichita, Kan., Joe McCluskey of New York, who ran third in the 1932 final, and Glenn Dawson of Tulsa, Ok., survived initial preliminaries in the 3000-meter steeplechase event, but none gave a performance that appeared threatening in any way (perpetuation of the reign of Finland's defending champion, Volmari Iso-Hollo).

The trials of the 400-meter low hurdles saw all American males the grade leading to the semifinals tomorrow. Glen Hardin of Greenwood, Miss., the Olympic champion and world and Olympic record holder, won his heat in 53.9 seconds, as did Joe Patterson of Oklahoma City, who was clocked in 54.4. Dale Schofield of Provo, Utah, qualified with a second place in 54.8.

America's total point total in track and field, reckoned on an unofficial 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis, soared to 46. Germany moved into second place with 31, with Finland third at 30.

American Negroes, running one-two in the second straight Olympic event, dominated the 100-meter event from the start to finish, each winning his semifinal heat and then fighting it out in the final. Metcalfe was a close second to Eddie Tolan, Detroit Negro, in the 1932 final.

The six finalists lined up with Owens on the inside, assigned the second lane from the pole to avoid the heaviest section of the track made muddy by a virtual cloud-burst at noon. Wykoff and Metcalfe were on the outside.

The six-man field broke perfectly the first time at the crack of the starter's gun. After 10 meters, Jesse, running machine-like, quickly moved to the front. He held a slight lead at the halfway mark and easily withstood Metcalfe's challenge in the last 20 meters. Wykoff was overtaken by the Hollander, Osendarp, who was timed in 10.5 seconds.

The sprint victory ceremony followed promptly as the capacity crowd gave the two American Negroes a tremendous ovation. Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, was among the first to congratulate Owens, who resumes work tomorrow in the broad jump and the 200-meter trials.

CURRY'S COLUMN From Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 3.

It's mark time in Germany, now. That is to say, you have to let go of plenty marks a lot of times each day, if you want to get an all-round look at the Olympic games.

Cost prices and the time schedule of various sports make it plain that a day spent on the Olympic premises at top rates mean an expenditure of close to 30 marks, or around $7.50 if you have bought "Registered" or travel marks. If you neglected that and must use Reichsmarks it would cost more like $12.

For example: For the first real athletic day on the Olympic ground, events begin at 8 a. m. with catch-as-catch-can wrestling and wind on their way through another 12 hours, ending the day with fencing.

During the course of the day various activities between opening and closing time require the use of the Olympic Stadium, Deutschland Hall, Reich Sport Field, the Hockey Stadium and the weight-hall at the Olympic Village.

It's Lyn Lary, Trying to Steal Home

The Browns' shortstop is leading both leagues at stealing bases, but he didn't make it this time. He tried to steal home in the fifth inning of the first game yesterday's doubleheader with the Sportsman's Park, but Catcher Hayes received Pitcher Lisenbee's throw in time to put the ball on the ambitious Lary. The batter moving out of the way is Roy "Beau" Bell and the umpire is Johnston.

WHITE SOX AND GIANTS "TOPS" IN WEEK'S BIG-LEAGUE PLAY

NEW YORK CLUB
GAME; DODGERS HIT BALL HARD

Cubs Drop Five of Seven Contests While Cleveland Indians Shine on Defense
— Yankees Strengthen Hold on First Place.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The revived Giants and walloping White Sox, a couple of clubs who weren't expected to go far in the pennant chase, topped the past week's big league performances, and took over third place in their respective leagues as a result.

The Giants showed the best defensive play in either league to win six of seven starts, although their hitting was only fair and their run-scoring ability mediocre.

White Sox Hit.
The White Sox, on the other hand, belted opposition pitching all over the lot, piled up a total of 108 hits, and, almost entirely by their offensive strength, took six games while losing two to top the American League.

Only the lowly Brooklyn Dodgers, who found their batting power at last, although losing five of nine starts, bettered the White Sox's hitting record, banging out 112 safe blows, for the big league leadership.

The leading Yankees and second-place Indians finished up just behind the White Sox in the American League, with four victories and a tie each in seven games, with the Indians outbidding the Yankees, 94 to 92, but scoring five less runs than the New Yorkers.

In the National League, however, the hitting slump of the leading Chicago Cubs continued, and the pennant defenders wound up at the bottom of the loop with only two victories in seven starts, while the second-place Cardinals, by taking both of today's games with the Phillies all but took over first place with a record of five wins and only two setbacks for the week.

In addition to leading both leagues in hitting, the White Sox and Dodgers also were tops in run-making, with 68 and 65, respectively, but neither was able to come even close to the Indians in slugging. The tribe, with Hal Trosky leading the way with five homers, slammed out 14 four-baggers, more than twice as many as any other club in either league, except the St. Louis Browns, who had nine.

The Giants, with their pitchers showing great improvement, were the defensive standouts, allowing only 12 enemy runs in seven games. The closest any club came to that mark was the 23 runs scored against the Cubs, while the best in the American League were the Browns, who allowed but 33 runs and won five of their eight games for their best week in more than a month.

Lead on Defense.
Affiliated, the Indians led both leagues, committing but six errors, compared to seven each for the Giants, Pirates, Cubs and White Sox.

Along with the Cubs as the week's biggest disappointments were the Washington Senators, who managed to win one of seven starts to wind up at the bottom of the American League pack, and the Boston Red Sox, who lost six while winning two.

TURNBULL WINNER IN MOTORCYCLE RACES; REFLEX IS INJURED

Don Turnbull, Vancouver, B. C., was the winner of the majority of events in the motorcycle races held last night at Walsh Stadium.

There were several accidents last night, the most severe coming before the actual starting of the races. Earl Reflow, promoter of the event, was inspecting the track with E. W. Seward of the American Motorcycle Association a half hour before events started, when Martin Thorsen, Geneva (Ill.) rider, ran into Reflow, knocking him down.

Reflow and Thorsen were taken to the Deaconess Hospital. They were unconscious and did not revive for a half hour. But after an examination, both were said to be all right. Reflow struck his head on the track in falling, but no serious injury was found. He and Thorsen both suffered numerous bruises.

Joe Finger, Joliet, Ill., also was injured and taken to the hospital, but he came back later to win one of the 16 races.

The attendance was announced as 3921.

"He Could Shoot an Arrow Upward—"

Hiawatha, if you believe everything you hear, could run forward so swiftly that said arrow would fall behind him, but if the Cardinals ever barnstorm into a league where Hiawatha is playing, they'll back Terry Moore in a foot race, for chalk, marbles or wampum. Here is the Redbird speedster beating a throw to first base during a doubleheader with the Cardinals won from the Phillies yesterday. Dolf Camilli is waiting for the ball, which ran second.

battling for Gomez, walked, and Jimmy Wilson hitting for Sylvester Johnson singled. Then Sulik lined the ball toward the scoreboard in right center. Terry Moore dashed over and made the catch just as his spikes hit the scoreboard and helped him to pivot to rifle to Durocher to double Sperry off second.

That looked like the finish but it wasn't for Durocher missed John Moore's grounder. Then Klein, Camilli, Atwood and Chiozza followed with hits to send three runs over the plate and leave the bases full with two out and only a few minutes of play remaining before the 7 o'clock law would have forced cessation of hostilities.

Frisch, it may be said to his credit, did not do any stalling for time by changing pitchers which he might easily have done but let Dizzy pitch to Norri. Norri was a dangerous hitter against Dizzy and whacked him for a home run in the series in St. Louis.

He met the ball squarely this time, to but again the fiery Terry Moore was waiting in the outfield to make the catch and end the contest.

A Long Lead.
Previously the Cardinals had built up a nine-run lead for George Earnshaw by pounding Joe Bowman and Ray Bengue for 12 hits and 11 runs in five innings but when Sylvester Johnson entered the picture in the sixth, their former teammate stopped the Redbirds cold and they got but two hits and no runs off him in the last four innings.

Earnshaw had a bad first inning when two hits and an error gave the Phils two runs but after that he went along in grand style until the eighth. In the intervening innings, he was found for only four hits and not more than one of them came in any one inning.

But George tired in the eighth. He could hardly get the ball up to the plate and Frisch relieved with Dizzy who had been warming up on the side lines waiting for an emergency.

After Dizzy got started, though, it was obvious that he had nothing but his glove. However, Terry Moore knows the password to the Gas House Gang and was there in the pinch.

The Redbirds made it easy for Pop Haines to win his sixth victory of the year in the opener for they lambasted four Philly hurlers for 18 safe wallop and after the second inning when they counted six times, Big Jesse was able to coast a bit. Pepper Martin paced the second inning drive with a home run through the screen over the score board in right center field with a mate on base and before the inning was out, the Redbirds had five hits, which with two bases on balls and an error gave them the half dozen tallies.

They picked up another in each of the next two innings while it was not until the fourth that the Phils solved Haines' slants for any runs. Then they put together four hits for two markers and Haines steamed along then until the ninth before he yielded any more.

Bucky Walters was the starting pitcher for the Phils and he lasted through the second. He gave way to Jorgens who hurled two innings and yielded to Slevass who pitched good ball for four innings, being found for three hits and no runs. But the Phils brought in a young lefthander, Harris, to finish the ninth inning after Bashore batted for Slevass in the eighth and the Cards got to him for six hits and five runs to clinch the issue.

Haines took it easy in the ninth and three hits including Klein's nineteenth homer of the season gave them two runs but made no difference in the final result.

A crowd of 20,882 packed every inch of the band box Baker Bowl. The fans were hanging on the griders in the upper deck of the grand stand and the ropes were stretched along the right field and the left field lines. The spectators also were lined in front of the left field bleachers and in center field.

These conditions made ground rules necessary and a blow into the crowd on the field was good for two bases.

Redbird Notes.
Very few police were on hand and several times the games were held up to push the crowds back to the foul lines. Play was consumed about five hours. Few hits went into the crowd, though, only five for the Cardinals and three for the Phils.

Earnshaw's victory was his second in Cardinal uniform, both being scored on the road.

Frisch looked more like the Fordham Flash with three hits in each game in which he went to the bat four times apiece.

Garibaldi had three singles and a double in the opener and two doubles in the closing contest.

There were a few other sparkling fielding plays in addition to that by Terry Moore. One was Leo Durocher's catch of Syl Johnson's liner in the eighth, the shortestst jumping in the air to snare the ball.

Play to 110,000.
The Cardinals played to more than 110,000 people in the four Eastern cities.

Eleven Cardinals went to bat in the second inning of the first game and 11 in the ninth inning.

Thousands of people were turned away from the park unable to get in as the left field pavilion, bleachers are so weak that they don't attempt to fill them to their capacity of 3500.

Medwick actually suffered from the ground rule, for he poled one drive to deep center which hit the club house on the fly and got only two bases when the drive should easily have been good for a triple.

HARMANN WINS
"DERBY" SHOOT
WITH 46 SCORE

With clay "pigeons" doing tricks as a result of a high wind, it took Dr. Martin F. Harmann to master the situation by cracking 46 out of 50 targets to walk off with the Creve Coeur "Derby" handicap trap-shooting laurels. Approximately 30 shooters strived for the top honors in the two events staged yesterday on the grounds of the Creve Coeur Gun Club.

A Perfect Round.
Dr. Harmann scored the only perfect round of 25 in the handicap event and with his 21 he easily took first place with the 46. E. J. Boenker missed but six "birds" to take the second place honors with a 44, while third place was conceded to Dr. R. N. Canaday of Dupu, Ill., who had a 43. Four shooters, Walter W. Bradbury, president of the Missouri Skeet Association; O. A. Messner, H. Daley and W. F. J. Fineup, were tied for fourth place, all having a 42 each.

In the Creve Coeur Club's 50 shots at 16 yards, the first place in Class A was occupied by Edward F. Best, who had scored 25 consecutive "kills" for his first round and then followed up at the second trap with a near-perfect 24 to garner a 49 total. Other Class A finishers were Dan Zimmer, 47; Boenker, 46; Bradbury and Dr. C. D. Magee, 44 each.

The handicap event winner, Dr. Harmann, continued his fine work with the shotgun by adding the Class B title to his string. He shot another 46 in this event. Louis Dief of Collinsville and H. Daley were next in line with a 45 each. Dr. Mead E. Hagerty, generally a serious threat in these district shoots, was forced to take a back seat in the B class competition with his lowly 36. He just returned on a trip from Alaska.

Wins in Class C.
Thomas L. Woods of Pickneyville, Ill., found his journey to the Creve Coeur club both a pleasant and profitable one as he scored a neat 45 to win the Class C honors. W. F. J. Fineup was runner-up in this class with a 43, while Dr. David Litchfield Pennney, the "Okoboji Indian," shot a consistent score in both the handicap and 16-yard events but had to be contented with a 39 in the latter shoot.

Trap Notes.
The wind yesterday had effected the clay "pigeons" to the extent that the shooters were confronted with lots of angles, ones which were different than those produced as a result of a "still" day. A few shooters believed yesterday's bad scores were the result of the mechanism of the trap itself, and still others believed the corn field in the foreground serves as a mental hazard.

The Illinois-Missouri Trapshooting League will conduct its next shoot next Sunday at Taylorville, Ill. Several of the local shooters will compete.

Louis Dief and E. H. Piepmeyer, hailing from Collinsville, purchased "tickets" on themselves yesterday but had their money refunded when others failed to participate.

The second annual Forty-ninth State shoot will take place Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 15 and 16, at the Airport Gun Club, located 2½ miles north of Lambert Field on Lindbergh highway.

The Creve Coeur club has added another trap, now making a total of three on the club's new grounds.

It also has one skeet field. CREVE COEUR DERBY HANDICAP.

AUDITORS REPORT ON COUNTY PROSECUTOR

More Efficient Accounting System Urged; All Fees Turned Over, They Find.

Installation of a more efficient accounting system and exercise of greater care in keeping records in the office of the Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County were urged in a report filed in County Court today by Schuessler, Keller & Co., public accountants, following their audit of the books of Prosecuting Attorney C. Arthur Anderson, as ordered by the County Court.

The auditors found that all of the $11,829 in fees received by Anderson during his first three years in office had been turned over to the County Treasurer, as required by law, and that all his expenditures from the $2500 contingent fund, set aside for him annually, were "reasonable."

The Prosecuting Attorney receives an annual salary of $3000 and is a member of the Parole Board. All fees received by the office must be turned over to the Treasurer quarterly. Of the $11,829 he received during Jan. 1, 1933, and Dec. 31 of last year, $4569 was turned over by Constables and Justices of the Peace, $6857 by the Treasurer's office and $402 by the Circuit Clerk's office.

Fees received by the Prosecutor from the Treasurer are turned back to him intact at the end of each quarter. In commenting on the accounting system now in use, the report suggested that "this arrangement be taken into consideration" if a new accounting system is installed.

Accounted for All Fees. The auditors reported that Anderson turned over to them all his bank statements and canceled checks and approved of their suggestion that they verify transactions affecting his office by communication with Constables and others concerned. They found that all fees the Prosecutor received were deposited in a separate bank account and that the accuracy of the amounts deposited was verified by reference to records of the Circuit Clerk, the County Clerk, the County Treasurer and the various Constables.

"Information thus obtained indicates to us that Mr. Anderson has accounted for all fees turned over to him," the report said. "In conducting our examination we noticed quite a number of clerical errors in recording transactions and in preparing reports, none of which had any effect on the net income of the office, and we suggest that the clerk in charge of the records be instructed to exercise more care in the future."

Fees on Criminal Cases. A fee is supposed to be paid the Prosecuting Attorney in every criminal case where a fine is assessed. The auditors found that township officers had remitted 933 fines to the Treasurer but that the Prosecutor had received only 914 fees, totaling $4569, in these cases. The auditors noted that in the 19 cases in which the Prosecutor received no fees, either the latter had waived the fee or township officials had failed to collect it. Expense of the office paid from the contingent fund for the three-year period totaled $6256, compared with $4711 spent during a similar period preceding Anderson's term. In 1933 the office used $1547 from the fund, in 1934, $2327, and in 1935, $2381. In the latter two years the office was put to considerable expense in prosecution of the Kelley kidnapping cases and nearly half the amount spent in those years was for traveling expenses. The auditors, while finding no fault with the Prosecutor's use of the contingent fund, recommended that in the future more complete records be kept pertaining to expenses, and added that this suggestion had already been adopted.

In conclusion the report recommended that the Prosecuting Attorney file with the County Court, at least once a month, a complete list of all money due his office but not yet collected. This would necessitate submission to the Prosecutor by Justices and Constables, at frequent intervals, complete information relative to their dockets, it was stated. If this system were adopted, the report went on, it would enable the County Court, through its auditing officer, to cooperate with the Prosecuting Attorney in collection of fees and also keep the Court closely in touch with activities of the Justices and Constables.

NEW APPEAL FOR CHOIR SINGER

Last Minute Effort to Save Man Convicted of Killing Wife.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Unless the Massachusetts Supreme Court grants the last minute appeal of Newell P. Sherman's attorneys for a new trial today, the 27-year-old Sutton choir singer may die in the electric chair tonight for killing his wife.

His attorneys, J. Fred Hume and William W. Buckley, said they would seek a new trial today for the 240-pound singer convicted of tipping over a canoe and allowing his wife, Alice, 22, to drown in Lake Singletary, July 20, 1935. They said they had new evidence to present. The State contended the killing was motivated by Sherman's infatuation for Esther Magill, 18, fellow-worker in a machine shop. Sherman reported the death as an accident.

AVERAGE FACTORY EARNINGS OF AUTO WORKERS UP 16 PCT.

Manufacturers Report Stability of Employment Exceeds That of Any Previous Year.

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—The Automobile Manufacturers' Association said in a statement today that average earnings of automobile factory workers were 16 per cent higher this year than in the 1935 production season and 52 per cent higher than in 1934.

As a result of the industry's stabilization program, the statement said, the number of employees at work has shown a fluctuation of less than 6 per cent during the eight months from November, when production started, through June. "This record," the association said, "resulting from combination of the industry-wide stabilization program undertaken last fall and the material growth of business, exceeds the stability and continuity of employment experienced by the industry in any previous year and finds no parallel in strictly comparable industrial operations."

"In terms of weekly earnings, the average for all employees during April and May of this year was $32. Against this is a previous mark of $35 in the spring of 1929, when, however, the cost of living was much higher."

The statement estimated that "at least 150,000 persons were kept employed last winter in automobile and allied plants, who normally would have been laid off awaiting a later start of production."

JIMMY WALKER BACK IN U. S.

Former New York Mayor Says He Will Vote Democratic.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Former Mayor James J. Walker, who resigned under fire in 1932 during an investigation of his office by Franklin D. Roosevelt, then Governor of New York, returned from Europe today, and said: "I am still a Democrat and I'm going to vote the Democratic ticket."

Walker, who was accompanied by his wife, the former Betty Comp-ton, was welcomed by a small group of friends who boarded the Normandie at Quarantine. There was no welcoming crowd at the pier.

SIX PLANES AT SCOTT FIELD GROUNDED AFTER FATAL CRASH

Ships of New Type Kept Idle Pending Report of Board of Inquiry.

Six new type Douglas observation planes have been grounded at Scott Field pending an effort to determine what caused the wing to crumple on a plane of the same type Saturday, killing two enlisted flyers, Private Jesse Neal and Richard A. Wegrich of the Fifteenth Observation Squadron. A board of inquiry is expected to make a report in about a week.

The seven planes, known as the O-46A, were received last month from the Douglas factory in California. They are the latest observation planes designed for the army. Neal, the pilot, and Wegrich, observer and radio man, were making a radio contact flight, two miles southeast of Smithton, Ill., in the new monoplane when the wing crumpled and the ship went into a violent spin. Neal jumped, but struck the tail surface of the fast moving ship, suffering fatal injuries. His parachute opened and carried him to earth. Wegrich did not get out of the ship and died in the crash.

Funeral services for the two flyers were held this morning in

GERMAN-AMERICANS' PLEA IN POLITICAL RACE ASSAILED

Carl Sievers Says Stand Expressed by One Group Is Not Representative.

Carl Sievers, 2646 Russell boulevard, secretary of the St. Louis Association of German-American Democrats, yesterday issued a statement denying that an appeal by a group of citizens of German extraction to voters to support either Jesse W. Barrett or William Hirth for the nomination for Governor, was representative of the majority opinion of naturalized Germans in St. Louis.

Sievers said that the Protective Committee, representing 20 German sick and death benefit societies, had rejected a request for such an endorsement and had specifically voted not to endorse the two candidates.

The organization of which he is secretary, Sievers said, is supporting Lloyd C. Stark for the Democratic nomination.

POLLS ON ENTRIES FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

Attorneys Also Sound Out on Those Seeking Circuit Attorney and Criminal Court Jobs.

Both the Bar Association of St. Louis and the younger Lawyers Association of the Eighth Judicial Circuit have recommended certain candidates seeking nominations for judicial offices in tomorrow's primary election.

The Bar Association, in a non-partisan poll of its members, selected as best qualified for office, regardless of political affiliation, the following candidates:

For Circuit Judge, Judges Arthur H. Bader, Robert W. Hall and Frank Landwehr, all Republicans; Chilton Atkinson, Richard T. Brownrigg and Frank B. Coleman, all Democrats.

For Circuit Attorney—Circuit Attorney Franklin E. Miller, Democrat.

For Court of Criminal Correction—Police Judge Joseph L. Simpson, Democrat.

The Lawyers' Association in its poll sent ballots to all St. Louis lawyers in good standing, asking them to say simply whether each candidate was qualified or not. Political affiliations of the candidates were not listed.

In this poll the following candidates were chosen as qualified:

Circuit Judges—Ernest F. Oakley, Richard T. Brownrigg, Chilton Atkinson, Frank Lee, William B. Flynn, Thomas Bond, Frank B. Coleman, Joseph F. Dickmann, David J. Murphy, Thomas J. Rowe, Francis L. Kane and George C. Mackay, Democrats; Arthur H. Bader, Frank Landwehr, Robert W. Hall, Granville Hogan, M. Hartmann, Clyde C. Beck and A. R. A. Resche, Republicans.

Court of Criminal Correction—Joseph L. Simpson and Joseph F. Schmitt, Democrats; Edward E. Butler (unopposed), Republican.

Circuit Attorney—Franklin Miller (incumbent, unopposed), Democrat; Edward Gragg, Republican.

Petitions to Be Circulated. The Bar Association will be circulated by the Bar Association to put its Non-Partisan Judicial Ticket on the November general election ballot. If any of those endorsed in the poll of nomination, the next in rank preference will be placed on the ticket. This ranking has not been made public. All candidates endorsed by the Bar Association were among those listed as qualified by the Lawyers' Association. The Bar Association will take steps to support its ticket in the November election.

The Lawyers' Association, through the Judicial Institute, comprising laymen as well as lawyers, has endeavored to promote the candidacy of those whom it held qualified, as shown by the poll.

Dr. Holt Speaks for Bar List. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church, in a sermon at a union service with Second Baptist Church at his church yesterday, urged the congregation to follow the recommendations of the Bar Association in voting.

While, he said, he would not inject partisan politics into his sermon, "No man can be a Christian," he declared, "who is not a Christian in all of his life relationships. He must assume the responsibilities of citizen. I do not think you can be indifferent as to who is controlling affairs in this city or state and still be a Christian. Go to the polls to vote on Tuesday."

CHECK QUITS THE RACE

Congressman Out Because of Mother's Illness, He Says.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 3.—Congressman Marion A. Zionscheck, opposed for re-election by five Democrats and four Republican candidates, announced today he was making re-election because of his mother's illness. All his opponents satisfied his recent Washington, New York and other misadventures.

Zionscheck, who escaped from a Maryland sanitarium several weeks ago to return here, discussed "personal" in confirming the withdrawal announcement made by the Washington Commonwealth Federation but said his mother's illness was the real reason.

either Jesse W. Barrett or William Hirth for the nomination for Governor, was representative of the majority opinion of naturalized Germans in St. Louis.

Sievers said that the Protective Committee, representing 20 German sick and death benefit societies, had rejected a request for such an endorsement and had specifically voted not to endorse the two candidates.

The organization of which he is secretary, Sievers said, is supporting Lloyd C. Stark for the Democratic nomination.

EDITORIAL

Judicial Candidates Indorsed By St. Louis Bar Association

NAMES of candidates selected by the St. Louis Bar Association in a non-political poll of its members as best qualified for judicial office are published herewith for the information of voters in tomorrow's primary:

For Circuit Judge:
Judge Arthur H. Bader, Republican.
Judge Robert W. Hall, Republican.
Judge Frank Landwehr, Republican.
Chilton Atkinson, Democrat.
Richard T. Brownrigg, Democrat.
Frank B. Coleman, Democrat.

For Circuit Attorney:
Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, Democrat.

For Judge of Court of Criminal Correction, Division 2:
Police Judge Joseph L. Simpson, Democrat.

The Bar Association's poll named members' leading choices only, for the number of offices to be filled instead of selecting a candidate from each party for each office. As it turned out three Democratic and three Republican candidates for Circuit Judge were selected, although under the non-partisan ballot any number of Republicans or Democrats, up to six, might have been chosen.

NORMAN THOMAS ASKS LONDON FOR VIEWS ON COMPANY UNION

Socialist Candidate Queries Roosevelt in Speech About Stand on Sharecroppers.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 3.—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, today addressed questions to the presidential candidates of the two major political parties on their attitude on labor questions.

In a speech at a picnic here, he asked Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican nominee, to "clarify his stand on company unions."

"Is he, as his acceptance speech would seem to indicate," Thomas said, "opposed in principle—aside from any constitutional question—to the Wagner law forbidding company unions? Does he, or does he not, recognize that in this area the Bethlehem Steel Co. has used the intimidation of job control and a spy system to maintain industrial serfdom? Is it his position that all we can expect of government during an organizing campaign is that it should keep hands off, except to prevent open violence?"

Thomas asked Roosevelt to declare his stand on efforts to organize sharecroppers.

"Mr. Roosevelt," Thomas said, "how much is your friendship for labor worth? You hope to carry Pennsylvania by the votes of the workers, what about Arkansas and other cotton states where the worst exploited workers have no votes?"

"Will you now declare publicly and explicitly where you stand in reference to them, their problems and their right to organize without fear of the whip and the mob?"

FEW REMAINING EVIDENCES OF SANCTIONS FOUND IN ROME

Meatless Days Gone; Heatless Ones Would Be Welcome in Summer Temperatures.

ROME, Aug. 3.—Tourists who expected to note a scarcity resulting from the late sanctions are finding few visible reminders. Meatless days are gone and the former heatless ones would be welcome in summer temperatures.

But the price of gasoline still is extortionately high, although tourists may obtain a discount. Here and there may be seen shops and hotels with sections of their advertising signs painted out or removed. The obliterated portions probably were written in English and removed as a precaution against reprisals by street demonstrators.

Restaurant menus may list such bizarre comestibles as "Adwua soup" or "Makale Tea" which was discovered after patriotic fervor prompted restaurateurs to expunge foreign-named dishes from their offerings. The visitor occasionally may find a bartender reaching for a bottle of Italian gin instead of the imported product as he makes his martini. It is force of habit from the saintly days when handling a bottle of English liquor was faintly suggestive of high treason. Another anti-sanctions measure still enduring is the extinguishing of half the city's street lights at 10:30 p. m.

NEW SAN FRANCISCO BRIDGE INCOME TO BE INSURED

$44,000,000 Policy to Guarantee $4,000,000 Yearly Return, as Well as Accident Protection.

TOWANDA, Pa., Aug. 3.—A $44,000,000 insurance policy which will guarantee an annual income of $4,000,000 from the eight-mile Golden Gate Bridge connecting San Francisco and Oakland, will be taken out Sept. 1, Glenn Woodruff, engineer of design for the structure, told friends here.

Woodruff stopped over for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Woodruff, while en route from New York to San Francisco. He said he had been making arrangements for the insurance.

The policy will protect the bridge from damage by fire, earthquakes, ship collision or collision of motor vehicles or trains while crossing it. A $33,000,000 policy placed three years ago expires this fall.

The toll for automobiles probably will be 80 cents, Woodruff said. It will be open for use Nov. 12. He said 18 months more will be required to complete the lower deck for interurban trains.

Medal for Maj.-Gen. Bolles.

NEVADA, Mo., Aug. 3.—A distinguished service medal voted recently by the Missouri State Military Council will be conferred on Major-General Frank C. Bolles, commanding officer of the seventh corps area, Omaha, at Camp Clark here Aug. 20. Gov. Park will present the medal. Major-General Bolles, who will retire in September, is a native of Rolla, Mo.

A. F. L. COUNCIL'S TRIAL OF LEWIS FACTION BEGINS

Prosecutor Sketches Charges Against Leader of Industrial Union Movement and 11 Aids.

'DEFENDANTS' NOT AT THE SESSION

Henry Ohl Jr. Urges Compromise, but William Green Says Hopes for Settlement Are Dim.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told reporters today that hopes for settlement of the controversy between the craft union faction of the organization and John L. Lewis were "not so bright as they were prior to today's meeting of the Executive Council." He made the statement at the end of the first session of the trial of Lewis and 11 other union leaders for "insurrection and rebellion."

Appearing as prosecutor at the trial, John P. Frey had charged Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and the 11 groups in the Committee for Industrial Organization with "ingratitude, treason and contemptuous disregard of the principle of majority rule."

Frey, president of the federation's metal trades department, gave his views after a compromise proposal to delay a showdown was made by Henry Ohl Jr., president of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor. There was no action in Ohl's proposal.

Frey promised his fellow members of the executive council acting as judge and jury that "there will be presented to you a voluminous record to substantiate the charges which have been made, and it may become advisable to call certain witnesses." He added that "there will be placed before you the official documents indicating why the unions forming the C. I. O. are not present to reply to the charges filed against them on July 15."

Green pessimistic.

Green said he based his statement on the second refusal of the Committee for Industrial Organization members to appear before the council to explain their stand.

"This second refusal," Green said, "makes peace much harder to accomplish. As long as there was hope that we could get together to discuss this problem, there was far more hope for a settlement."

The C. I. O. union leaders, three weeks ago, turned down an invitation to appear before the council, before formal charges against them had been made.

Neither Lewis nor any of his associates was present.

Proposal by Ohl.

Ohl proposed that the Lewis committee confine its activity to the steel and rubber industries, that the A. F. of L. support Lewis in organization drives in those fields, and that the issue of industrial versus craft unionism be committed to the federation convention next November in Tampa. The Ohl proposal was adopted by the Wisconsin Federation in convention several weeks ago.

After he had been before the council an hour and a half, Ohl told reporters that the members had not committed themselves to his peace plan, but had "asked a lot of questions." He added the still was hopeful it would be accepted and that he intended to talk with members of the Lewis faction before he returned to Wisconsin.

Ohl said he did not think the organization policy of the A. F. of L. just now was "adequate" or that the committee for industrial organization "can do the job."

The policy must be sufficiently elastic to cover the needs of the workers," he said.

"The question of industrial vs. craft unionism should be left open," Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his 11 associates in the Committee for Industrial Organization, challenged the council's right to try them and remained away from the session.

Unions in the Lewis group were said in labor circles to include more than 1,000,000 workers. If the council should decide to suspend them, the Federation would lose about one-third of its membership and one-third of its revenue.

Lewis Letter Assails Council.

Lewis sent a letter yesterday to members of his union, assailing the Executive Council for what he said was "flouting" of the "directions of the last two Federation conventions." Privately, a craft union leader denied the Lewis charge, but they refused, they said, to "try their case in the newspapers."

Lewis' letter said: "We maintain that there is room

ROOSEVELT APPROVES 'AGGRESSIVE' TACTICS

Farley Says Democratic Expenses Will Be Kept Within $2,000,000.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 3.—President Roosevelt gave his approval today at a two-hour political conference to plans of the Democratic National Committee to begin immediately what was termed "an aggressive campaign."

Besides Farley, Mr. Roosevelt called W. Forbes Morgan, committee chairman; L. W. Robert Jr., secretary; Frank Walker, Finance Committee chairman; Miss Mary Dewson, women's division director, and Charles Michelson, publicity director.

FOUR KILLED IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, Aug. 3.—Four persons were killed yesterday in a renewal of anti-Jewish disorders in Palestine.

Two Jewish watchmen were shot to death, an Arab detective was killed and a member of an Arab band was killed in three separate disorders. A British soldier was wounded.

MOSLEM UNREST IN ALGIERS; MUFTI MURDERED IN STREET

Ben Dali Stabbed to Death by Assassin; Politics Is Motive, Police Say.

ALGIERS, Aug. 3.—Mohammedan natives were restless today following the killing yesterday of Mufti Ben Dali, a Moslem leader in the Algerian capital.

The Mufti was found lying in the street with a knife in his heart. He was killed, police thought, by a hired assassin. Senegalese troops patrolled the streets to prevent disorders growing out of the killing which was attributed by police to political enemies of the Mufti.

A native said the leader, who was 68 years old, was stabbed by a young native as he stopped to receive a kiss on the forehead given to venerable marabouts as a sign of respect.

Police investigated the possibility the dignitary was killed because he signed a telegram in which several Mohammedan officials disavowed the Mohammedan mission which went to Paris with a list of demands from young Algerian extremists.

NANKING TROOPS ROUT KWANGSI SOLDIERS

Force Opposing Domination of Chiang Kai-shek Beaten in Battle.

HONG KONG, Aug. 3.—Central Government troops defeated 3000 provincial soldiers from Kwangsi after a seven-hour battle, Chinese reports said today.

The clash between forces of the Nanking Government and the Kwangsi columns opposing domination of southeastern China by the armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek was declared to have occurred yesterday at Mushanghu, near Doshing.

These reports also said Eugene Chen, well-known radical leader, arrived in Kwangsi province, apparently to join the independent southern government.

The Nanking leaders, meanwhile, sent an ultimatum to the Kwangsi Government demanding clarification of its attitude by next Wednesday.

Kwangsi Troops Occupy Small Border Towns.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.—Kwangsi provincial troops streamed across the southwestern border of Kwangtung province to occupy numerous small border towns and hastily mobilized forces from Kwangtung hurried to the area to block the invasion, the Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported today.

The United States consulate at Canton said the troop concentrations were in the neighborhood of Wuchow. Consular officials said the presence of the American vessel Mindanao and other foreign war craft near Wuchow was considered adequate to meet any emergency and protect foreigners in the territory.

Nanking Government authorities denied any hostilities had occurred, adding the National Government had established a military blockade around Kwangsi to prevent expansion of the rebellious movement in the southern provinces.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight democracy of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Nationalization of Munitions Manufacture

A MAJORITY report of the Senate Munitions Committee has recommended Government manufacture of naval vessels and various implements of war, such as powder, machine guns, gun forgings, armor plate, etc., while a minority would leave the munitions industry in private hands but subject it to strict regulation. While the practices of the private munitions industry have been shown to be most anti-social and its activities a powerful force for war, the majority of the committee is expecting too much if it thinks mere Government ownership and operation of the munitions plants will be a definite cure for war. Contrary to a large sector of public opinion, wars are not entirely caused by a small, powerful group of dealers in arms, who by various shady methods embroil the country in a conflict. Modern war is a highly complex institution; and like other institutions, it has a large number of factors contributing to its continuance.

War has its economic aspects and causes. It may be waged to gain more markets; to find outlets for domestically produced goods; to protect investments; and to benefit powerful interests in a thousand and one ways. War also has its political side, frequently coupled with the economic. Every war has its psychological cause that indefinable something which makes the mob cheer when it hears martial music. Racial and religious prejudices play a part. Mussolini claimed his war was a mission of civilization and enlightenment to an enslaved people. In considering war factors, one must not overlook the yellow press, which by propagandizing in the news, can create a militaristic spirit in the country no matter who owns the munitions plants. Japan is fighting in China for a multitude of reasons; and nowhere in the world is the munitions industry so completely under Government control, outside of the Soviet Union, as in Japan. Another fact might be used to dampen the enthusiasm of those who say nationalization of the munitions industry will insure peace. Modern wars are not fought with munitions alone. A nation might have all the guns, powder and armor plating it needed, yet it would soon collapse if its army and civilian population did not have such articles as foodstuffs, blankets, medicine and the like. In modern warfare, armies do not fight against each other; nations do.

But, though Government ownership of these key war industries will not stop war, it will at least minimize the force making for war. It will go a long way with one sure spot that long has been a national scandal. There will be a tendency for the Government to produce only what is necessary for the national defense, under proper management. It may not keep us out of war entirely, but will at least lessen our chances of getting into it. Certainly the present system is intolerable and cannot be allowed to continue. The Government already is manufacturing certain army equipment and there is no indication that it is more inefficient than private manufacturers of arms, who are moved by the incentive for profit. And even the strictest regulation will not take the profit out of privately owned industries. For these reasons, the writer favors nationalization of such industries, not as a cure, but as a palliative.

Father Coughlin's Philosophy.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
GEN. JOHNSON'S article on Father Coughlin's inflationary philosophy is thought-provoking, especially so when he says that the good father not only wants the Government to repudiate its own debts but, by the same process, he hopes to repudiate all private debts. It is this writer's opinion that Father Coughlin is in need of a monetary and social justice philosophy, based along lines as propounded by his distinguished fellow priest, Mgr. John A. Ryan of Catholic University of Washington, D. C. His theory is not as superheated or thrilling as Father Coughlin's. It is, however, decidedly more substantial. J. J. B.

Favors Mr. Claiborne's Candidacy.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I SAW very much in your editorial of a few days ago in which you commended the candidacy of C. Arthur Anderson for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Twelfth District because of his fine record as Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County. That he has been a vigorous and able prosecutor cannot be denied and there is no dispute about that his fine record should be rewarded.

But do you think it is in the interest of fairness, common sense or good government to reward him at the expense of our sitting Congressman who has made an enviable record? In a Congress that has been criticized as being "rubber stamp," Mr. Claiborne has stood out eminently. In a Congress that has been criticized for passing ill-considered legislation, Mr. Claiborne has given every evidence of studying measures before him, arriving at his own decisions and of having the courage to back his convictions. He has been honest, conscientious and courageous and, in the next few years, when we need these qualities as never before, it strikes me that this is an inopportune time to change horses.

COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

USE THE BALLOT!

During the last two weeks, the citizens of St. Louis have watched the unfolding of the most startling condition of election corruption that has occurred here since the days of Butler's Indiana, when a political revolution headed by Joseph W. Folk was necessary to rid the city of the thieves and scoundrels who had captured it.

More than 45,000 ghost names—placed upon the books by the crudest methods—were to be used in an effort to determine the results of tomorrow's primary. The crooks peopled empty houses and vacant lots and even went to the cemeteries for names to employ for their purposes.

But for the Post-Dispatch investigation which, in turn, forced the official investigation of the Election Board, these ghost names would have been voted. They would have, in all probability, carried the balance of power in the primaries. A supposedly free election would have become a howling farce, engineered by the political underworld.

In fact, the danger that frauds will be attempted, despite the disclosures of the official investigation, still lurks. This is possible because of the Election Board's refusal to strike the names, on technical legal grounds, and its astounding decision to let the politicians—including, no doubt, many who are responsible for the disclosed frauds—name the special challengers.

It is ever possible fully to awaken and alarm the electorate, if it is ever possible to instill in every decent citizen a determination to use his vote in the interest of pure elections and good government, this situation should do so!

It shows how the corrupt politicians violate the sanctity of the ballot for their own ends; how, while good citizens make every excuse for not going to the polls, the denizens of the underworld are at work to capitalize on apathy; how, even when corruption is demonstrated, obstacles arise to prevent a complete cleanup.

The ballot is a most precious thing. Without it, there would be no democracy. Yet so many of us consider it a bore and a nuisance to use what it took centuries of blood and tears and misery to achieve.

It is a sorry commentary, not only on our attitude toward citizenship, but on our intelligence for, when we stay away from the polls, we make it easy for the underworld to control our elections and, by the same token, to dominate our destinies.

It may be trite to say we get no better government than we deserve, but it is nevertheless something that may well be pondered on this, the eve of the primaries. Of what avail is it to complain about corruption and inefficiency in government when we stay away from the polls and let the underworld elect our public officials?

Before an aroused electorate, the most potent political machine is powerless. It cannot steal enough votes to counteract the outpouring of honest ones. The scurvy cheaters who pad registration lists and send around squads of repeaters cannot prevail against the avalanche of ballots that decent citizens have at their disposal.

Go to the polls tomorrow! Use the ballot! Be an American citizen, in fact as well as in name!

ALL WET.

They were all set. The crowd was there. The athletes of 52 nations were there—every one of the 5000 of them except Eleanor, and she was there unofficially. The pomp and ceremony were there. And right on the dot Adolf himself was there to speak the word that would break the seal of the eleventh Olympiad. Then came the rain in pelting torrents and the blinding spectacle was a soaking, squishing, bedraggled quagmire. Herr Hitler may have suffered no personal inconvenience. He's the possessor of the 24 umbrellas, isn't he? Or is he? Just the same, if he is the elder brother of omnipotence, as he sometimes implies, and if he is the ruler of wind and wave, land and sea, sky and beyond—well, J. P. Pluvius just poured it on the Nazi big shot.

"LIKE A MACHINE."

The re-canvas of the poll books discloses that the largest colony of "not found" registrants resides in the Fourth Ward, domain of Jimmy (Little Caesar) Miller. Of 13,671 names appearing on the books from that ward, the investigators were unable to find the owners of 4729, or more than one-third. This is the balliwick of which Boss Miller on Aug. 7, 1934, primary day, made the classic utterance: "We're going to vote 'em over here just like a machine." It was a statement of unadulterated truth. And it is apparent that in this ward, voters are also registered "like a machine," a mass-production machine.

A dip into the election statistics for the last few years at any given date discloses the perfection of the machine technique. The virtual uniformity of votes polled by preferred candidates is amazing. In the 1932 elections, for instance, the ward gave 5181 votes to Roosevelt, 5153 to Clark for United States Senator, 5519 to Park for Governor and from 5140 to 5281 each to the 12 Democratic candidates for Representative-at-large. In the 1934 elections, the machine strength was in the 5400s. Nine judges of the Circuit Court got from 5470 to 5483, Truman for Senator got 5483, Griffin for Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction got 5472, Fitzsimmons for the Supreme Court got 5482 and Leedy 5477, Hostetter for the Court of Appeals got 5479. In the city election of 1933, 14 Aldermen polled from 4611 to 4616 votes each—a difference of only five votes between high and low men!

If the watchword in elections is uniformity, it is near-unanimity in the primaries. The Miller slate of Aldermen in the 1933 city primary polled from 3409 to 3728 votes each; their opponents polled between 130 and 454. The vote for the entire Miller slate was 94.2 per cent of the total. In the vote on a nominee for Senator in August, 1934, Jimmy did even better: Cochran had 5963 votes, his three opponents a total of 28. The vote against Cochran thus was the microscopic figure of .00466 of the total! In the same primary, eight candidates for Judges of the Circuit Court got from 5442 to 5947 votes; their opponents, 7 to 287. For Probate Judge, Arnold polled 5969 votes, his two opponents, 29.

Such uniformity and unanimity leave the record of the Pendergast machine in Kansas City far behind. They surpass even the results of the Hitler machine in Germany's "Vote Ja or else—" elections. Searching investigation by the Election Board was in order long ago, but it has never been forthcoming. The figures on the registration of June 18, taken in connection with the election statistics for past years, explain a great deal about the machine's workings. Drastic action is imperative to end the Fourth Ward's burlesque of the democratic process.

THE BAR AND THE JUDGESHIPS.

Six circuit judgeships for the Eighth Judicial Circuit, comprising the City of St. Louis, are involved in tomorrow's general primary. Twenty-five Democrats offer themselves as candidates for the Democratic nomination for these six seats. Ten Republicans seek the preference of the voters of their party.

The St. Louis Bar Association, following its practice, has polled its members and listed the six candidates enjoying the greatest support on a basis of 572 ballots.

In the order announced by the association, they are:

Arthur H. Bader, Republican, Circuit Judge for eight years.

Frank B. Coleman, Democrat.

Frank Landwehr, Republican, Circuit Judge for 18 years.

Chilton Atkinson, Democrat.

Robert W. Hall, Republican, Circuit Judge for 18 years.

Richard T. Brownrigg, Democrat.

Confusion has been caused by the fact that there is another and larger list in the field, put out by the new Lawyers' Association of the Eighth Judicial Circuit. Its ballots were sent to the 1934 lawyers who had paid license fees in this circuit. All candidates who received a majority of the 639 accepted ballots—19 candidates in all—appear on the new organization's list. These 19 include the six who constitute the list of the Bar Association.

In the belief that these six names, appearing as they do on the lists of both organizations, are worthy of special attention we have set them out herewith for the information of the voter.

The confusion which has resulted from the announcement of a longer list by the new organization was inevitable. Next time it may be worse because conceivably each list might contain names not on the other. A device designed to afford the lay voter a measure of guidance then would only serve to mix him up.

The present situation furnishes striking evidence that "the ultimate goal," as Forrest M. Hemker, secretary of the Bar Association well says, should be the divorce of the judiciary from party politics.

This separation has been brought about through non-partisan judicial elections in many places. It can be brought about here. Either the lawyers will lead the movement or they will find themselves carried along by a people who in time will no longer stand for the intrusion of the party label into the courts.

MORE GRADE-CROSSING TRAGEDIES.

A passenger train struck an automobile at an ungarded grade crossing at Hamilton, O., recently, and killed nine members of one family, including five children. At Oconomowoc, Wis., on the same day, five occupants of an automobile were killed and one seriously injured when the car was crushed between two trains at a crossing. At Belleville, also on the same day, three St. Louis Negroes were killed when their automobile struck a freight train.

In one day, three grade-crossing accidents take 17 lives! These tragedies are only a small part of the year's toll. Last year, 1450 persons were killed in crossing collisions. In 1934, there were 1554. In 1931, 1511. This year's record gives indications of going above previous high marks, for both rail and motor travel are increasing, while the rate of crossing elimination lags behind.

The Federal Government's $200,000,000 crossing-removal program is slowly getting under way. It is plain, however, that this large appropriation is only a start on solving the problem. The danger, at the present rate, will remain for many years, until the last crossing is removed. Each crossing tragedy is a grim reminder of a major traffic peril, and should spur the efforts to eliminate it.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Attorney-General McKittick has ruled that absentee ballots can be cast in tomorrow's primary only by those who are in some other Missouri county. That is, the law does not extend absentee voting to qualified persons who are outside the State.

Unfortunately as the ruling is, it was inescapable. Mr. McKittick read the law and told the inquiring clerk of Buchanan County what could be done under it. He had no choice in the matter.

The mistake was made by the last session of the Legislature. Part of the absentee voting law was amended. Part was not. It was necessary not only to change the section on "who may cast an absentee ballot," so as to permit application by mail as well as in person. The section on qualifying the ballot also needed to be changed. This was overlooked.

This latter section says that the absentee voter shall "subscribe to the affidavits provided for in the application, and on the return envelope for said ballot before an officer authorized by law to administer oaths in this State, and such voter shall exhibit the ballot to such officer unmarked, and shall thereupon in the presence of such officer . . . mark such ballot . . ."

What the law provides, therefore, is that the Missourian who is out of the State for the summer or who works as a civil servant in the District of Columbia may apply for a ballot by mail, but that he must rush back to Missouri and qualify it before "an officer authorized by law to administer oaths in this State." That is, if he wants to vote.

The section should be amended in the next session to permit qualification of the ballot by an officer authorized to administer laws in the State or district from which the absentee voter desires to send his ballot. The Illinois absentee voter temporarily in Boston can qualify his ballot before a notary of Massachusetts and mail his ballot back to the county of his residence. That is as it should be in Missouri, which thanks to an August primary, should provide every facility for making absentee voting simple. Every primary finds several thousand Missourians disfranchised by temporary absence from the State.

"LOOKS LIKE WE MAY GET A CHANCE TO VOTE, ANYWAY."

The Brookings Route to Recovery

Extended study of nation's economic system by Brookings Institution shows that industry has passed on to consumers too few of the machine's benefits; its solution, differing from scarcity theory, is more goods at lower prices, without wage reductions; administration recovery efforts have moved in opposite direction.

Clifford B. Reeves, New York Business Man, in the Atlantic Monthly.

IN contrast to the almost universal loss of reputations elsewhere in the field of economics has been the increasing respect accorded to the Brookings Institution, whose name is heard more and more frequently in connection with economic questions. Perhaps the reason is that it meets the requirements of scientific approach, organization and fact-finding facilities which have been so frequently lacking in the field of economic research to date.

The Brookings Institution owes its existence to a public-spirited citizen, Robert Brookings, who amassed a fortune in private business and retired to devote himself to public service.

In 1932, the Brookings Institution undertook what is unquestionably the most complete study of broad economic fundamentals ever conducted. The project was financed by the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh, and required the collaboration of Brookings economists over a period of three years. The purpose of the study was to ascertain, if possible, the reason why our entire economic machine does not function more efficiently year in and year out. The results were published in four parts.

This study succeeded in isolating what the institution believes to be the fundamental reason why the material progress of the nation has been disappointingly slow. According to its findings, the reason is that industry has failed to pass on to consumers enough of the benefits resulting from technological advances, particularly in the past 15 years. The answer, says Brookings, lies in more goods at lower prices.

This recommendation is directly opposed to much of the economic philosophy now current, and is a direct challenge to price-fixing schemes and stabilization devices. Under a capitalistic system, the savings made possible by improved technology are supposed to be passed along automatically to the public in the form of lower prices. But in recent years, obstructions to a free competitive system have been built up in the form of price-fixing devices which have prevented consumers from receiving the benefits of lower prices that a free competitive system would have assured them. This conclusion, simple though it may sound, was arrived at only after the most searching inquiry ever made into economic fundamentals.

In the course of its studies, Brookings has exploded the widely held theory that vastly improved technology in recent years has made possible a tremendous potential overproduction of goods, and that our salvation from this glut lies in a reduction of working hours and restriction of output. Although there were wide differences found in technological improvements in various industries, Brookings discovered that, on the whole, improved technique of production had accounted for only an 18 per cent increase in productive efficiency between 1922 and 1929.

Brookings had no sympathy with the philosophy of scarcity now in vogue, and states that the adoption of the proposed 30-hour week would be calamitous. Production, it says, must be expanded, for that is the only method by which the total income of the country can be increased to an amount sufficient to make possible an improved standard of living.

The best solution, in the opinion of the Brookings Institution, lies in a reduction of prices without any decrease in money wages. This method results in an automatic increase in the purchasing power of every consumer. It tends to increase the volume of production, which is the only way the standard of living can be substantially improved. Under such a policy, if the efficiency of production continued to increase over a period of years, the country could look forward not only to complete utilization of existing productive facilities, but also to the enlargement of such facilities, with more goods for each individual to enjoy. In its studies to date, Brookings has not discussed any methods of insuring price reductions, but expects to examine that subject in future studies.

The gist of the Brookings conclusions is, "more goods at lower prices through elimination of price control." This calls for the free competitive system under which American business is theoretically supposed to operate. The trouble has been that it does not operate that way in practice. An examination of the economic theories recently or at present in greatest vogue shows that most of them are diametrically opposed to the Brookings recommendation.

The NRA, which, until it was declared unconstitutional, comprised the administration's chief recovery effort, was directly opposed to the Brookings finding. Under the Blue Eagle, fixed minimum prices were established, which resulted in a rigid and artificial price structure. The higher prices tended definitely to curtail production. Likewise the AAA, the administration's second great recovery effort, violated virtually every recommendation of the Brookings studies.

Moreover, the President has made it plain that he does not believe lower prices increase either purchasing power or consumption. In his speech at the Jefferson day dinner of the National Democratic Club in New York on April 25, Mr. Roosevelt said: "You can cheapen the costs of industrial production by two methods. One is by the development of new machinery and new techniques and by increasing employee efficiency. We do not discourage that. But do not dodge the fact that this means fewer men employed and more men unemployed."

If that were so, there should be fewer men employed today in the motor industry than when cars were made virtually by hand. Labor today plays a relatively less important part in the manufacture of automobiles than was formerly the case. But instead of finding fewer men employed, as Mr. Roosevelt's theory would imply, we find that employment in the motor industry has increased manifold. We find also that collateral employment in road building, tire manufacture, oil refining and other activities related to the motor industry has also gained tremendously.

Dearth of New Capital Issues

Bertram Benedict in Editorial Research Reports.

PREDICTIONS are multiplying that the end of summer will see a substantial increase in the flotation of new long-term securities by private corporations.

In the past, the issue of a large volume of new securities to raise capital has been an indication that depression was really over, and that business improvement was more than temporary. The corporations put out the new securities were evidently counting on profits from future expansion, and their confidence was shared by the investors who bought the securities. The economic expansion made possible by the new capital created demand for goods, services and labor.

During the depression which began in 1929, the issue of new capital securities fell to almost nothing. After a time, the current interest rate became so low that some new securities were issued to retire old ones of higher interest rates, but this merely exchanged one form of security for another. Some of the new issues were also for the purpose of retiring loans from banks. Issues for new capital, as distinct from refunding, continued to decline as recovery got under way. Many, if not most, corporations had large cash assets. There was little point in investing them in Government bonds or gilt-edge securities when the yield would be only around 3 or 3½ per cent. It seemed better for such corporations to invest in themselves—that is, to finance expansion out of their own funds.

Also, in many cases, sellers, themselves in a liquid position, would extend credit directly to buyers, who thus did not have to borrow from banks or from the investing public. And business as well as investors hated to make long-term commitments so long as monetary inflation was feared.

It remains to be seen if corporations will continue to resist the lure of the low interest rate which money can now be hired. A 25-year bond issue by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey in May was priced to yield only 2½ per cent. Banks are full of depositors' money crying for more profitable investment than is afforded by interest on time deposits.

Few people today are going to invest in foreign ventures, which prior to the depression accounted for a substantial part of American investments. And investment trusts and holding companies, which took up much investment prior to 1929, are now almost completely out of the picture.

The following table gives the monthly average of corporate domestic long-term issues in the United States for new capital as distinct from refunding:

FATHER BUTLER TALKS AT CHARITY MEETING

Addresses National Catholic Conference, of Which He is President, in Seattle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 3.—Importance which has come to be attached to security in recent years has worked profound social changes of unpredictable outcome, the Rev. John J. Butler of St. Louis, president of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, said last night, opening the twenty-second annual conference of the organization.

He declared that the only basis on which a program of public welfare could be built was respect for the individual as a sacred and inviolable personality. Respect for the rights of the poor, he said, would promote decent standards of living for them and decent standards in its administration.

"We cannot depend on the lighted self-interest or williness of those in power to bestow surplus for the benefit of others as an effective means of promoting the common welfare," he said.

"We must have other elements in the basis of a welfare program. It must have general public discussion of it. Public welfare is no longer the sacred preserve of the few, but belongs to all the people."

"We cannot have a system of public welfare merely by the increase of the police power of the State. It must be based on solid, genuine conviction, growing out of an understanding of the needs of the people, of the sacredness of human rights and human personality."

"While we were spending a small part of our surplus for people who did not complain. When began to pour out large sums of money to help people who were seriously ill. It was enough for people to generalize on the basis of a few cases, so-called worthy individuals, who came to their attention."

"This attitude explains the drastic cutting of relief in many States and local communities without reference to relief needs. But let us not be too quick to blame our public officials. Their policy likely reflect prevailing public opinion, which it is our duty as friends of the poor to form."

Father Butler said that child welfare would continue to be the most absorbing interest in Catholic charity. To an increasing degree, he said, Catholic charities would concentrate efforts on children receiving special care and training. Increasing number of people being satisfied merely with providing food and training for children in institutions and foster homes.

Moving People to Typical, He Says, and Hence Despite Failure Enemies.

Congress and the engineering profession refused to go along with the idea that the New Deal could put the tides of Fundy back. Now Mr. Hopkins' village is all dressed up with no place to go.

As Westbrook Pegler has graphically shown, there is a blight on the works of the New Deal. It is the SLEEPING BEAUTY. Its industry, no less than its people, has gone to sleep. Prince Charming, Quoddy, but since the bad fairies of Capitalism prevented that, Eastport probably needs fewer workers than ever.

Yet Mr. Hopkins wants to make this New Deal village a veteran home under his administration. Why not Gen. Hines? or a resident of the barrio under Dr. Tugwell? Either of these suggestions would create a new source of continuing Federal expense that would not have been created—and presumably necessary—if the original plunge into questionable spending had been omitted.

Furthermore, both Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Tugwell have continuous plans to construct a new little community of model homes, but people in them, and then expect them to support themselves there, whether or not there is any work for them to do to earn a living.

The thought seemed to be that industries would follow the small communities of population. The truth is that, in modern industrial life, industry locates itself because of other economic considerations, such as transportation, location of sources of material and proximity to markets. Population follows industry, and not the reverse.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Davis, 7209 Kingsbury boulevard, their daughter, Mary Margaret and Virginia Anne, and sons, Henry R. Jr., and Bruce, have returned from a two weeks' motor trip through Michigan up to Mackinac and east to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Miss Mary, Miss Jessie and Miss Ella Anderson of Edinburgh, Scotland, are visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. William Addison, 5334 Maple avenue. They will leave this week for Canada and will sail from Montreal for their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Addison also have as their guests, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Keith of Kansas City.

Mrs. Everett H. Smith of Webster Groves, and her son, Everett Jr., left last week to spend a month at Onkama, Mich., as the guest of Mrs. Stewart Watt, formerly of Webster Groves.

Mrs. John C. Ryan, 7303 Maryland avenue, and her daughter, Miss Jessie Ryan, left Saturday for Los Angeles where they will be until early in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Ganz of the Marmaduke apartments have returned from a four weeks' stay in New York and Chicago.

Miss Jean Bronenkamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Bronenkamp, 3540 Wyoming street, will leave early this week for New York to sail from there Saturday on the Monarch of Bermuda for Bermuda.

Dr. Clarence G. Drum of the Chase Hotel left today for New York to sail from there on the Aquitania Friday for Scotland to attend a post-graduate surgical course at the University of Edinburgh, following which he will visit medical centers in Europe. He will be home the middle of October.

Mrs. Marie Rapp, 632 North Forest avenue, accompanied by her grandson, Joseph P. Costello, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Costello, 30 Arundel place, have left for visits in Yellowstone and Glacier Parks and on the Pacific Coast.

'CONNECTICUT YANKEE' AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

Harriet Hootor to Make First Appearance in Forest Park Tonight.

The musical version of Mark Twain's famous comedy, "A Connecticut Yankee," will be presented for the first time at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park tonight. The performance will begin at 8:15.

The production will include the first appearance in Municipal Opera of Harriet Hootor, an outstanding American ballerina. Miss Hootor, who has created most of her ballets, will present her work, "Flight," an interpretation of a pilot attempting a record-breaking flight.

Eddie Garr, the comedian, who appeared in "Sons o' Guns" and "Oh, Boy" at the Municipal Theater this summer, will play the principal role of the Yankee. Ruby Mercer, lyrical soprano, will be heard in the part of Alice, and Joseph Macaulay will play the role of Merlin, the magician. Gil Lamb and Audrey Christie will play Sir Galahad and Evelyn La Belle-An.

The role of Morgan Le Fay will be played by a newcomer, Dorothy Vernon, who has been appearing on the New York stage since she left the University of Southern California four years ago. Others in the cast include Detmar Poppen, Bertram Peacock, Earle MacVeigh, Inez Harvot, June Hovey, John Cherry and Al Downing. Una Val, dancer, will present a new routine.

Tonight's production of Mark Twain's novel was adapted for the musical stage by Herbert Fields, and it follows closely the original adventures of the young Yankee in the Court of King Arthur. The music and lyrics are by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. Among the song hits in the production are "My Heart Stood Still," "Thou Swell," "On a Desert Isle," and "I Feel at Home With You."

A crowd of 8700 attended the final performance of the "The New Moon" last night. Total attendance for the week was 58,500.

Funeral of Mrs. Larimore. Funeral services for Mrs. Bettie Carlisle Larimore, widow of John W. Larimore, former St. Louis grain merchant, who died of infirmities of age at her home at 5142 Washington boulevard Saturday, were held today at the Wagner undertaking establishment, 3621 Olive street, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Mrs. Larimore, 87 years old, had been active in religious and charitable work.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Simon, 5354 Delmar boulevard, are guests at The Balsams in Dixville Notch, N. H.

RETAILERS OPEN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Several Hundred Merchants Present—Sessions to Continue to Aug. 17.

The twenty-sixth annual convention of the American Retailers' Association, with 5500 members in 41 states, opened this morning at Hotel Jefferson with several hundred merchants in attendance. The meeting will continue until Aug. 17 and an increased number of visitors is expected.

Following registration and business meetings today, members this evening will attend the first of a series of social events which have been arranged for their entertainment, a dinner dance at Meadowbrook Country Club. Wednesday the retailers in a group will attend the Municipal Opera, Monday evening another dinner dance, a water carnival will be staged Aug. 11 at Forest Park Highlands, and the following evening the merchants will attend a prize fight at Municipal Auditorium.

At the dances, style shows and parades will be presented at which fall and winter styles in women's clothing will be shown. The annual election of officers will be held Aug. 11.

"Retail trade shows a decided improvement for the first half of this year over last," L. K. Sharpe of Checotah, Ok., president of the organization, said. "Predictions for fall trade are very difficult, but in spite of droughts and other bad influences, I believe one might be safe in hoping for the continuation of improved conditions."

REMINGTON RAND STRIKERS WITHDRAW COURT COMPLAINT

Workers Decide Charges Were Brought in Wrong Tribunal; Action "Without Prejudice."

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Striking Remington Rand workers agreed today that the court of Federal Judge Frederick H. Bryant was not the proper tribunal to hear their charges that Remington Rand, Inc., had broken agreements with them and violated the labor laws.

Consequently the workers themselves through their protective board withdrew complaint against the company, and the withdrawal "without prejudice" was approved by Judge Bryant.

Counsel for the company, contended the National Labor Relations Board was the proper place for the suit. However, a union spokesman said the charge would be filed in Federal Court at Rochester.

The protective board had charged that the company violated its contract with the unions, attempted to coerce workers to return to their jobs, undertook to form a company union "unlawfully, in an attempt to deprive the workers of their right to collective bargaining," and violated the national labor laws in its treatment of employees.

In the American Federation of Labor for both craft unions and for industrial unions; but the craft unions fear that supreme control of the Federation will be wrested from their hands if they permit the entrance of millions of new members, organized industrially.

"In their selfishness they prefer their own narrow power to the benefit of millions of their fellow men."

"To sum up, the Committee for Industrial Organization believes that its acts are in accordance with the mandate of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and with the wishes of the members of that body."

"We are fulfilling the instructions of the convention, which the Executive Council has flouted."

The Federation's 1934 convention directed the Executive Council to start a steel organization campaign and to charter automobile, cement and rubber workers—all on an "industrial union" basis with regard for the jurisdictional rights of craft unions.

When the council issued a charter last year to the automobile workers, reserving the right of the craft unions to take in tool and die makers and maintenance men, Lewis said he had been "seduced by soft words"—that he understood the convention's order to mean that the automobile workers would get an out-and-out industrial union.

Then the council put a similar restriction in a charter given the rubber workers, backed up the crafts in their fight to maintain craft units in Anaconda Copper Co. camps, refused to charter an industrial union for shipbuilders, turned over the radio workers to a craft union, and decided to build up craft unions in the steel industry.

Thereon Lewis quit the council and organized the Committee for Industrial Organization, to promote the organization of all the workers in each big industry into one big union.

STATEMENTS IN GIRL'S KILLING OF HER MOTHER IMPOUNDED

New Jersey Grand Jury to Get Stories Told By Gladys MacKnight and Sweetheart.

BAYONNE, N. J., Aug. 3.—Statements made to police by 17-year-old Gladys MacKnight and her sweetheart, Donald Wightman, 18, in which they reputedly told of the hatchet killing of the girl's mother, were impounded today by Hudson County Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan.

The prosecutor said the statements would remain impounded until presented to the grand jury. The jury has no regular session until September and O'Regan gave no indication that he would call a special meeting.

The girl, Police Chief Cornelius J. O'Neill has announced, admitted she struck her mother with a hatchet while Wightman held the mother's arms.

O'Regan said he would permit the fathers of the girl and boy to visit them in the Hudson County jail. He said no other persons, aside from their lawyers, would be admitted.

The girl's attorney said Gladys wept bitterly because she could not attend the funeral tonight of her mother.

ALTON MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO IS UPSET

John Pfaff, 50, Passenger in Machine That Goes Off Road.

John Pfaff, 50-year-old butcher of Alton, Ill., was fatally injured shortly after midnight Saturday when an automobile in which he was a passenger turned over after running off the Wood River-Bethalto highway, near the intersection of Illinois route No. 59.

Pfaff, who suffered head and internal injuries, died eight hours later at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton. William J. Conway, of Alton, driver of the car, received severe bruises of the right arm and shoulder.

Rounding a sharp curve before reaching the intersection, Conway's automobile partly left the road, its right wheel giving way as it ran over the soft, sandy soil of the road's shoulder. Conway had never driven the road before.

A passing motorist summoned an ambulance. Pfaff is survived by his wife and two sons.

FOURTH CHICAGO RABIES DEATH

Symptoms Found in WPA Worker Who Collapsed on Street.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Chicago's fourth death this year from rabies was reported Saturday. Dr. Her- of Health said there was "definite symptom" of rabies in the brain of Lawrence Scallata, 30 years old, a WPA worker who collapsed unexplainedly Friday night while walking across a street.

The number of persons bitten has been reduced to 113 in 48 hours, the lowest in 10 days. Dog owners have been ordered to keep their pets on leash. Dr. Bundesen said it might not be necessary to carry out a previous order to shoot all unleashed dogs.

"A PLEASURE TO WORK IN A COOL AND CLEAN Electric Kitchen"

Says

MRS. LOUIS BRANDL
3656 Pennsylvania Avenue

"It's a pleasure to have a cool and clean kitchen these summer days. Cooking electrically does not soil the walls and curtains—pots and pans stay bright and clean—and it's no work at all to clean the range."

ELECTRIC COOKERY proved IN USE

WELCOME THE NEW DAY IN COOKING WITH THE CLEANLINESS OF THE ELECTRIC RANGE

Just to look at these modern electric ranges—bright, clean and beautifully styled—is a pleasure. And the pleasure is multiplied when you find that they're as good as they look!

Electric range users appreciate electric cookery more than ever, these summer days. In their cool kitchens they are delighted with the cleanliness of cooking electrically—the kitchen walls, curtains and woodwork free from soot and grime, and pots and pans kept clean and bright, because clean electric heat doesn't blacken, doesn't scorch. And the gleaming white surface of the range itself is as simple to keep clean as a china dish!

And with it all, economy—because electricity is cheap and the electric range is modern in performance as well as appearance. Its efficient operation brings new economy, new certainty to your cooking. It saves your time and energy—preserves the food's natural flavors and juices—makes even the inexpensive cuts of meat tender and delicious—and the certainty of results prevents food waste. With your low electric rates, think of the savings this brings you!

Picture a handsome, shining, new electric range in your home—joining your electric refrigerator to make a completely modern, completely electrified kitchen! Talk to your electric range dealer and learn how easily you can modernize your kitchen!

CLASS ONE RAILWAYS EARNINGS INCREASE

Net Operating Return Six Months of 1936 Up 22.5 Per Cent Over Like Period in 1935.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Association of American Railroads announced yesterday that the nation's Class 1 railways earned $2,343,434 net operating income during the first six months of 1936, a 22.5 per cent increase over the same period last year.

Income during the first half of this year, the association said, represented an annual return of 2.5 per cent on the carriers' property investment.

The net operating income included all revenues left after the payment of operating expenses, taxes and equipment rentals, but before the payment of interest or other charges.

Twenty-seven Class 1 railways failed to earn enough to meet operating expenses and taxes in the first six months of 1936. Nine of them were in the Eastern district, four in the Southern district, and four in the Western district.

Gross operating revenues for the period totaled $1,872,928,867, an increase of 14.5 per cent over the same period last year.

RELIEF CLIENT BUYS MERRY-GO-ROUND, FINDS PROSPERITY

Farmer Receiving $200 to Buy Mule Thinks It Is Townsends Pension.

By the Associated Press.
EVENING SHADES, Ark., Aug. 3.—A slight mixup in pension money, the Resettlement Administration, the Townsends pension plan and a second-hand merry-go-round has just about made George E. Marlin, Maxville farmer, an independent business man.

Marlin applied to the Resettlement Administration for aid early this year and, enrolled as a client of the New Deal agency, was sold a team of mules.

Subsequently the Resettlement Administration's finance department arranged to pay for the mules but, through a clerical error, sent the check to Marlin instead of having it cleared through the local office which was handling his case.

When the farmer got the check—made in the even amount of $200—he decided it represented his first monthly old age pension allotment under the Townsend plan about which he had heard much discussion. Marlin also recalled that under the Townsend plan the pension was to be spent within 30 days. He left for Batesville to comply.

The Resettlement Administration supervisor learned of the error and hurried to Batesville. He found Marlin, who told him the most he had been able to spend was $85, all for a queasy, patched and battered merry-go-round. Advised of his error, Marlin said that if allowed to keep the merry-go-round, he would see that the loan from the Government was repaid.

A current political campaign brought an unusual number of picnics, barbecues and pie suppers to this section. Marlin said that if able merry-go-round went to all of them. Sufficient cash was accumulated to repay the Government's $200 and leave a nest egg. Now Marlin plans to buy another merry-go-round and go into the entertainment business on a full-time basis.

97 OF 114 COUNTIES IN STATE DESIGNATED IN DROUTH AREA

22 More Recently Added to List as Eligible for Help From Government Agencies.

A total of 97 out of the 114 counties in Missouri have now been designated as official drouth territory by the Department of Agriculture and are eligible for aid from the AAA, the Resettlement, and the Works Progress administrations.

The only counties now not designated as drouth territory are five in the extreme northwest corner of the State, where there has been rain; three in the lowlands in South-eastern Missouri; and the nine counties along the Mississippi River south of St. Louis.

The total was raised to 97 Saturday by the addition of the following counties: Barry, Barton, Caldwell, Carroll, Clay, Clinton, Davies, De Kalb, Gentry, Harrison, Jackson, Jasper, Lafayette, Lawrence, McDonald, Macon, Mercer, Newton, Platte, Putnam, Ray and Worth.

There are now 726 counties in 18 states on special drouth relief.

ZOO CHIMP, BILLIE, ESCAPES

Breaks Chain and Makes Dash, but Is Recaptured.

Billie, a performing chimpanzee, escaped for a few minutes yesterday afternoon before the daily performance here and his fellow chimpanzees gave at the Zoo in Forest Park.

While being transferred from his cage to the arena stage, Billie broke his chain and dashed through a corridor to join spectators in the lobby of the monkey house. Keepers were in hot pursuit and before the chimpanzee could reach an exit he was seized and returned to his cage. George P. Vierheller, Zoo director, said there was little excitement among the spectators.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY IN FIRST CONVENTION

H. R. Hay Seeks 6000 Signatures to Enable Him to Run For Public Administrator.

The newly formed St. Louis Progressive Party, at its first convention last night in a hall at 1159 South Kingshighway, chose Christian A. Anderson as permanent chairman and decided to enter a candidate in the November election so that the party may participate in the primary and municipal election next spring.

H. R. Hay, who was temporary chairman of the party, will be its candidate in the November election, running for Public Administrator. To put his name on the ballot it will be necessary for the party to obtain about 6000 signatures to a nominating petition.

The requirement is that the petition must have signatures equal to two per cent of the vote cast for Mayor in the last election. Then if Hay should receive three per cent or more of the vote cast in the November election, the party will be eligible to participate in next spring's primary and election with candidates for all city offices.

Registration Fraud Condemned.

Hay is a consulting chemist and lives at 3933 Lindell boulevard. Anderson is a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and lives at 4043 Grand street.

Hay said the purpose of his candidacy was not to be elected but to enable the party to participate in the elections next spring. "Anyone interested in this move," he said, "should refrain from voting in the primary for Public Administrator or he will be disqualified from signing a petition to put us on the ballot."

A resolution indorsing President Roosevelt was passed by a two to one vote after prolonged discussion in which some urged that the party take no position in the contest for the presidency.

The registration fraud exposed by the Post-Dispatch was condemned in another resolution which called on Gov. Park to remove the present Board of Election Commissioners and replace its members with "individuals in whom the city can have faith."

Four-Point Reform Program.

An effort will be made to place before the grand jury now investigating the registration fraud the Progressive party's four-point program for the city. This calls for redistricting of the city's wards; election of Aldermen by wards; permanent registration; and provision for the civil service for city employees.

An afternoon session of the convention was attended by 35 persons, and in the evening nearly 100 were present.

Paging the Lady WHO THINKS kitchen work should be easier and take less time
COME AT 2 P. M. TOMORROW
August 4th... Cool Electric Kitchen... 12th and Locust

Our Home Economists will show you how easily and quickly kitchen work should be done in this day and age. They don't understand why anyone should waste time and energy doing work in old-fashioned ways, when an electric food mixer will work 5 hours on a penny's worth of electricity. In preparing the following foods they will use various mixer attachments and will use an electric range for baking.

ANGEL CAKE BUTTER CAKE SUMMER SALADS WHIPPED POTATOES
All appetizing and delicious for hot-weather meals

Final Prices Are Irregular
With Certain Specialties
Holding Part of Gains
Some Leaders Lower.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Late selling unsettled the stock market today, including some specialties which had stubbornly pushed forward earlier for wide gains.

The late tone was irregular. Transactions totaled about 1,060,000 shares.
Gulf States Steel strengthened in the late trading to show a net gain of around 5 points. American Telephone, strong most of the session, had fractions chipped from its early rise but managed to hold a gain of more than 2 points.
Up fractions to 2 points or so were U. S. Pipe & Foundry, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Case, Kennecott, General Electric, duPont, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber preferred, Columbian Carbon, John-Manville and American Water Works.

Western Union, after holding ground at moderate advance, shifted to the loss column as trading drew to a close. Chrysler met with some aggressive selling in the final hour and slumped more than 2 points.

Down fractions to a point or so around the finish were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Collins & Aikman, Continental, United Aircraft and New York Central.

A handful of resistant rails up. Pacific, Pennsylvania and Union Pacific.

Following the announcement of a dividend, International Nickel turned firmer.

Small gains in the last few minutes were registered by United Corporation, Commercial Solvents, Standard Oil of Indiana, Republic Steel and Bendis.

Down fractions to a point or so as trading drew to a close were Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Delaware & Hudson and American Locomotive.

At mid-afternoon the French franc was up 100/100 of a cent at 63 1/2 cents, from 63 1/2 cents, and was 1/4 of a cent lower at 63 1/4 cents.

Stock circles stressed that professionals were providing the bulk of market nourishment. Gossip around Wall Street was to the effect that the comparative resilience of shares on Saturday, following the previous day's decline, had given considerable encouragement to the bullish element.

Some analysts pointed out, however, that the market would have been more convincing had the demand for specialties prompted aggressive buying in the closing hour.

As some see it, the flow of earnings statements of major corporations has reached its high point and henceforth the Street's interest will swing forward to the income outlook for the third quarter. Expectations are that the current momentum of recovery will tend to keep earnings on the improvement side of the ledger.

Corn closed 1 to 3/4 cents a bushel higher and wheat gained 1 to 1 1/2 cents.

News of the Day.
Goodrich firm on sharply higher activity on release of the company's report which showed the largest first half profits for any corresponding period since 1929, and announced details of a plan for removal of dividend arrearage on the preferred.

Selling which put Chrysler down more than a point was seen in financial circles as heralding the nearby changeover of automobile makers to new models which will bring slackening of automotive output.

Heavy activity and firmness in the low-priced Continental Motors was seen in market quarters as a reflection of the large equity order received by the company.

Bonds were higher. The foreign exchange market was irregular. Although the French franc advanced, other gold currencies were lower. The pound sterling was down.

At mid-afternoon the French franc was up 100/100 of a cent at 63 1/2 cents, from 63 1/2 cents, and was 1/4 of a cent lower at 63 1/4 cents.

Stock circles stressed that professionals were providing the bulk of market nourishment.

Gossip around Wall Street was to the effect that the comparative resilience of shares on Saturday, following the previous day's decline, had given considerable encouragement to the bullish element.

Some analysts pointed out, however, that the market would have been more convincing had the demand for specialties prompted aggressive buying in the closing hour.

As some see it, the flow of earnings statements of major corporations has reached its high point and henceforth the Street's interest will swing forward to the income outlook for the third quarter.

Expectations are that the current momentum of recovery will tend to keep earnings on the improvement side of the ledger.

Corn closed 1 to 3/4 cents a bushel higher and wheat gained 1 to 1 1/2 cents.

Human nature being what it is, men being as God has made them, and "sometimes worse," lines about crime as primitive as the Atlantic may be as old as the hills, especially as nothing in the world is quite as the primitive American expects it to be.

The French newspaper man, referring to crime and criminals, to borrow an American expression, therefore, Mr. Botchaco, at took up crime, specializing in vol des automobiles, or auto stealing, becomes immediate gangster Botchaco. You please pronounce the word though written "gangstare."

The French use of English in connection with crime and increases daily and amazingly, pronunciation, fortunately, no difference.

After a prizefight, for instance, you read that fighter so "knockouts" the other fighter.

"Knockouts" is made up of word "knockout," adding the "s," employed in French verbs "passe defini," or "definite present."

Similarly, French writers about "Le home fleet" of England in the Mediterranean.

A few years ago in France, never heard an English word, except possibly "five o'clock," pronounced by the French "o'clockay," meaning to have five o'clock, even though you have it at 4 or half-past six.

The gangster, Botchaco, is a scornful genuine American. He would call a good deal sissy. He would make our pones blush. When he approaches the gasoline station, or "marc d'essence," he did not pull a tank filled with gasoline and attempted to run away without ing, but that in France is enough to make him a genuine "gangster."

The man robbed of his "essence" is a true Frenchman, knowing value of France and named May. He seized the running horse, Botchaco's automobile and would not let go, although, according to police, Botchaco shot him twice he hung on to the container of stolen "essence."

France is far from producing genuine gangster "a L'Americain" who, with his "pail" or his "marteau," enters a dance hall containing men and women, sticks everybody up, then orders everybody to down, and rifles all their pockets.

That performance would be thinkable in France, because as very good Englishman will tell it would be impossible to make French men and women keep all at once.

And in Paris the reporters do climb up the outside of the courthouse to photograph the back of judge's head. They do not carry radio sets or other electrical instruments on the courthouse premises.

Flowers are not sent by sentimental ladies to gentlemen that blond dancers or others, and French prisons murderers never of old age, while writing their memoirs.

Human nature being what it is, as Don Quixote's faithful servant said, men being as God has made them, and "sometimes worse," a few lines about crime as practiced across the Atlantic may be acceptable, especially as nothing in France is quite as the primitive American expects it to be.

The French newspaper men, referring to crime and criminals, like to borrow American expressions. Therefore, Mr. Botchaco, after he took up crime, specializing in "le vol des automobiles," or automobile stealing, becomes immediately "le gangster Botchaco." You will please pronounce the word as though written "gangstare."

The French use of English words in connection with crime and sport, increases daily and amazingly, the pronunciation, fortunately, makes no difference.

After a prizefight, for instance, you read that fighter so-and-so "knockout" the other fighter.

"Knockout" is made up of our word "knockout," adding the letter "a," employed in French verbs in the "passé défini," or "definite past."

Similarly, French writers talk about "Le home fleet" of England in the Mediterranean.

A few years ago in France you never heard an English word except possibly "five o'clocker," pronounced by the French "Teeve o'clockay," meaning to have tea at 5 o'clock, even though you might have it at 4 or half-past six.

The gangster, Botchaco, is what scornful genuine American gangsters would call a good deal of a sissy. He would make our Capone blush. When he approached the gasoline station, or "marchand d'essence," he did not pull a gun and say, in gangster roughness, "Stick 'em up." He ordered his tank filled with gasoline and then attempted to run away without paying, but that in France is enough to make him a genuine "gangster."

The man robbed of his "essence" is a true Frenchman, knowing the value of francs and named Majoux. Majoux seized the running board of Botchaco's automobile and would not let go, although, according to police, Botchaco shot him twice, as he hung on to the container of the stolen "essence."

France is far from producing the genuine gangster "à l'Américain," who, with his "pal," or his "moll," enters a dance hall containing 50 men and women, sticks everybody up, then orders everybody to lie down, and rifles all their pockets.

That performance would be unthinkable in France, because as every good Englishman will tell you, it would be impossible to make 50 French men and women keep quiet all at once.

And in Paris the reporters do not climb up the outside of the courthouse to photograph the back of the judge's head. They do not conceal radio sets or other electrical instruments on the courthouse premises. It's Just Poor Luck

By Ely Culbertson

Ely Culbertson

THE primary function of bidding, of course, is to express values as accurately as possible. But it is too often supposed that when the primary object has been attained the player should relax (collapse would be more apt), and leave the rest to his partner.

There are other considerations to be observed in good bidding, considerations that at times become even more important than precise evaluating. These may be called, for want of a more definite term, strategic considerations. Certain bids must be made in defiance of the honor trick table simply because the bidder dare not lose the opportunity to show his partner a distribution that may suggest an excellent "sacrifice" contract, as in today's hand.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

THE bidding:
South West North East
1 diam 1 spade 2 hearts 3 spades
4 clubs 4 spades 5 clubs Pass
Pass Double Pass Pass Pass

THE bid that suggested the theme of this article was South's four clubs bid. He did not have it on actual values. His one diamond bid represented the entire hand to within a very small fraction, and a free bid at this stage denoted more strength than he actually had. But he dared not pass! It was 10 to 1 that West would go to game in spades over his partner's very strong raise. In that case one of two different kinds of catastrophes might result. First, North might "stretch" and bid five hearts, not knowing that South was so badly prepared for a heart contract. Second, if North was forced to pass over West's almost inevitable four spades the bidding would be at the five level when it got around to South again, and then it would be too costly to experiment with a hit-or-miss sacrifice bid of five clubs. Thus, in the most real sense South's overbid of four clubs was the conservative rather than the aggressive policy.

On this particular hand the four club bid had an extremely happy outcome. East and West were shrewd in realizing that they had shot their bolt with four spades (which could not have been defeated) and in doubling the five club contract. The one trick penalty that North-South suffered, on the other hand, was a splendid save of rubber game.

Without South's four club bid it is quite conceivable that North, seeing the rubber slipping away, would have bid five hearts. In fact this bid could not be criticized. East, of course, would double. South would not dare rescue at the six level and five hearts would be crucified to the tune of 800 to 1100 points, depending on the quality of defense and declarer's play.

TODAY'S QUESTION:
The bidding was:
PARTNER MYSELF
2 spades 2 no trump
3 clubs 3 no trump
4 hearts
I held: ♠ J 5 ♥ J 6 2 ♦ J 8 7 4 3 ♣ 10 8 4

What was my correct response to four hearts?

Answer: Something was wrong about your partner's bidding. I cannot conceive of any holding where the clubs should be bid before the hearts. You must now guess and the safest policy is to bid four spades.

ACCESSORIES TO CROCHET

By LAURA WHEELER

"SERVICE" stripes of a serviceable sort are these of a smartly crocheted beret and bag set. It's the easiest crochet imaginable, just single crochet and chain stitches, those eye-catching stripes done in rows so that the second thread need not be carried through. The bag is easy to grasp because of its padded roll top. Use two colors of yarn or guimpe, and trim the beret with a ribbon band. Pattern 1272 contains directions for making the set shown; illustrations of it and of all stitches used; material requirements.

MAN ABOUT MANHATTAN

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK, Aug. 1. THE return of John Steel from obscurity to stardom marks another curious chapter in the ever-changing history of Broadway night life. Steel used to be one of Ziegfeld's greatest star singers, a matinee idol of a decade ago when the word really meant just that. But he vanished suddenly from the midway and dropped completely out of sight. Six months ago, dining in a small chop house off Thirty-eighth street, I was vaguely startled to observe a mild young man approach the piano and break into a ballad. "That's Mr. Steel," the waiter informed me. "He came to us last week. The customers seem to like him."

He was really down and out then, groggy and on the ropes, but you'd never guess it from his chatter and the enthusiastic way he had of discussing even the most trivial incident.

Shortly after that, one of the Broadway scribes, recalling Steel, suggested to the manager of a Broadway cabaret that Ziegfeld's former star be given a spot. Presto, star billing! Steel bounced back in much the same startling fashion that Benny Fields did earlier in the year.

He's in the bank notes now, which proves, I suppose, that Broadway doesn't always forget its idols!

BERNICE CLAIRE, whose lovely voice and lovelier figure have earned the gratuities of many a motion picture audience, just can't get over a conversation she was forced to listen to in a telephone booth the other evening.

"Hello," bawled the voice into the phone, "this is Stern, Goodfellow, Miles, Saturn and McCarthy!"

"Oh," murmured the lass who picked up the receiver, "good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning and good morning!"

La Argentina, who died in France at a time when she was earning more than any dancer in the world, really had a tough time of it when she first came to New York. She nearly starved while struggling for the foothold that made her the foremost exponent of the Spanish dance. The flashing-eyed girl from Argentina, where she gets her name, was really Spanish, but just happened to be born in Argentina. Her real name was Antonia Mercé. Those who knew her at the beginning of her career remember her as a dark-eyed, intensely serious young woman, haunting the cafes where dancing of Spanish origin flourished. Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, London and New York were favorite and gay haunts to her after she became a celebrated figure. New York, annually from 1928 to last year, accorded her overflowing halls wherever she appeared.

Grooms Dress At Wedding in Early Evening

Five O'Clock Ceremony Much Too Soon to Wear Evening Clothes.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: WILL you please tell me what I, the bridegroom, should choose in the way of clothes for myself, and the best man and ushers? So many of my friends have offered this information, but they have such conflicting ideas that I still don't know what to do. The ceremony will take place at 5 o'clock and a reception is to follow, which will probably last on into the evening. For that reason I believe evening clothes would be advisable. However, you may know some reason why it would not be in good taste to wear them.

Answer: This between day and night hour always creates a puzzling question of knowing what to wear. Strictly speaking, of course, 5 o'clock—especially in the summer—time is much too early to wear evening clothes. And although you may decide (and really you must do this for yourself) that it is more important to dress for the hours after evening officially begins than for the one hour before, from the point of view of taste, it is better to wear day clothes in the evening than it is to wear evening clothes in the daytime!

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to be married in my fiancée's church. Mother feels this would be all wrong and that inasmuch as I am still a member of my family's church and went to Sunday school there all my life, and that as it is only in the past two years I have gone to my fiancée's church regularly, it would be better to have my wedding in my own church. No matter what your answer, surely there is no reason why I shouldn't go to his church afterward, is there?

Answer: Since the invitations, remember, are sent out by your mother and father, I think it would be better to follow your mother's wishes. After you are married you would naturally go to your husband's church since it is very unusual for husband and wife to go to different churches.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am not going to dress as a bride but am being married in a large church and would like to invite many friends and all our relatives. The number makes it very difficult to invite people verbally and by personal notes, and yet, someone told me that I could not send formally engraved invitations to a wedding at which the bride is not to be dressed in bride's clothes. Is this true?

Answer: It will be proper to send engraved invitations. After all, nothing could be more formal than a church ceremony notwithstanding the simplicity of the wedding preparations.

FUN OF AN AFTERNOON (Lamar, Mo. Democrat)

The Happy Hour Club met with Mrs. Will Cooper, for an all-day meeting. The day was spent visiting. At the noon hour a delicious chicken dinner was served, which was enjoyed by all present. At the regular hour the meeting was called to order by singing. It was voted to have a social gathering once each month. All members and their families are invited to come and bring pie.

Scalpers say it is practically impossible to get tickets for the forthcoming wedding of the twin daughters of Mrs. J. Addleton Botts-Bottsford to Sir Fishbain Butler and his valet, Joe Doakes, on Wednesday next but one at half after four. The ceremony will be solemnized on the spacious courthouse lawn of the Botts-Bottsford estate on U. S. Highway 46, 103 miles west of Amhocks-on-the-Hudson. The Botts-Bottsford twins are not only the most popular debutantes of their set, but the worst mannered, and their mother, of course, is abominably rich. A feature of the nuptials will be a double ring ceremony. While the grooms are placing rings on the brides' fingers, the brides will place rings in the grooms' noses.

Precautions With Babies In Summer

Netting Over Crib Is Important to Protect Child From Insects.

By Angelo Patri

THE baby's equipment during the summer must include a white mosquito netting that will go over his crib or his carriage and completely shut out insects.

To place a baby in the open without protection of this sort is to court trouble. The insects will gather upon him and make him miserable, if not sick.

The netting ought to be white because the dye is likely to come out of the colored nets when they are wet. It is just as well not to take any chance with colors that come out because babies put whatever they can possibly get hold of into their mouths and sample them well.

Clean, white, mosquito netting is easy enough to get and does the work required.

It does close out a little of the air, it is true, but when the baby is outdoors there is air to spare. It is better to dispense with the small amount of air the netting displaces than to have the baby bitten, or threatened by disease. Then, too, summer winds carry much dust, and the netting saves the baby some of that. White netting can be washed with very little effort or time.

Flies ought to be killed. In spite of screens they manage to get into the house and hide away in cracks. They come out when the children are resting, trying to sleep, or when they are having their meals. Somebody ought to go about the house regularly, with a fly swatter and kill every one of the pests in sight. I would encourage children to kill every fly they see. A folded newspaper makes a fine swatter. A record of the most flies killed, is a good incentive for this noble war.

Milk, any food that children are to eat, must be protected from house-flies and other insects. The milk container ought to be sterile and kept as clean and cool as the modern ice box can keep it. Flies carry dirt and infection on their hairy feet, and they drag those feet over the milk bottles, over the dishes on the table, if they get the chance. The food ought to be kept under cover, and the flies that threaten its purity should be killed before they get there.

If house-flies are numerous their source should be located and removed. Flies breed in filth, garbage, neglected waste of all sorts, stables, dairies, garbage containers, dumps. All should be examined and cleaned to prevent the flies from breeding. Stagnant water, even a puddle left behind the house, breeds mosquitoes.

We make a fuss about the bites of flies and mosquitoes because a baby's skin is very sensitive, his body has not built up the essential resistance to disease. These insects are likely to cause him much needless irritation, if not illness. The irritation caused by bites wears down the baby's resistance to illness and opens the road to the germs that lurk on insects' feet or in their bites.

We can prevent ill health for little children by warring on the insects first by a cleanliness drive, and then by providing good nets and screens.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My Dear Mrs. Carr: YOU are so kind in advising me I wonder if you would help me with a serious problem? I am a young man I have been going two years. Recently he asked for her consent to our marriage. He is not employed and when he gets employment it is only temporary. He has no means of support and nothing to fall back on when not employed.

My father refused to consent to her calling any more money from him. He has also warned me that if I do marry him, I cannot look for any help from my parents. My father says that a young man who is too lazy to work before marriage, will be less inclined to work afterwards. Do you think that to be the case, or do you think, as I think, that this will be an inspiration to him to work?

I milk 15 cows, but my father pays me as he does the hired hand who works for him. My father is good to me and says that I might like to milk 20 to support this boy if I marry him. What would you do if you were in my place? I am sure you know and I will abide by what you say.

WHICH WAY TO TURN. You have given your father's opinion and you have offered your own, but you have said nothing of any plan the young man may have for your married future. Should you be willing to take such chances as your father suggests—and they are chances!

But surely this boy has some idea of work or the means by which he can by his own efforts make the wedding possible without the aid of your work or your father's help. If he has not, I am afraid he is lacking, not only in industry but the proper pride. I do not think at all that the marriage ceremony would furnish enough income to start him working; if he fails to see the necessity of taking this responsibility now.

You are young and the sensible way to do is to put him on probation upon his mettle, if he has any show just how he can plan and manage. Milking the cows while waiting is easy work compared with the complications that are likely to arise if you do not make this trial.

Dear Mrs. Carr: CAN'T say that I am a constant reader of your department, however, I do read it and I find your column very interesting. I happened to see in your column a very about a dance called "The Dip." I am no authority on dancing, but as I do dance quite a bit, I know this step I will be glad to explain. The actual dip in dancing is putting your left leg slightly back and bending your right knee. Doing this, your right leg will naturally go forward.

This procedure follows for men only. The woman should at the same time put her left leg back.

I usually find that a turn and a dip can be done in a matter of a few dips in much better. With a little practice I am sure you will become very proficient.

Never dip to a fast piece or even moderately fast piece. Always to slow fox trot or a waltz. XXX.

Thank you for sending the information.

My dear Mrs. Carr: HAVE two of the sweetest children in the world. But evidently, the neighbors do not think so. I have moved in a neighborhood where people seem not to like interfering and directing, gossiping and finding fault. One woman tells me my system of raising my boy and girl is all wrong. Then another will suggest just the opposite and even say scandalous things about my girl, 15, who is just a child and who doesn't dream of the level on which they have her.

I want to keep my children close to home, but these over-anxious neighbors leave me never alone about it. They say, the children must learn to mix (and it is a mix) now can I keep the peace, as we cannot move and get away from it.

FRANTIC MOTHER.

Of course you are "frantic" and ways will be, if you allow your neighbors or anyone else to direct the rearing of your children. You will go out of your mind, because everyone of these back-biting neighbors will have a different theory. And some of them, whose children have been the target of the police, feel thoroughly competent to manage all others.

You will show your wisdom by studying each child and working out what is best for him or her along the lines of good sense, good feeling, good taste and advanced methods.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Precautions With Babies In Summer

Netting Over Crib Is Important to Protect Child From Insects.

By Angelo Patri

THE baby's equipment during the summer must include a white mosquito netting that will go over his crib or his carriage and completely shut out insects. To place a baby in the open without protection of this sort is to court trouble. The insects will gather upon him and make him miserable, if not sick.

The netting ought to be white because the dye is likely to come out of the colored nets when they are wet. It is just as well not to take any chance with colors that come out because babies put whatever they can possibly get hold of into their mouths and sample them well.

Clean, white, mosquito netting is easy enough to get and does the work required. It does close out a little of the air, it is true, but when the baby is outdoors there is air to spare. It is better to dispense with the small amount of air the netting displaces than to have the baby bitten, or threatened by disease. Then, too, summer winds carry much dust, and the netting saves the baby some of that. White netting can be washed with very little effort or time.

Flies ought to be killed. In spite of screens they manage to get into the house and hide away in cracks. They come out when the children are resting, trying to sleep, or when they are having their meals. Somebody ought to go about the house regularly, with a fly swatter and kill every one of the pests in sight. I would encourage children to kill every fly they see. A folded newspaper makes a fine swatter. A record of the most flies killed, is a good incentive for this noble war.

Milk, any food that children are to eat, must be protected from house-flies and other insects. The milk container ought to be sterile and kept as clean and cool as the modern ice box can keep it. Flies carry dirt and infection on their hairy feet, and they drag those feet over the milk bottles, over the dishes on the table, if they get the chance. The food ought to be kept under cover, and the flies that threaten its purity should be killed before they get there.

If house-flies are numerous, their source should be located and removed. Flies breed in filth, garbage, neglected waste of all sorts, stables, dairies, garbage containers, dumps. All should be examined and cleaned to prevent the flies from breeding. Stagnant water, even a puddle left behind the house, breeds mosquitoes.

We make a fuss about the bites of flies and mosquitoes because a baby's skin is very sensitive, his body has not built-up the essential resistance to disease. These insects' pests are likely to cause him much needless irritation, if not illness. The irritation caused by bites wears down the baby's resistance to illness and opens the road to the germs that lurk on insects' feet or in their bites.

We can prevent ill health for little children by warring on the insects first by a cleanliness drive, and then by providing good nets and screens.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

YOU are so kind in advising girls, I wonder if it would be asking too much of you to help me with a serious problem? I am 17 and find myself in love with a young man I have been going with for two years. Recently he asked my consent to our marriage. He is not employed and when he is not employed it is only temporary employment. It is only temporary employment and nothing to fall back on when not employed.

My father refused to consent and told me his calling any more or less. He has also warned me that if I do marry him, that I cannot look for any help from my parents. My father says that any young man who is too lazy to work before marriage, will be less inclined to work afterwards. Do you think that to be the case, or do you think, as I think, that this will be an inspiration to him to work?

I milk 15 cows, but my father says as he does the hired hands who work for him. My father is good to me and says that I might like to milk 30 to support this boy. I marry him. What would you say if you knew and I will abide by what you say.

If he has not, I am afraid he is lacking, not only in industry, but the proper pride. I do not think at all that the marriage ceremony would furnish enough impulse to start him working; if he fails to see the necessity of taking this responsibility now.

You are young and the sensible thing to do is put him on probation and upon his mettle, if he has any. Show just how he can plan and manage. Making the cows while milking is easy work compared with the complications that are likely to arise if you do not make this trial.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

ADRIAN, STYLIST FOR HOLLYWOOD STARS

He Is One of The Film Colony Designers Who Start America's Fashions

By H. H. Niemeyer.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1.

IT used to be that women who made rather a business of being well dressed were pretty familiar with the names of the famous French couturieres—Paquin, Poiret, Molyneux, Patou and all the rest. Maybe the socially elect still look to Paris for their gowns and wraps. We wouldn't really be knowing about that but nowadays the average well dressed woman is better acquainted with the men dressmakers of Hollywood. Only they are not called dressmakers. Designers is the correct word and the frocks and formal gowns worn by the movie stars, both in and out of pictures have made the designers famous the world over.

Hollywood's stamp is on most everything a woman wears. The motion picture did that, of course. A desire to imitate the dresses worn by popular stars—the same desire which brought in the wave of copying film hair cuts—was responsible and the studios were quick to cash in on the publicity angle. The men who designed the clothes for Claudette Colbert, Kay Francis, Norma Shearer, Carole Lombard and the not very dressy Garbo were publicized almost as widely as the stars themselves, and now the names of Adrian, Orry-Kelly, Benton, Lambert and one or two others are known to every woman in America.

Not that they design clothes for everybody. Far from it. They confine themselves to the ultra-luxurious cinema crowd, the styles which they create are more extensively copied than those of any Frenchman who ever lived.

Few women know, or even heard the first names of these Hollywood experts. They are not Mr. or Mrs. or Prof. Just Adrian, Orry-Kelly and so on. There is a distinction in that and even the small fry Hollywood designers have only their last names, real or assumed, on their carefully engraved cards.

Suppose we look first of all upon Adrian, probably the best known of the cinema stylists. His never spoken first name is Gilbert, and he comes from no celebrated fashion center, having been born in the very old fashioned town of Nausaugus, Conn. That wasn't such a very hot start for a world dictator of what ladies should, and would wear. But Gilbert corrected that as soon as he was able for, after showing at an early age that he could draw he went to Paris to study at the School of Applied and Fine Arts.

THE end of his first year Gilbert—he was still called that in those days—designed a gown for a fellow student to wear to the Grand Prix Ball. He took her, and her gown, to the ball himself and was rather surprised when his creation was awarded a prize at a gathering where undress, rather than dress, was supposed to reign. Among the American tourists at that particular ball, if you can ever call a Grand Prix event particular, was a young man who, according to rumor, was likely to amount to something as a writer of popular music. His name was Able Ballin or Irving Berlin, something like that, and he had a regular persuasive way about him. At least he persuaded Gilbert Adrian to return to America and try his hand at designing costumes for musical comedies in New York.

About the same time another young man, known rather vaguely as Rudolph Valentino to the cinema customers, was beginning to make a name for himself. His wife went in for nice clothes in a big sort of way and she took a fancy to Gilbert's designs and prevailed upon him to drop the stage and turn his talents to the broadening field of the movies. We remember, a year later, when Valentino had landed at the top of the ladder and had come to St. Louis with Mrs. Valentino for a week of personal appearances at the old Delmonte Theater, asking the lady where she got her strikingly different clothes. "Oh," she said, "they were designed just for me by a young man named Gilbert Adrian who makes the costumes for Rudolph's pictures. Nice, aren't they?"

About that time Sid Grauman wanted some one to design the costumes for a stage production which he was putting on with Charlie Chaplin's picture, "The Gold Rush," at the Egyptian Theater, then the show place of Hollywood boulevard. Mrs. Valentino introduced him to Adrian, whose fame began then and there. After that he joined up with Cecil DeMille, who was making big costume pictures, and afterwards moved over to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios where he has been ever since.

If you call clothes important things such as the famous "Lettie Lynton" dress he created for Joan Crawford and the celebrated "pill box hat" he made for Garbo. Pretty nearly every shop girl in America was wearing a Lettie Lynton and a pill box on her head within a week. Nobody ever wrote a song about them, but they were better known than the justly celebrated "Alice Blue Gown" which, incidentally, Adrian had nothing to do with.

Adrian . . . for stars only.

other foibles which came from his very clever brush and pencil.

With the coming of the classics to the screen Adrian has been right in his element. As a result of his striking designs for Norma Shearer's gowns in "Romeo and Juliet" it is quite likely that feminine fashions will turn back to the Italian Renaissance for their influence. The better half of our family—well, better in respect to dress, anyway—has already told you, at considerable length about that particular ball, if you can ever call a Grand Prix event particular.

Adrian, who is a very mild young-looking and retiring man and thoroughly artistic to his finger tips, works in a room at the MGM studio which is both artistic and practical. The walls and carpet are a soft shade of oyster white, with sepia murals all around above the baseboard. At one end there is a dias on which stands a dummy figure upon which Adrian drapes his latest ideas.

He works at his easel in one corner of the room where his artistic impulses are too much for the cleaners who come in, after hours. They just can't get the ink spots out of the oyster white carpet.

Adrian goes in pretty exclusively for high-priced things in the matter of dress. When MGM makes a picture in the "B Class" he is not called upon for the kind of costume that would attend if he were asked to. When Joan Crawford or Norma Shearer or Jean Harlow or Greta Garbo is off on a new film, however, that is something else again. Everyone pays attention to him and his brushes and pencils begin to move.

BUT he is willing, once in a while, to lay down some rules for girls who haven't too much money to spend on clothes. Maybe even then his ideas are slightly above the average pocketbook. He gets letters, lots of 'em, from girls who want to know how to dress well. Here, for instance, is a sample:

"I am a business girl. I make only a moderate salary, yet I am expected to dress both smartly and attractively at all times. It is only moderately, when dressing is rather easy, but I will soon be faced with the necessity of selecting a new fall wardrobe.

"Could you give me some idea of what to look for and what to buy? I am very much at sea, but I would be extremely grateful to you for an answer."

For Garbo . . . a touch of the Orient by Adrian.

He designs for Joan Crawford.

A modish creation for Jeannette MacDonald.

he spent. Maybe if I had a specific budget before me I could lay it all out better. But for what might be considered necessary garments I should say, first of all, a smart tailored suit. It should be extremely simple in line and absolutely devoid of any gadgets or tricks to either the coat or the skirt. I say a suit is essential because it can be worn so many different ways, and for such varied occasions. It is simply necessary to change the blouse and accessories to have a completely new costume.

"Next, I would suggest a fur-trimmed coat, preferably one that could, if necessary, be worn as a top-coat over the suit. The color of this garment should control the color of the entire wardrobe. In buying this, as well as the suit, stay away from fads. In choosing the fur trim, be sure that the fur is of the best. There are many lovely inexpensive furs, but insist on the best of the variety you choose. Better no fur at all than an obvious imitation.

Richard Wagner. Lenin and Napoleon will compete with two each. The Napoleonic plays are "St. Helena," by R. C. Sherriff and Jeanne de Casalis, one of London's present favorites, and "Napoleon the First," to be adapted by Sidney Kingsley from the original of Ferdinand Bruckner. Other subjects are Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Jackson, Benedict Arnold, Billy the Kid, Charlotte Corday and Frederick the Great.

George and Ira Gershwin, brothers who have teamed together to write music and lyrics for Broadway musical hits, have been engaged to write songs for Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "Watch Your Step," to go into production as soon as their current effort, "Swing Time," is completed.

Protest for Women Who Block Traffic

"She Meanders Along as if She Were Still in the Ox Cart Age."

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1936.)

SOME DAY I'M GOING TO SKILL ME A WOMAN!

She will, in all probability, be a nice woman, kind-hearted, gracious and law-abiding. She will have committed no crime . . . be beloved by friends and family . . . be, possibly, the most useful and honored member of her community.

Yet, without warning, I shall fall upon that woman violently, with fiendish yowls, and rend her limb from limb. Then jump and jitter with joy until the cops arrive. Nor shall I Elsie Robinson experience one moment of remorse as I await my inevitable end. For it will have been worth it all—yes, worth a hundred times any price or punishment an outraged public may demand!

But why should I of all people plan to do this dreadful deed? Am I not a soft-hearted old gal? I am. Molasses is my middle name. I wouldn't hurt even an itty-bitty fly. And yet I'm telling you—

I'm going to kill a dame! All because of what? All because of the way dames get in and out of elevators or walk up and down city streets!

Ever try, when you're in a rush, to get into an elevator or out of one, with a Nice Lady preceeding you? Or maybe try to pass a couple of them when you're tearing down the street? Then, stranger, you'll know what I feel and why I feel it—and HOW you'll know!

There is only one thing on earth more maddening, exasperating, infuriating and conducive to violent murder than the dawdling dame—and that is two of 'em. Here we are in a 100-miles-per-hour, machine age world, with endless high-power contrivances speeding up our tempo and bustling our rhina. Yet, unless she has a Moon Eater goading her into action, the average female meanders along as though she were still in the ox-cart era, with nothing to do and all day to do it in.

Even that wouldn't be so bad if she'd manage her meandering with some consideration for public traffic. But she doesn't. First she goes this way . . . Then she goes that . . . Then she oscillates in the center . . . Then she stands stock-still while she tells Mabel all about her infected wisdom tooth.

And all the time you're behind her, ducking hither and yon like a jackrabbit, with your tempera-ture shooting and your murder-year-mourning by leaps and bounds.

But that isn't the only way dames block traffic. They do not confine their dawdling to elevators and pavements. They likewise think that way. "Ever try to argue with a woman?"

First she goes this way—Then she goes that—Then she jiggles around—'N'backs 'n' fills—'N' hee's 'n' haws—Then she bucks—plants her four feet with all toes spread—and the devil himself couldn't budge her.

Or maybe she sits down and has a Good, Hard Cry. Which nothing short of six pairs of chiffon stockings, four rhinestone clips and a new permanent, a bottle of the latest perfume and a theater party for her Girl Friends can pacify.

How do I know all this? Because I'm a dame myself—and that's the way I argue! But I'm telling you, sisters, it's bad medicine and we're doing ourselves no good by the practice. This is 1936—and we're supposed to be free, equal and happy nations. Then, for the luvva Pete, let's act and stop blocking the traffic!

Willy Falls Asleep After Tiring Visit Of City Animals

By Mary Graham Bonner

WILLY NILLY was so tired he did not know what to do. A little grouse-like man had certainly been busy with the visiting animals, but now that they had gone Puddle Muddle was his own peaceful self once more.

"I should do so many things," said Willy Nilly.

"Come and swim. It will rest you more than anything," quacked Mrs. Quacko Duck, and she led the way toward her favorite spot.

So Willy Nilly and the others all went swimming and felt cool and refreshed after they had splashed about in Mrs. Quacko's clean pond.

But that evening Willy Nilly felt he was so tired that he could not hold up his head.

"I don't know what is the matter with me," he said, "but I'm exhausted." barked Rip.

"I should not have had such a foolish idea."

"It wasn't foolish," said Willy Nilly. "I think you did a very fine thing to give others a chance to enjoy our little settlement."

"But you are all worn out," Rip said. "And you are more important than any visitors."

The Puddle Muddlers made Willy Nilly lie down and Mrs. Quacko Duck rubbed his feet with brook liniment. Rip ran back and forth to the pantry and fixed the supper. Everyone was anxious to help.

The bears sang little grown songs and before long poor Willy Nilly was asleep. And he rested and he rested and he rested and they all went around on tiptoes so as not to disturb him.

Conversation On Love

The Daily Short Story

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.
See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights organized society above the rights of individuals.

"Girls, really I don't know. But I suspect that most women enjoy talking to their lovers and husbands about love longer and more frequently than lovers and husbands do their sweethearts and wives, and that women talk more about love to each other than men, simply because to most women men love is a vital, long experience. More men than women have outside interests—sports, business, inventions, science, etc., etc.—and with such men, at least, love is only a hobby to fill their entire work."

"No. Hosts of things are worth doing only moderately well. Prof. E. L. Thorndike, leading educator, has suggested it is not worth while to spend a word almost right, so it is plain that he means, should be only moderately penalized—not set down as an error. Also in your vocabulary it is worth knowing all the meanings of a word in order to use it for your special purpose. For example, 'carbon' the average person mostly means something that clogs up his auto cylinder. To a chemist it would mean only more."

Well-Preserved

By Raymond Cleaver

PENSIVELY Kittle Amory flipped the pages of the "History of the Class of '11, Cotango University." She had just read long accounts of the careers of Carlyle Westgard and John Wyant, but she saw that Harvey Wyant was dismissed in one paragraph.

"D. Harvey Wyant—Graduated with the degree of B.S. in College of Mining Engineering. Left at once for South America. The compilers of this history have been unable to learn anything further of him."

Kittle spoke to the sister-in-law who had lived with her since the death of her husband. "It's strange that nobody knows what became of Harvey Wyant," she said. "In college they used to call John, Carlyle and Harvey the Three Musketeers and they were all in love with me."

"I notice that you didn't marry any of them," the other woman put in waspishly.

Kittle's eyes, still beautifully blue, became thoughtful. "John did his best to make me wear his fraternity pin and Carlyle proposed to me in the back entry by the refrigerator at an Alpha Nu dance—but Harvey never came to the point, though I gave him several chances at our senior ball."

"Yes, I'm sure you did," her sister-in-law returned heartily. "Before going to Carlyle's reunion next week," she announced, "I'll have Jules drive me out to Cotango in the car. On the way I'll pick up John and Carlyle. Carlyle never married and John's a widower."

"Before going to Carlyle's reunion," she said, "I'll have Jules drive me out to Cotango in the car. On the way I'll pick up John and Carlyle. Carlyle never married and John's a widower."

"Before going to Carlyle's reunion," she said, "I'll have Jules drive me out to Cotango in the car. On the way I'll pick up John and Carlyle. Carlyle never married and John's a widower."

"I hope to goodness that John turns out better," Kittle said to herself next day as her car drew up before the substantial buildings of the Wilder Chemical Works. But when John came out to the main office to greet her she saw that he was bald as an onion, with a white mustache instead of the red one she remembered. He looked too well fed and seemed immensely glad to see her. He told her she had not changed at all.

Kittle said that she had come to carry him off to the class reunion at old Cotango. "Splendid," he boomed. "Shirley's been telling me about you. I'll call her up and tell her I'm bringing you home. Shirley's my wife, you know—I married again."

"Oh," said Kittle. "Again?" Then into the office came Shirley herself, before her husband had even turned to the telephone. She looked a mere chit of a girl, and acted like one.

"It will be just too lovely to go to the class reunion with you," Shirley gushed. "And I'll just do on hearing you old dears talk about your pranks of 40 years ago."

"Only 25 years ago," Kittle corrected coldly. She had suddenly decided that she didn't want to go to the reunion after all. John was watching his wife with a fatuous smile. Kittle asked him about Harvey's whereabouts or well-being. That settled it. Kittle excused herself long enough to make a long-distance telephone call and make sure a telegram would arrive soon enough to get her away that night.

THE telegram was at the Wilder home ahead of them. She left immediately, eager to be free of Shirley's malicious prattle and feeling terribly elderly and fat.

Home again, she locked the class history in a bookcase, reflecting bitterly that even if she had found Harvey Wyant he would have been the same kind of wastrel as the other two. She tried to forget Shirley's slurs in a hard week of golf.

Returning from the links one afternoon she found a man at her door waiting for an answer to his ring. He was bronzed and battered, but his figure was bold and resilient. His black eyes turned on Kittle still held the fires of youth.

"I hear you've been making inquiries about me," he said as she ascended the steps.

Lifting her chin as to what she hoped was a haughty gesture, Kittle said that he had evidently come to the wrong house.

"But don't you know me?" he cried. "I'm Harvey Wyant!"

"How did you know where I lived?" Kittle gasped then tried to remember the class reunion. I met John Wyant and his wife at the class reunion. She told me that you were looking for me everywhere."

"Shirley would!" Kittle interjected bitterly as she led the way

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

THE SCRAP OF PAPER—It was a highly dramatic moment when Sir Edward Goschen, British Ambassador in Berlin, faced the German Chancellor von Bethman Hollweg on the evening of Aug. 4, 1914, with the British ultimatum based on Germany's invasion of Belgium in violation of the Treaty of London of April 12, 1839. The excited German Chancellor referred to this solemn treaty as "a scrap of paper" during that interview. A few hours later, Germany and Great Britain were in a state of war, which the violated "scrap of paper" made inevitable.

into her drawing room. Taking both her hands in his, Harvey Wyant held her off for a survey. "Same pretty old Kittle!" he said with satisfaction. "Mrs. Wyant told me that I'd find you preserved and sprightly as a girl!"

"She's a perfect cat for describing me that way!" Kittle stormed. "But my dear Kittle," Wyant spoke gravely now. "It was her description that brought me here. Otherwise I'd been afraid to risk it. I've always thought of you as you were that night of the senior ball. I wanted so to ask you to marry me—but I got buck fever—and ran away to Chile."

Melting to his knees, Kittle almost forgave Shirley Wilder. (Copyright, 1936.)

The Good Old Daze

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

WE took a bus ride over the Rum Row route the other day. And, for the first time in 17 years, there is no Rum Row. It is one with Nineveh and Tyre, and that makes three. In those days 12 miles was the limit for a quart of Scotch. Now you can get 30 miles to the quart and have enough left over the next morning to marcel the hair of the dog that bit you. The boys brought over a neat mixture of axle grease, shoe blackening, both black and brown, disinfectant, aromatic spirits of catastrophe, juniper berries and concentrated essence of leopard sweat. This stuff was mixed by accident, shaken with premeditation, sold with malice aforethought and swallowed with good wishes akimbo. The liquor of that period was poison of the most sociable blend. It killed more men than all the firing squads of history. It was the sudden death of conviviality. It was sudden and it was certain. Yet the only way in which its effects differ from the liquor of today is in the time element. In 1929 you either had to know how to swim or sail a boat. In 1936 you can drive up on a high bicycle and leave on a pogo stick. It's there for the reaching. Yet it seems the desire has gone and there is no longer any glamor in smacking your hostess in the face with a kitchen mop dipped in clam chowder. If we had our choice of 1919 and 1936, we would have to choose 1936 for there is no choice. When we speak of the good old daze we still are a bit bewildered.

HEAVY FIGHTING BETWEEN REBELS AND LOYALISTS IN GATE TO MADRID

MORE ARTILLERY SENT FROM CAPITAL

Leftists Advance Toward Zaragoza, Cutting Off City's Lights — The Forces in Seville Region Are Defeated.

MADRID, Aug. 4.—Loyal army troops fought a desperate battle in the Guadarrama mountains today as four new columns of Leftist artillery sped northward from the capital.

The insurgents threw strong detachments against the Government forces protecting the capital from a fascist advance.

The first rebel advance began dawn yesterday, advices from Somera said. The Government reported its lines repulsed the rebel attackers, who retired, leaving 30 dead in the rugged terrain. Leftist casualties were set at 84.

Officials in Madrid said they thought many artillery cadets were in the fascist regiments. These young soldiers received their training during military maneuvers in the mountains in former years.

Three new regiments were mobilized in the Leftist-controlled provinces of Alicante, Valencia and Castellon. The troop movements climaxed a day characterized by Premier Jose Giral Pereira as "a decisive triumph for the republic."

Yesterday, he said, was a "day of unshared successes."

Fighting at Other Points. The Catalan Government at Barcelona announced Leftist columns converging on Zaragoza occupied Bastago, where loyalists seized the power plant, cutting off Zaragoza's lights. Another column captured Sietamo, known as the key to Huesca.

Lieutenant-Colonel Diaz Sandino reported loyal flyers who were attacked by anti-aircraft guns at Zamora were ordered to bombard rebel headquarters.

The famous Alcazar at Toledo defied Government forces. It was surrounded by loyal militia apparently waiting for the old fortress, now a military cadet school, to run out of food.

Fighting was reported east of Cordoba. Dispatches from Badajoz said the entire Province was in the hands of the Government.

Soldiers who fled from the Fascist lines near Granada said the troops were completely demoralized, awaiting only the arrival of Leftist columns to join in defense of the Government.

A destroyer, accompanied by two planes, transported 500 Barcelona workers to Majorca Island where they were to begin an attack on Palma.

Leftist commanders in the southern province of Seville looked for additional militia to bolster their forces in the working class regions from which the Government columns were ejected after a five-day struggle.

Rail Lines Taken Over. The Ministry of Public Works announced the Government had provisionally confiscated railroad lines running between Madrid, Zaragoza and Alicante, the Northern Railroad, the Central Aragon, and the northern line.

Government announcement declared all convents had been taken over or that treasures of all churches had been confiscated. Several convents still were functioning as hospitals. Some churches had been requisitioned but many others were abandoned. It was stated the convents were occupied by Government militia or officials only when they had been abandoned by the residents.

Increases in the price of staple foods were prohibited by the Ministry of Industry and Commerce. Choice of meats, eggs and milk went to hospitals.

Residents of the capital felt a tobacco shortage as thousands of cartons of cigarettes were sent to military units. Civilian customers were limited to two packs each and had to wait in long lines at tobacco shops.

Madrid were reported to be facing shortages of food.
